Murder Suspect Arrested

(Special to the Daily Standard)

CHESTER, Ill. - A suspect in the murder-robbery of Joseph Gagnepain, 55, toll booth attendant on the Chester bridge was picked up at 2:40 a.m. this morning, the Randolph county sheriff's office reported.

Arrested by local police, sheriff's officers and highway patrol officers was Jerome Miller, 25, of Chester.

Miller was expected to be charged with armed robbery and murder today by State's Attorney Harold Cloffelter.

Gagnepain was pronounced dead in Memorial Hospital about 1 a.m. Friday.

Pete Mehrer, deputy sheriff of Randolph county, reported this morning that a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol and $38.30 were recovered from the trunk of Miller's car.

Police placed the time of the robbery-shooting at between 11 and 11:05 p.m. Thursday night.

At 10:55 p.m. a bus went through the toll gate and signed a charge ticket. At 11:05 p.m. a truck driver found Gagnepain lying on the floor but alive. Gagnepain never regained conciousness. He was shot in the head with a .38 calibre weapon. About $51 in toll money was missing from his booth.

In the intense investigation officers reported that Miller's car was parked near the bridge. They decided to get a search warrant about midnight last night and discovered the revolver and the money in the trunk of the car.

Miller, who rides back and forth from Chester to St. Louis to work and leaves his car at the bridge, was arrested on his return to his car this morning.

A suspect apprehended in Cairo yesterday was cleared of the robbery-shooting, but was charged with another crime, police said.

A MOTHER'S DAY SURPRISE will be in store for their mothers. Vanessa, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keefer, and Chris, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Yarnell, both pupils at the Carousel school, make gifts for Mother's Day. Each pupil made a small paper lace apron and a wall plaque.

U.S. Planes Shoot Down 7 MIG Fighters

SAIGON (AP) - Sweeping the skies over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes knocked down seven Communist MIG17 jet fighters today, the U.S. Air Force said. Two other MIGs were listed as probably destroyed.

The Air Force said the Communist planes were shot down during strikes in the Hanoi area.

There was no report of any American planes lost, although it had been disclosed earlier that three U.S. Air Force planes were downed over North Vietnam on Friday.

All the American fighter planes involved in the dogfights Saturday were flying from bases in Thailand, the Air Force said.

The destruction of seven MIG s in dogfighting on a single day equalled an American record set last Mar. 2.

By Saigon tabulation, U.S. pilots now have destroyed 56 of Hanoi's jet fighters in such combat against the loss of 16 American planes.

Aground U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen fought Communist detachments at three points on a great arc below the border demilitarized zone.

Fragmentary field reports told of 35 enemy dead in these actions ranging 200 miles from the Con Thien area down to the An Lao valley. There was no immediate accounting of American casualties.

Involved in the air battles were pilots flying from the Thailand bases at Ubon, Takhli and Korat, the Air Force said.

These followed raids Friday on two targets four miles from the center of Hanoit. There was heavy fire from Red guns, missiles and MIGs that day and three U.S. Air Force planes were downed.

Military headquarters said practically every strike in the Hanoi area was jumped by Communist MIGs. One of the lost jets, a Phantom F4C, was downed by the Red's slower MIG17.

The other two U.S. aircraft lost were slower Thunderchief jets-one lost to ground fire and the other to "unknown causes." Five airmen were listed as missing in action.

The toll brought to 539 the U.S. planes lost over North Viet-

Fowler Indicates Lower Taxes Will Be Needed After War's End

By STERLING F. GREEN

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler assured the nation's top industrialists today that the administration will call for major tax reductions when the war in Vietnam ends in order to continue sustained economic growth.

Fowler prepared his address for the spring meeting of the Business Council, attended by the heads of about 100 of the country's largest corporations.

He said President Johnson has set in motion "the most explicit, detailed and inclusive" planning effort ever made for a return to peace from war.

For the council, it was a switch from Friday's bad news.

The council's panel of 25 professional economic advisers reported that a $6-billion escalation in Vietnam spending was in prospect for fiscal 1968, starting next July 1. The report indicated that the estimate was drawn at least in part from government sources.

Because of a prospective $2.5-billion dip in corporation profits, this could mean a federal deficit of more than $18 billion, the professional economists said, unless Johnson's proposed income tax surcharge is enacted. Johnson forecast an $8.1-billion deficit, assuming a 6 per cent tax surcharge starting July 1.

This would make the government a net borrower of $10 billion in this calendar year, the council's consultants said, and is a major reason for the administration's continued desire to have a tax increase enacted this year.

The panel said it concurred that a tax boost would be desirable — not on July 1, but possibly Oct. 1 — for budgetary and anti-inflation reasons.

Fowler did not mention any increase in Vietnam spending, although many Washington sources have predicted another steep upturn. Instead, he emphasized that spending has been held below increases in revenues, except for the Vietnam outlays, and that government policies have left the economy in a healthy state for an end to hostilities.

He noted congressional estimates that if current spending and tax policies — other than those connected with Vietnam — were continued unchanged, the government would run a surplus of some $15 billion by 1970 and $44 billion by 1975.

Since such massive surpluses would paralyze the economy, he said, there would have to be either a great increase in federal spending "or there will be room for tax reduction spreading over many years and of a large scale nature."

"It is my strong belief that we should — and will — choose to take a large portion of this substantial fiscal dividend in the future in the form of a lighter tax burden," Fowler said.

Industrial leaders, meanwhile, were urged to unite in defense of the business system against consumerism - described as the drive in Congress and state legislatures to enact consumer protection

City Manager to Address Rotarians

Rotarians will be given an insight into city government problems Monday night at their meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

City Manager T. Raymert Miller will address the meeting.

One Injured

MATTHEWS - Edgar Stewart, 67, sustained head cuts in a two-car accident east of Matthews Friday noon.

The highway patrol said a car driven by William Hennecke, 23, Jackson, pulled out into the path of the Stewart car. Stewart was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

No Leads in Cave Search

HANNIBAL (AP) - Rescue workers resumed digging today at the mud and grey rock of a cave which they think has trapped three local boys since Wednesday.

The scene was quiet as workers made spot diggings near Murphy's Cave in hopes of breaking into passageways unreachable from the cave entrance.

There is no evidence that Craig Dowell, and brothers Billy and Joey Hoag are in the cave. But they were seen near it before they were reported missing. New highway excavations have sliced through a hill making the cave accessible.

Earth-moving equipment will be used today to excavate a completed road bed where some believe the bodies of the boys might be found.

Some searchers believe the boys may have fallen into one of the "sink holes" which have plagued the construction work and later were covered up. The sink holes result when the heavy machinery forces the collapse of one of the underground passages in the area.

A company of Missouri National Guardsmen was to remain in the area in the search and help control the spectators.

Mary Anne Bruce

Miss Bruce Soloist at Band Concert

Miss Mary Anne Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo A. Bruce, will be featured as piano soloist with the Sikeston high school band at the pop concert Monday.

Miss Bruce plays first chair oboe in the band and will play Bucalosi's "Grasshopper's Dance" as her solo piano number.

Other numbers to be played by the early division band will include "The Shadow of Your Smile," "On a Clear Day," and other Broadway and motion picture songs.

The concert will be in the outdoor band shell at the high school at 8 p.m. following open house activities.

Parents and friends of high school students are invited to tour the school Monday 6:30 to 8 p.m. during the school's open house.

Fire at Lilbourn Destroys Stores

LILBOURN -- Fire broke out during an electrical storm early today and resulted in the complete loss of three downtown business establishments valued at $50,000 to $75,000. No one was injured.

Only the rickety frames of the Western Auto Associate Store, (formerly known as The Palace), and an old theater building remain standing this morning.

The three buildings are adjacent to each other and are located on Main street.

Intense heat from the burning brick buildings burst the plate glass windows in three business establishments across the street.

The Lilbourn volunteer fire department was called to the scene at 3 a.m. today. Volunteer firemen of the New Madrid fire department came to their aid at about 4 a.m.

The fire was brought under control at about 5:30 a.m., but remaining embers were still burning at 10 a.m. today.

A doctor's office adjacent to the Western Auto building was threatened by the blazing flames. A firewall divides the two buildings, but the heat caused minor damage to the inside of the office.

Cause of the fire was not determined, but there was speculation that it was caused by lightning, Fred Saltzman, manager of the Western Auto store, said.

The fire was believed to have started in the rear of the Western Auto store or the rear of the restaurant, Saltzman said.

Alumni Want Funds Restored

COLUMBIA (AP) -- The University of Missouri Alumni Association is appealing to the Missouri Senate to restore some appropriations that were cut by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The committee chopped $10 million from the capital improvements recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and approved by the House.

The association's national board said in a resolution that "lack of these facilities will severely affect the academic offerings extended to the thousands of present and future young people of the state."

The Senate committee eliminated $7.6 million for a proposed multi-purpose auditorium; $2.5 million for a chemistry building addition; $350,000 for an addition to the university system building, and $200,000 of $400,000 requested for future campus sites.

Delinquency Is Contagious: Craig

By BARBARA LACY

"Delinquency is contagious, it can become an epidemic," Judge Marshall Craig told a joint dinner meeting of the Scott County child welfare advisory committee and Scott County welfare commission Friday night at the El Capri restaurant. About 50 persons attended the annual meeting.

Speaking on "Services to Children," Judge Craig traced the development of the juvenile court system in our country and reviewed changes in the court's philosophy toward helping young people in trouble.

"Each generation has had their problem children," he said. "Even the Bible speaks of juvenile delinquency. Last year 1,304,000 children in the United States went to juvenile court in one capacity or another, ranging from delinquency to traffic violations. Of these, 160,000 were involved in neglect cases.

"Children used to be treated in court as adults. They were tried and prosecuted as adults, and if convicted, they were placed in prison with adult criminals."

We have since learned that we don't solve our problems by keeping our children in jail. It's much easier to help or change children when they are young, than when they are older and more matured, and have committed themselves to a life of delinquency.

Over the years court treatment of children has changed. Juveniles are now treated under special laws and court procedures.

The first juvenile court was set up in 1899, establishing separate hearings for children. Today, our sessions are held in private and the records are kept confidential. The parents of the delinquents are expected to attend the hearings, as are the juvenile court staff, the child welfare worker and the school counselors.

"The problems of youth in our community are the same as in other communities. Each child is different and about 30 individual cases are heard each time the juvenile court meets, which is one Saturday a month.

"We hold juvenile court on Saturdays so that the child does not have to miss school. Few counties in the state have this practice," he added.

Judge Craig said that contrary to some popular opinion, law and social work were seeking the same goals: justice, welfare and help for the individual.

Judge Craig pointed out the need for foster family homes as well as shelter homes. Foster family homes are used for children who can not be cared for in their own home because of parental neglect, abuse or abandonment. Shelter homes would be used for children returning from institutions such as the state training schools in Boonville and Chillicothe. These children would return to society on a gradual basis.

"Much public education and understanding of the children involved in juvenile court is needed," he continued. "The court serves as a parent when the natural parents fail to meet the child's basic needs. Some parents can be helped to provide better care, training and supervision, but in other cases the child needs to be removed for his own protection.

"Although the parents are often to blame," he concluded, "the community also has some responsibility toward the group."

Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, Scott County welfare director, announced that Gary Thurman has been appointed as the second child welfare worker for Scott County. He will be joining Mrs. Gwen McDonough in providing services to neglected and dependent children, to unmarried mothers and to children in foster and adoptive homes.

The members of the county welfare commission are Charles Simpson, W. G. "Bud" Mason, William Bess and M. E. Gisi.

The members of the child welfare advisory committee are Mrs. Margaret Cain, Mrs. Glenda Davis, Jim Mac Emerson, Mrs. Melvin Glueck, Mrs. Milem Limbaugh, Mrs. Barbara Moore, Mrs. K. M. Streeter, Donald Fulton, Ollie Amick and William Moore.

Others attending the meeting included the Scott county court judges, the prosecuting attorney and members of the district and county welfare offices.

Rain Hits Area

A severe thunderstorm watch was issued today for parts of southeast Missouri.

"The threat of a few severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds will exist in these areas from 12 noon until 6 p.m. CDT, this afternoon.

"The severe thunderstorms are expected in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from 30 miles west of Dyersburg, Tenn., to 30 miles northeast of Chattanooga, Tenn."

The weather man has been unkind to residents of the lower Bootheel the past three days as rain, hail and strong winds have tormented the area.

Rain at Kennett yesterday measured 6.9 inches and 8.7 since the start Thursday.

Sikeston's rain measured .68 of an inch in the 24-hour period ending today at 7:30 a.m.

Lightning struck an electrical line above a white way pole in front of the C&H Service Station, 808 West Malone, at 9:15 p.m. Friday and darkened the west entrance to Sikeston from the city limits to Ferrell's Castle.

The white way was without power for about 20 minutes. Electrical service to Malone and Hyde Inc., 1500 West Malone, and the Gulf Oil Corp, Chemical Dept., 1600 West Malone, also were affected, George Robinson, line superintendent for the Board of Public Works, said.

The shortage resulted when two fuses blew on a tap line near the area where the lightning struck, Robinson said.

Lighting knocked out radio transmitting towers at Kennett and Poplar Bluff. The KBOA radio tower in Kennett was struck by lightning, and the Missouri highway patrol tower at Poplar Bluff was damaged about midnight last night.

A reported hail storm at Hayti this morning damaged roof tops and windows as two inches of hail fell in less than an hour.

Hayti reported five inches of rain this morning.

Water has caused small streams in the lower part of the Bootheel to overflow over highways, and damage to farm land is expected to be heavy.

An unexpected hail storm swept through the Bootheel area late Thursday night, causing extensive damage to crops, houses and business buildings, especially in the Hornersville area.

The huge ice balls, reportedly the size of baseballs, knocked out windows and damaged roofs in Hornersville where a path of destruction a little larger than the town itself was reported.

Mrs. Goldie Young, wife of Hornersville City Marshal J.D. Young, said "The windows on the north side of our house were knocked out by the hail and a wheat field across the road from our house looked as though a shredder had gone over it."

The most extensively damaged building in this small Bootheel community was the elementary school where more than 70 windows were reported knocked out by the hailstones.

The Kennett area witnessed hail about the size of mothballs while Senath reported the hail was about one and a quarter inches in diameter.

The hail storm was accompanied by rain and an electrical storm. Precipitation left on the Bootheel soil Thursday night amounted to 1.07 inches.

First MCB Star For East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE - The city has received the first star for the education section of Community Betterment.

This is the first received in any of the five categories, and it is to be erected early next week on Community Betterment signs located at Big Book Corner and at the city limits on Highway 80 west.

The Five Star evaluation form under education received here states: "This community has been evaluated by my office on present status of the education system. The community has met the minimum criteria and is therefore entitled to display a star for education."

Huey D. Cook, general supervisor, state department of education, wrote:

"I am happy to recommend the community of East Prairie for the star in education. Last school year they had a AA-6-2-4 classification. At the present time they are in process of building and remodeling some existing buildings at an estimated cost of $300,000. I'm sure you will find Ray Melton, superintendent of the East Prairie School System most co-operative in discussing any deficiences which he feels exist in the school system."

Under utilities, East Prairie has been evaluated on present status of the sewer system and has met the minimum criteria for sewers. Other categories which must be approved under utilities are water and street lighting in order that the city will be eligible to receive another star.

Health services and fire protection have also met the minimum criteria under the heading of community services. Others which must be met under this heading are police protection and leisure time activity.

All these projects are being worked on, it was reported.

Illinois Man Fined $123

Henry Wright, Pulaski, Ill., was fined a total of $123 on four charges Friday in city court. City Judge W. L. George presided in the absence of E.R. Schrader.

Wright was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated; $25 each on charges of resisting arrest and carrying a concealed weapon and $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

N. J. Warthan, 319 Smith, was fined $12 on a charge of public intoxication.

Rosie Lee Todd, 946 Lake, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Homer L. Greene, 117 West Wakefield, was fined $23 on charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Ike McCormick, 140 Fifth Street, was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated and $15 on a charge of littering.

Lucy Ann Newton, Morehouse, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Margaret Griffin, Charleston, was fined $56 on a charge of petit larceny.

'Hound' Eludes Police Chase

Police received a report Friday evening that a large greyhound was running loose in the 600 block of Holly Hill, and jumping over high fences.

Residents of the area became concerned that the large dog might injure someone, so they notified police.

Officers James Sindle and Dolph Webb arrived on the scene at about 7 p.m. and attempted to catch the dog. The report filed with the radio dispatcher quoted the officers as saying, "He just ran off and left us."

The greyhound tunred out to be a great dane owned by W.P. Sappenfield. The owner caught the dog later in the evening, police reported.

In other police activity, Raymert Miller, 719 Mimosa, reported Friday that an electric shaver valued at $15 was taken from the glove compartment of his automobile Monday night while it was parked on Luther street.

Leeta Smith and Scott Smith Jr., Box 494, Sikeston, were each issued a summons Friday charging them with allowing their son to violate the curfew, police reported.

John H. Stevenson, 208 Westgate, was arrested today on Felker street and charged with public intoxication, police said.

East Prairie Pool Will Open May 30

EAST PRAIRIE - Repairs and repainting are underway at the city swimming pool, Mayor Ed Felts said, so that the pool will be ready to open as usual on May 30, Memorial Day.

The city's annual Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week will be held May 22-27. City trucks will pick up all trash which is placed in containers near the street on Tuesday and Thursday of that week.

Alderman Joe Watson is in charge of the program, which will aid in the Community Betterment project. He said the mayor and council join him in urging East Prairie residents to participate in the campaign.

At a city council meeting Watson was appointed president of the city board; he will act as mayor in Felts' absence.

The council discussed a new franchise for the Associated Natural Gas Co. The city attorney is drawing up an ordinance calling for an election to vote on the new franchise. The ordinance is expected to be ready by the June meeting, and the election will be held soon afterward.

The gas franchise, which expires in October, was for 20 years, calling for the company to pay the city a franchise tax of 2 per cent of gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills. The proposed new franchise would be for 10 years with two five-year options to renew; it may be canceled at the end of the 10 years.

At the end of the 10 years, negotiations can be made, and the option renewed. The new franchise calls for 5 per cent of the gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills to be paid to the city, in comparison with the 2 per cent paid under the past franchise.

Procedure to be followed by the city when complaints from property holders are received about outdoor toilets, trash, cans and general litter on property near them, was discussed, and the ordinances on these matters were checked. This comes under ordinances covered by the Nuisance Clause, and steps are being taken by the board to handle these complaints, and correct the condition.

The auditing report was received at the meeting, and Mayor Felts stated there is a copy at city hall, and he also has one, and any interested citizen may see the report at either place.

An outline of the budget for the coming year was also received by the board, and at present Mayor Felts is working on that budget to present to the council during the June meeting for their approval.

A petition was received by the board from Mrs. L. J. Falkoff and Mrs. Leola B. Hopgood, asking that the dirt fill between the sidewalk and the curb beside Falkoff's Ben Franklin Store and beside the building owned by Mrs. Hopgood, where the Dollar Store now is, be either blacktopped or concreted. The board is securing advisement on the cost of such a project.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE DRUG CONTROVERSY

The Senate Monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), begins hearings on drug prices on Monday (May 15).

Headlines rather than legislation is the outlook for new Senate hearings on drug prices. The principal effect of the Kefauver hearings of 1959-62 was to reinforce industry opposition to price and labeling controls. Drug industry interests seem to remain confident that they will emerge relatively unscathed from the encounter coming up on Capitol Hill.

The mid-May investigation will be headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), successor as chairman of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee to Sen. Russell Long (D La.) Nelson will be relying heavily for his material on alleged drug pricing abuses on a newly-published Handbook of Prescription Drugs, by Dr. Richard Burack of the Harvard Medical School faculty.

It already has become a cliche that the Burack book will have the same popular impact that Ralph Nader's Unsafe at Any Speed had on automobile safety. In the preface to the book, Dr. George Nichols, Jr., Clinical Professor of Medicine at Harvard, acclaims it as providing the practicing physician "with a much-needed guide for simpler and more effective therapy."

Dr. Burack writes: "For example, CIBA, the enormous Switzerland-based company, offered to sell to the United States government for about 60¢ a quantity and quality of reserpine (a drug to lower blood pressure) for which the corner pharmacist buys and dispenes it as Serpasil." CIBA actually didn't win the government contract. It was underbid by another company willing to sell the same batch for 51¢.

All drugs have a generic, or official name, but usually pharmaceutical manufacturers sell by an unofficial or brand name. The New Republic observes: "The drug companies spend $600 million a year in advertising, to din brand-names into the heads of patients and doctors. As a result, 90 per cent of all prescriptions are written for brand-names, which sometimes are easier to pronounce, spell and remember, but often are expensive."

Dr. Burack's handbook abounds in examples. Penicillin G, the basic drug, was introduced on a wide scale in 1942. It is unpatented. Squibb offers Penicillin G under the brand-name "Petids" and charges $6.62 for 100 tablets. A lesser-known company will sell the same quantity of Penicillin G for 92¢.

The big drug companies say these small companies are "copiers" rather than developers. They stress the cost of the research in which they are constantly engaged - 2,000 experiments may produce only one marketable drug. They also place heavy emphasis on "quality control."

C. Joseph Stetler, president and general counsel of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, on March 27 told his members that a comprehensive study now under way by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the use of prescription drugs under Medicare "could bring home to the public and members of Congress the realization that quality in drug products is a vital ingredient; that there are significant differences in products made by different manufacturers; that the best ultimate gauge of the purity and effectiveness of a given product is the proven ability of a known manufacturer and the reputation for high quality products he has acquired...over the years."

With the passage of federal traffic safety legislation, the field of traffic engineering now offers unparalleled career opportunities to those who can qualify.

This is the opinion of Russell I. Brown, president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety in Washington, D.C.

Said Brown, "Studies have shown that traffic safety efforts can be greatly improved in the area of highway design and traffic control if the present 20 percent shortage of trained highway transportation engineers can be overcome.

"Fourteen hundred trained engineers are needed to staff existing job openings, right now," he added.

In many cities and towns, traffic engineers bear primary responsibility for designing and maintaining safe roads and a good traffic safety record. They are the ones who study road conditions, accident sites and hazardous locations in an effort to correct them with wider lanes, standard reflective traffic signs and stabilized road shoulders.

The new safety legislation, Brown said, authorizes a grant fellowship program, federally financed, that should provide up to 500 fellowships in graduate highway transportation engineering in the next three years. Today, he maintains, there are only 34 graduate fellowships offered to deserving young engineers by government and industry, but graduate schools have room for 80 to 100 more students to take existing courses.

"If the states and communities implement this federal program, we should be able to train more engineers, and to expand available courses in traffic engineering at more colleges and universities, so that those empty design chairs can be filled with life-saving design talent," he asserts.

The chance to study - to save lives on our highways - is now a challenging reality. "Driver's Seat" hopes the challenge is accepted.

RIESEL BEATS FIELD ON CIA LABOR OPERATIONS BY FULL WEEK

Few stories have churned the press, the public, and the influential labor movement as has the series of revelations of CIA front operations on the international labor scene. And virtually each time there's been a headline explosion of CIA-labor "cover" stories, our columnist Victor Riesel has been well ahead.

Characteristically, Riesel was a full week ahead of the field in predicting that the CIA story would be the focal point of the AFL-CIO spring session.

On May 1 Riesel filed his story, headlined "New CIA Saga Expected to Whip Up Global Storm." A week later, on May 7 on the West Coast and on May 8 in the Eastern papers, the story broke furiously. But despite the length of the front page pieces, they lacked the background details of Riesel's terse and hard-hitting and objective column. Here is another exclusive report.

BANNING THE 'BUG' HANDCUFFS POLICE

Since the Republic has survived in freedom for 178 years under a Constitution that permits police to intrude on private property, search through private papers and effects and confiscate evidence under authority of court - issued warrants, it is a little difficult to understand the horror that is aroused among some people by the idea of legalized wiretapping or eavesdropping in criminal investigation.

Wiretapping and other forms of electronic eavesdropping are merely extensions of the traditional form of search and seizure of evidence, without which law enforcement would be crippled. It is strange that the law is being asked to foreswear the use of these technological aids but not others. Logically, they should also be denied the use of high - speed cars and two -way radios.

There have been police abuses even under the Constitution. In recent years, court decisions refining the rules governing the scope of warrants, the admissibility of evidence obtained by means of them and the use of confessions have strengthened the safeguards surrounding the rights of suspected persons. There is no reason why these rules should not be equally applicable to information gained by electronic means.

Nonpolice abuse of this new technology is another matter entirely. Without question, the unauthorized eavesdropping of private conversations should be prohibited by law, just as is the unauthorized physical intrusion into private homes.

President Johnson, however, wants Congress to pass a total ban on wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping except in cases involving the national security.

A bill introduced by Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas would allow wiretapping (but not bugging) by court order in federal investigations of a limited number of crimes and would also legalize the use in state courts of wiretapping evidence obtained in accordance with state laws.

Testifying before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the subject, Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U. S. Court of Appeals recommended that the bill be broadened to include electronic eavesdropping as well as wiretapping and that their use be authorized in any federal crime.

What it comes down to is this: Either we, the people, trust our police and our courts or we do not. Or if we do not trust them, either we exercise ultimate control over them, through our legislators, or we do not.

But if we have been able to trust them in the matter of physical search and seizure of criminal evidence, it is not clear just what terrible danger is now posed by permitting them a more remote form of this power.

Indeed, the danger may lie in doing the opposite.

MONEY REMOVES INTERFERENCE IN FUNNY WAYS

The ignorant hillbilly went in to buy a new Cadillac, and the salesman said it would cost him about $5000. So he reached for his roll and started to peel off $1000 bills. "Wait a minute, sir," the amazed salesman said. "If you pay cash, you can have a discount."

The hillbilly did not know what a discount was, so he said he'd be back in a few minutes. Then he went to a restaurant near by and ordered coffee. When the waitress brought it, he asked her if she knew what a discount was? "Certainly," she said. "That's when you take off something for cash."

"Well," said our boy, "what would you take off for $5000?" The waitress blinked, "Honey," she said, "would these earrings be in the way?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Members of the Soviet Embassy staff, seized with a sudden enthusiasm for fishing, would like to try their luck in capitalist streams. The question now awaiting Soviet-American agreement is whether they will go after salt-water fish or fresh - water fish and how much it will cost.

Diplomatic negotiations on this problem began after the Russians purchased an old hotel on a tributary flowing into the Chesapeake Bay which they are patching up for use as a recreation center.

The tributary is better known for its stinging nettles than for its fish, but the Russians are determined to go fishing anyway.

Anxious to obey the law, they applied to the Maryland authorities for fishing licenses and were informed that no licenses are required for salt - water fishing.

Not wanting to be confined to their nettle- infested tributary, the Russians also asked about fresh- water fishing, which requires a license of $1 for a Marylander, $10 for anyone out of state. Asked how many licenses it would need, the Soviety Embassy sent a list of eighty - five names.

This involved $850 in state revenue, and the Department of Game and Inland Fish, typically bureaucratic, referred the problem to Maryland's aggressive new Attorney General, Bill Burch. He consulted the statutes, but could find no legal ground for providing Russian diplomats with free fishing licenses.

Mindful of LBJ's policy of building bridges with the East, Burch suggested a diplomatic solution. The law allows 20 free fishing licenses for the President of the United States, also 20 free license for each of the state governors.

He suggested that the Russian Embassy ask the President for his quota of 20 license, since LBJ is the godfather of Soviet-American understanding. Then the governors of New York, New Jersey and a couple of other states might contribute 20 licenses each. This would take care of enough courtesy licenses.

By the time this was done, however, the fishing season would be over, or half the Soviet staff would be back in Moscow on summer vacation.

LAST ROOSEVELT POLITICIAN

Despite the fact that politics is supposed to be thicker than blood in a Roosevelt, only one member of FDR's large family is still actively running for office. He is Elliott Roosevelt, who is running for reelection as Mayor of Miami Beach next week.

Perhaps because the Roosevelt name still counts for a lot in Washington, the affable, crew-cut mayor has wangled more benefits out of the federal government in two years than Miami Beach had received for the past 50 years.

Some federal officials have complained privately that Miami Beach, under Elliott, has been treated more like a depressed area than the nation's no. 1 resort city. At any rate, in the past two years he has obtained a staggering $3,350,000 in government grants to improve Miami Beach.

Apparently Elliott considers this only the beginning. He is now badgering the federal government to help foot the bill for filling in Pelican Island, which would add another 180 acres to Miami Beach for an 18-hole championship golf course.

Roosevelt has also made repeated trips to Washington to persuade both the Democratic and Republican parties to bring their national conventions to Miami Beach. He has promised a hotel for each delegation, "Sunshine Twins" to greet and assist each delegation, even babysitting service for mothers who want to bring their children. Exulted Roosevelt's effervescent wife Patty: "We can make them think they have died and gone to heaven."

Elliott Roosevelt is the hero of Miami Beach's senior citizens who still remember the late FDR.

Four candidates are running against him in the elections next week.

CONGRESSMAN FROM STRAWBERRYLAND

Rep. John R. Rarick, the congressman who defeated Jimmy Morrison to represent the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana, has now made at least one contribution to congressional debate, and has laid an egg.

Rarick defeated Morrison, one of the colorful standbys of the old south, with a rip-roaring racist campaign because Jimmy voted once for civil rights.

The other day Rarick stood up on the house floor and denounced "Shriver's Peace Corps" for paying the expenses of "vacationing idealists" in Tanzania, who "brawled in bars and clubs and appeared in short - shorts or tight trousers, growing long beards."

"Little wonder we are losing friends in Africa," proclaimed the new congressman from Louisiana. And he inserted a clipping in the congressional record quoting J. Kasubi, a member of the Tanzanian National Assembly.

What the congressman from the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana failed to do, however, was check his facts. The facts are:

First, that Shriver has not been head of the peace corps for more than a year.

Second, J. Kasubi is the leading Communist in the Tanzanian Parliament, bent on trying to undermine the prestige of the United States.

Third, the 297 members of the peace corps in Tanzania are doing such a good job that they are winning Tanzania away from its pro-Communist status. This is why Kasubi is so sore, and anxious to castigate the peace corps.

The new congressman from Louisiana should take a look at the enlightening book of William Attwood, our ex-Ambassador to Guinea and to Kenya, "The Reds and the Blacks," in which Attwood tells of the progress we have made in Africa, in part through the peace corps. Attwood has now retired from diplomacy and is editor of Look Magazine, so can write as an impartial observer.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Angry Drive Launched For Nationwide No - Strike, No-Lockout Pact for Vietnam War Duration.

Washington, D. C.: -- In a closed - door, showdown session with some tense but even-tempered Senators seeking to prod President Johnson into whipping up an emergency strike - curbing law, the Chief Executive said he has had the "best brains" in the country working on it but that they simply can't agree on a solution.

He was deadly serious when he said the experts simply have no answer. They can't get together on any legal extinguisher to put out the labor-management flash fires.

It was in the privacy of the Cabinet room one recent Friday that the President faced his determined interlocutors -- a small group led by Senators Jack Javits and Wayne Morse.

"You know I love you, Mr. President," said Javits, "but I have my responsibilities. You pointed out in '66, in your State of the Union message, that you would have legislation on emergency strikes. We are still waiting for it."

"I made that statement," the president replied, "and I'll deliver on it. I appointed a task force and put some of the country's best brains on it to give me advice. And there is great disagreement among these experts. When they give me a report, I'll carry it to the Congress.

"I did not realize the enormity of these problems."

The President then asked the Senators not to mix the temporary rail moratorium bill with the matter of permanent national strike legislation. He asked them to go up the Hill and deliver to him to head off a wartime rail strike.

They did. But no one was in a rougher, perhaps more angry, mood than the veteran horse-breeder and infighter, Wayne Morse, the gentleman from Oregon who had been discussing the matter at breakfasts and lunches with the President.

There was nothing bitter or Pollyannish in Morse's voice or credo as we talked later about the great industrial rebellions of 1967. The Senator--who has as much knowledge of the labor movement as any consortium of university advanced studies libraries -- has a simplistic approach.

The public and the nation come first. No right to strike, no right to lockout is absolute.

Especially in time of war. And this is wartime.

He wants no government by lockout and picket line, but rather government by law "doing justice to all our people."

"It is just too bad that we don't have labor and management leadership in this country," asserted Morse, "which would give a no - strike, no-lockout pledge during this war. All during World War II labor sat with me (on the National War Labor Board -- VR) and voted finality in case after case.

"I'm saying now the controlling thing is the war. We just can't take a position that they have the right to strike. This is a relative right. But what of the public right which is so far superior?

"I am going to fight for a no-strike, no - lockout pledge from labor and management as we had during the war. They can't accuse me of not being a liberal, either.

"I'm opposed to this Vietnam war completely. No one wants to get out of Vietnam as much as I do. I have fought with the President on this. Everybody knows how I stand.

"But no one can justify stopping the railroads. It is unthinkable in wartime. There must be no stoppage on the lines. And we should have that old no - strike, no - lockout agreement for the duration."

Morse also opposed seizure of the rails by the U. S. Such action, he conjectured, would result in long litigation. It would also be costly.

"The government would have to put in personnel and defend itself in court for ten years against all sorts of suits. The price eventually would be in the millions.

"They're playing politics with seizure," he mused. "There is only one way out now -- that no - strike pledge. Of course, the President doesn't legislate. Congress regulates interstate commerce.

"We need not wait for him and his experts. I'm going to keep fighting whether the President sends up legislation or not, if we don't get that no - strike, no - lockout agreement."

Congress has no fury like Wayne Morse spurred (eq).

An Editor's Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE PUZZLEMENT OF FREEDOM

THAT WAS a fine rhubarb that closed Catholic University in Washington a couple of weeks ago, following a mass walk-out by students, priests, nuns and faculty over the dismissal of a 33-year-old assistant professor of moral theology, Father Charles E. Curran. After six tumultuous days he was reinstated.

Father Curran got the heave-ho at a Chicago meeting of the cardinals and bishops who dominate the board of trustees. He had openly quarreled with the Church's traditional stand on birth control, and he had delivered a series of lectures last fall in which he argued that instead of handing down absolutist decrees on morality the Church should "consult the experience of Christian people."

FATHER CURRAN'S placard-waving supporters, who gathered en masse to vote the walkout, were no beatnik types trying to legalize pot and popularize free love. They were eminently respectable Catholics, many of them already in or oriented toward the priesthood.

Their spokesmen made it plain that in view of the second Ecumenical Council they felt that the Church hierarchy had agreed to listen more carefully to the laity and the clergy.

But before we hang the poor board of trustees, let's try to see it their way. If what Father Curran had committed was not heresy it would, as Damon Runyon might have put it, do until heresy came along. Until Pope John opened up the windows with his Ecumenical call it would certainly have been heresy, and there is still no clearly defined area in which the priesthood may freely quarrel with a repeated and reiterated position of the Church on a high moral matter.

THE BISHOPS and cardinals who run Catholic U. are under an ancient admonition to see that what passes as Catholic teaching does not endanger the welfare of the souls of the taught.

HERE, therefore, was not a simple struggle between good and evil, but a clash between people dedicated to conflicting ideas of good.

No one suggested that Father Curran be dragged before an Inquisition and turned over to the tender ministrations of a Torquemada. He didn't even face joblessness. Fordham, an equally prestigious Catholic university, quickly offered him a contract.

I FIND myself admiring Father Curran's bravery and in total sympathy with what he tried to teach. But I would have waved my placard gently in view of the dilemma facing the board. They are, by definition of their duties, responsible for how Catholic U. performs. If the university is to be run, instead, to suit the faculty and the students the board abdicates this responsibility.

Out of this, perhaps, a rule may be drawn. A college administration can divest themselves of responsibility for what is taught and how.

NOW HERE comes the sticky part: A college or university, to amount to anything, must attract a faculty that is eager for and dedicated to the discovery of new truths. These truths will often go beyond the philosophies of even the wisest administrators and the smartest boards. Some may appear to be shocking. But there must be wide latitude for men of demonstrated scholarship to research their fields and to both publish and teach their conclusions.

But wide doesn't mean limitless. No university is under any obligation to retain a professor of astronomy who maintains that the moon is made of green cheese, even if no one has yet brought back a sample of what it really is made of. There remains a realm of reasonable conclusions, even if absolute truth is unobtainable.

Similarly, no college should be required to provide both with lifetime support and with a lifetime audience an advocate of barnyard morality or drug - taking or the overthrow of popular government by violence and subversion. "Free speech" doesn't put anyone under an obligation to pay you to say it, nor even to provide you with a platform.

FATHER CURRAN lashed out against "absolutist decrees." The professor who says "In the interest of academic freedom you must hire me to teach whatever I doggone please" is handing down an absolutist decree.

Freedom is a puzzlement. It is neither anarchy nor a mathematical formula. It requires a lot of common sense.

Miss Phyllis Wofford Says Vows With Gary E. Tippen

BLOOMFIELD -- Miss Phyllis Sue Wofford and Gary Edwin Tippen were married April 22 at 3:30 p.m. in the Mount Gilead Baptist church.

The Rev. Elmer Cates officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Wofford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wofford, route two, and the groom's mother is Mrs. Mary Tippen.

Baskets of white mums and palms decorated the sanctuary of the church.

Mrs. Clarice Goldsmith of Malden, pianist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Ruth Mallory, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her dress was a pearl accented and scalloped Chantilly lace redingote revealing an A-line silk organza gown. The gown featured a scalloped sabrina neckline. The lace cage effect swept to a watteau chapel train.

Her headpiece was encrusted with pearls and held a four tiered veil of silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white pompons centered with two white orchids.

Mrs. Deloris May was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Swallows of St. Louis and Miss Shirley Mills of Dexter.

The bride's attendants wore yellow chiffon empire dresses with matching Venetian lace around the midriff and sleeves. The gowns featured sabrina necklines and shirred watteau backs. Their dyed - to - match headpieces were yellow chiffon drops matching the lace on their dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow pompon mums.

Miss Amanda Jennings of St. Charles, cousin of bride, was flower girl. She wore a white dress and a wreath of yellow pompon mums in her hair. She carried a white basket with yellow rose petals.

Scott Hart of Burna, Ky., cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Richard May was best man. Steven Tippen, brother of the groom, and Lonnie Mallory were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a celery green colored dress with matching jacket. Her corsage was yellow rose buds. Mrs. Tippen wore a two piece pink dress with a corsage of white rose buds.

The reception was in the Amvet building. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth decorated in yellow. A silver candelabra decorated with yellow mums centered the table. The four tiered wedding cake was decorated in white and yellow. A silver punch bowl appointed the table.

Mrs. Lucille Bennett, Miss Connie Bennett, Miss Rhonda Hamby and Mrs. Wanda Hart served at the reception.

The couple will live at 1406 East Elk in Dexter.

Mrs. Tippen is a secretary of the Missouri Division of Health in Poplar Bluff. Her husband is a teacher at Bernie junior high school.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cason, Flint, Mich.; Mrs. L. W. Yarbrough, Memphis, Tenn.; E. J. Tippen, Kennett; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Revelle and Mrs. Maggie Wilson, all of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hart, all of Burna, Ky.; Mrs. J. B. Wofford, Barlow, Ky.; Mrs. W. T. Wofford, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jennings, St. Charles; Mrs. Roy Powers and Mrs. Joe Cooley, Poplar Bluff, and Mrs. W. A. Merick and Ann, Bernie.

This is your invitation to observe MOTHER'S DAY and PENTECOST SUNDAY with us. Special recognition will be given all mothers in the morning service. You should hear the pastor's message Sunday night entitled, "TWENTY BIBLE REASONS WHY CHRISTIANS SHOULD SPEAK IN OTHER TONGUES TODAY." For all unbiased Christians, this Bible message should explode for all time the error that this apostolic experience and blessing is not for the church today. Mrs. Riley Wins Award For Poem

Mrs. Beulah Henson Riley of Cape Girardeau, a former resident of Sikeston, won the state award for literature and drama given by the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs for her poem, "Hollow Glory."

The Poem:

HOLLOW GLORY

Our dauntless astronauts search out
The trackless paths of outer space.
We nonchalantly go about
The filming of the moon's great face.
But on the earth we feel the scourge
Of war's continuous funeral dirge.

Our oceanographers probe deep
Into the wealthy ocean floor.
Neptune cannot his secrets keep
Since scientists have oped the door.
But Asian battlefields flow red,
And ravaged families mourn their dead.

Our archeologists delve beneath
The layered soil of ancient lands
For knowledged fossils can bequeath
From men long buried in the sands.
While brave young bodies--full of life
Are blown to bits in battle's strife.

We preach that brotherhood of man
Was Christ's prime message for the earth,
That only peace and goodwill can
Exemplify the Savior's birth.
But preachments falter in the path
Of guns -- the implements of wrath.

We seek a fair and goodly peace
Which meets our altruistic laws.
Our National prestige would cease
Should we withdraw without a cause.
God give us grace to seek the Light,
And lead our Nation in the right.

O hollow glory -- should we fail
To search and find the Holy Grail!

Class Meets

The Betty Madeline class of the Second General Baptist church met Tuesday with eight members attending.

Members answered roll call by reciting their favorite Bible verse.

President Lema Duncan presided. Ora Hazel led in prayer. Evelyn Dockins read the minutes.

Mary Crowley read and discussed "The Secret of Happiness" by the Rev. Billy Graham. The class sent 10 get well cards and a floral arrangement to hospital patients. Class members made 12 sick calls.

The project for next month was discussed.

Members formed a friendship circle and repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The next meeting will be June 13.

Nothing is every good enough! Now the airlines want a slow jet -- so they can show double features.

Sorority Pledges Installed

The Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met for a patio party at the home of Doris Campbell Tuesday night. A buffet dinner was served after which a short business meeting was conducted by president Doris Campbell. Nineteen members and guests were present.

New pledges Zelpha Davis, Jewell Bell, Lila Brannock and Lois Myers, were installed. A candlelight ceremony was conducted by retiring vice president, Dorothy Nowell, assisted by Gillie Russelburg, the new vice president. Also recognized and installed were two transfer members, Marie Collins, Caruthersville, and Carol Morris, Sikeston, and Mrs. Lila Harwell, city sponsor.

Retiring president, Doris Campbell was presented a president's pin by Gillie Russelburg.

Tope Circle Meets With Mrs. Herring

The LaVerne Tope circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. Pat Herring. Ten members attended.

Mrs. Carl Elam read the Scripture for the day, the prayer calendar and led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The committee reports were given.

Mrs. E. T. Freeman, activities chairman, reported that the Rev. B. G. Corn, associational missionary, had received 171 health kits to be placed in the farm labor rest camp east of Sikeston for migrant workers. A religious tract from First Baptist church was included in each kit.

Mrs. Freeman also read a card from Mr. and Mrs. Ira Shuffit and patients in the Ruth Street nursing home thanking Mrs. Freeman and circle five for the gift of fruit.

Mrs. Freeman will be out of town through the summer and Mrs. Ralph Ancell will be responsible for the community activities until she returns.

Mrs. Elam read a thank you note from a school in Pineville, Ky., thanking members for a gift box sent to them.

Mrs. Harold Bean announced a mission study class will be June 13 at the church. Both night circles will attend the study.

Mrs. Louis Goehri and her daughter, Mrs. Donald Beggs, were in charge of the program on Guatemala, often called "the Switzerland of the Americas."

The study was highlighted with showing of films taken by Louis Goehri while on a trip to Guatemala and British Honduras. A discussion followed.

Mrs. Beggs gave each member a missionary's name to pray for each day. These missionaries are all serving in Guatemala.

Mrs. Freeman led the closing prayer.

The hostess served strawberry shortcake and coffee.

Others present were Mrs. Charles Tisdel, Mrs. Phillip Sadler and Mrs. J. B. Hall.

A San Francisco man gave his nine-year-old daughter $10 for her birthday so that she could open her first bank account. She was filling out the bank application when she came to the line asking the name of her former bank. In big bold letters, she wrote: "Piggy."

Class Meets Monday With Mrs. Collins

The Kings Daughters class of the First Baptist church met Monday at 2 p.m. with Mrs. F. F. Collins.

Twelve members and one guest, Mrs. David Laird, were present. Mrs. Gerda Harrison, president, was in charge.

Mrs. Edythe Spidell, class teacher, led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Fred Tope gave the devotional from Psalms 23. She read a poem, "You Never Know."

Mrs. Thomas Mathis gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Ruth Turner gave the treasurer's report. Group captains reported nine 100 per cent members in April.

The class signed cards to be sent to Larry Kinsey and Albert E. Sisson, who are in service.

Mrs. Stella Freeman led the closing prayer. A fellowship hour followed. The hostess served fruit cocktail cake, coffee, tea and soft drinks.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Tope, 316 Wallace, June 12.

11 Attend WSCS Meeting Monday

MOREHOUSE --The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Rauch - Spence Memorial Methodist church met at 2 p.m. Monday in the fellowship room for its regular business meeting. Eleven members attended.

Mrs. A. W. Summers, president, presided. Mrs. James Estep gave the devotional, "The Home," with Scripture reading Luke 1: 5-15, telling "How Children Should Be Brought Up."

The group sang "Happy Is The Home When God Is There," accompanied by Mrs. Estep, pianist. Mrs. Estep read a poem, "Somebody's Mother." The WSCS sang "Bless Be the Tie That Binds."

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and approved.

Thirty - one sick calls were made and 25 get well cards were sent in April.

Mrs. Frank Kesler closed the meeting with prayer.

Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky: "A deaf old couple were sitting on the porch one evening. The old man attempted to tell his wife how much he appreciated all she had done for him during their life. In her deafness, she could not understand what he was trying to tell her. At last, he shouted, 'I'm proud of you!' She replied, 'I'm tired of you, too!'"

Same Names, New Records Due in '67 Track Season

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jim Ryun and Bob Seagren hear the same questions at least 50 times a week.

When will Ryun break 3:50 for the mile and when will Seagren break 18 feet in the pole vault?

The question embarrasses Ryun, who embarrasses easily. It amuses Seagren who can miss an 18-foot vault by an inch and come bounding out of the pits with a smile on his face.

"I don't want to sound too cocky," Ryun said. "I hope people understand. I feel a little stupid every time someone comes up to me and I just say, 'I just try to keep improving.' They ask 'how much?' and it's obvious that if it's very much it's under 3:50. If I can just word it right, I don't see why I shouldn't say what everyone knows . . . I hope it's not egotistical."

As for Seagren: "There are 32 steps needed for a perfect vault," he says. "When I put them together . . ."

Seagren's best vault is 17-5½, which is not the world's record. Bob's ex-roomie, John Pennel, holds the world mark (17-6¾), but John has been having trouble with his back again and did not vault during the winter.

Ryun's best (3:51.3) for the mile also is the world's best. Jim also holds the world's record for the half-mile (1:44.9). Both are likely to be broken this year.

Joining Ryun and Seagren as likely record-breakers are sprinter Tommie Smith and shot-putter Randy Matson.

Matson, like Ryun, continues to break his own world records. He did it again recently with a toss of 71-5½ feet.

Smith has been pacing himself more this year in preparation for the heavy international schedule in mid-summer.

A year ago, when Tommie broke the 20-second barrier for the 200-meter run (19.9), he was competing in four different events for San Jose State: the 100, 200, 400 and long jump.

He established world records for 200 meters, 220 yards, ran a 10.1 in the 100 meters and a 45.3 for 400 meters. Then he pulled a muscle and was never quite the same last season.

Smith is the greatest sprinter in the world today. Typical of his performances was the anchor leg in the mile relay in the national championships. Fifteen yards behind Dave Crook and Edwin Roberts, two of the world's best, Tommie made up the deficit and won by a half-stride. No one who saw the race has been able to forget it.

As for other possible world-record breakers, Dave Patrick of Villanova has a good chance in the half-mile and Willie Davenport of Southern University and Richmond Flower Jr. of the University of Tennessee in the 120-yard hurdles.

Of course, record holders like Ron Clarke of Australia (distances) and Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia (discus) are expected to improve on their existing marks.

Danek may get a challenge from triple gold-medal winner Al Oerter of the U.S.

Al hasn't competed too much since the last Olympics, but he wants another medal and he's starting to train seriously for the 1968 games.

Charleston Third, Sikeston Fourth

Kennett District Winner

The Kennett Indians, winner of the Northern Division track meet, captured first place honors here yesterday afternoon and night, in the district meet.

Because of heavy rains and strong winds, the times were somewhat slower than usual, which hindered the boys' chances for state qualifications. The weather, however, didn't stop the bounding Indians, who qualified 13 boys.

The Sikeston Bulldogs finished with 15 1/2 points, placed fourth and qualified both of their relay teams and a pole vaulter for state competition.

Sikeston's 880-yard relay team consist of Roger Blackman, Riley Gross, Arthur Jackson and Mike Killian. The mile relay team is composed of Roger Blackman, John Childress, Riley Gross and Randy Haley. Allen Craig also qualified with a 12'1" jump and a third place in the pole vault.

Boys taking one of the first three places in their respective events qualified for the state action.

Cape Girardeau Central (CA) finished second, 19 points behind the leaders with 49 1/2 points. Charleston (CH) was third with 48, Sikeston (S) fourth with 15 1/2, Poplar Bluff (PB) fifth, 12 1/2, Caruthersville (CV) sixth, 12, Jackson (J) seventh 4, and Perryville (P) was unable to score.

Four meet records were broken. Cape Central and Kennett shared the honors taking two a piece. Reed from Kennett broke the pole vault mark with a 13'1" vault, while teammate Turner finished with a shattering 14:07.5 time in the high hurdles. For Cape, Blackiston hurled the discus 161'10", and Riehl ran a record breaking time of 4:31.9 in the mile.

This meet concluded the 1967 version of track for all the Southeast Missouri teams except for the schools taking part in the state finals held in Columbia May 20.

Pole Position Battle Today

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Traffic officials braced today to funnel possibly 200,000 speed fans into the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to see an international field of drivers battle Mario Andretti for the pole position in the 500-mile race May 30.

The field against Italian-born Mario was precisely the way the 10-mile time trials shaped up.

The U.S. Auto Club's defending champion turned an unofficial lap Friday at 169.4 miles per hour against his own one-lap mark of 166.328 and his 10-mile record of 165.899, both set last year in a similar Brawner Hawk.

A half-dozen drivers had shown possibilities of breaking Andretti's '66 records but none had come very close to threatening his new pace.

The potential challengers included Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., veteran of seven 500 starts, who had been running over 166 m.p.h. in a Mongoose Ford, and Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., the national sprint car champion, who had been in the same bracket in one of Dan Gurney's Eagle Fords. Gurney, Santa Ana, Calif., himself had been close to 166.

Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., the 1963 Indianapolis winner, had been close to 166 in the unorthodox four - wheel-drive STP turbine car and Speedway observers suspected he had not extended it in practice.

Other running over 165 this week included Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., in a Gerhardt Ford; A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., the 1961 and 1964 winner, in a Coyote Ford of his own design, and Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., former national motorcycle racing champ, in another Coyote.

Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., a star of the southern stock car tracks, had been practicing at a strong 164 Friday when he demolished his Mongoose against the Speedway retaining wall. He was unhurt in spite of an impact that knocked a 3-inch-thick chunk out of the concrete.

It was the 13th mishap of the 14-day practice period.

Today's qualifiers will hold their positions in the lineup regardless of speeds made in the three additional qualifying sessions Sunday and the following week.

MU Closes In On Big Eight Lead

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado, the giant killer of Big Eight baseball, did it again Friday with a 2-1 victory over Oklahoma State's league leaders. Just a year ago, Oklahoma State won the championship because of Colorado's season-ending sweep over Oklahoma.

Despite the rain- shortened five-inning loss, Oklahoma State has a 10-3 record and three fewer defeats than runner-up Missouri, which closed the gap and made its record 10-6 with a 5-1 victory at Iowa State.

Colorado is notoriously tough on its home field, final resting place for the title hopes of several teams. Over the past five years, Colorado has won 33 of 46 home games and scored 273 runs, while taking only 11 of 46 on the road and scoring 152.

Last year, Oklahoma came to Boulder, Colo., with an 11-3 record, needing just one victory in the three games to clinch the crown. Colorado won all three, 1-0, 3-1 and 13-12. All three were extra inning games and Colorado overcame a 10-0 deficit in the third game.

Earlier this year, Kansas State was off to a 5-1 start and tied for first, but came to Boulder, lost two of three and never caught up.

Oklahoma won two games over K-State at Norman Friday and moved to third place at 9-7, dropping K-State to fourth at 7-7. Nebraska beat Kansas 1-0 at Lawrence. The second game was tied 0-0 after 14 innings, halted by darkness, and will be finished today.

The second division now shows Iowa State 7-9, Nebraska and Colorado both 5-8 and Kansas 5-10.

Missouri got its fifth straight victory on a steady nine-hitter by Mike McFarland.

Nebraska's Al Furby, the Big Eight earned run leader, fired a two-hitter for the Huskers, who beat Roger Jackson. Randy Stroup of Kansas pitched 11 1-3 innings of no-hit ball in the second game. After the marathon is completed, a single game will be played.

Oklahoma got three-hit pitching from Larry Patterson in the first game, beating K-State's Steve Snyder on a two-run homer by Gary Harper in the seventh. K-State jumped to a 3-0 first inning lead against Rusty Disbro in the second game, but OU won it with a four-run fifth.

Colorado got a bases - loaded single by Jack Schmidt in the fourth for a 2-0 lead. Colorado's Taylor Toomey had a no-hitter going into the fifth, when OSU scored an unearned run on an error, a walk, and a bloop pinch single by Joe Sorrenson. Then came the rain. Two games are scheduled for today, but wet weather is forecast.

Cape Takes Lead In MIAA Track Meet

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP- Host Cape Girardeau State took the lead in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association track meet Friday.

In golf, Kirksville State leads with 382 after 18 holes. Stan Ferguson of Warrensburg State grabbed medalist honors with a two-over-par 72.

Other team totals: Springfield State, 384; University of Missouri at Rolla, 390; Cape Girardeau and Warrensburg 394; and Maryville State, 424.

In tennis doubles finals today, Springfield meets Kirskville.

In track, Dave Walls of Warrensburg, established a new meet record, putting the shot 52-5, surpassing the old mark of 52-3 3/4. Mark Pittman of Warrensburg established a new long jump record by one - eighth inch with a 23 - 4 7/8 effort.

Marichal In Tune

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco's limping Giants have come up with a formula for shedding those second-division blues.

Now if Herman Franks can just figure out a way to pitch Juan Marichal four times a week, the Giants will be sitting pretty.

Marichal, a spring training holdout, hurled his fifth straight complete game victory Friday night, whipping Houston 6-1. Willie Mays and Tom Haller provided the power with long home runs.

For the Giants to try to win without Marichal is like a car trying to run on three wheels. Franks found that out the hard way in the first two weeks of the season when Juan dropped his first three starts and San Francisco sunk to the cellar.

But the ace right-hander has regained his rhythm and now all Franks has to do is get two or three other pitchers in tune with Juan.

Mays, of course, is a one-man band. Willie's third home run of the season and No. 545 of his career came in the seventh inning with two men on and gave Marichal a comfortable working margin.

MORFONTAINE, France AP- John Brabson of Charlotte, N.C., has been eliminated from the French International Amateur Golf Tournament. He was defeated 6 and 5 Friday by Alexandre Godillot of France.

Haller, on a tear with nine hits in 12 at bats, had given the Giants the early lead in the fourth but consecutive singles by Joe Morgan, Sonny Jackson and Jim Wynn tied it in the sixth.

Marichal finished with a seven-hitter and struck out nine. He retired the first 11 batters he faced.

In other National League games Friday night, St. Louis rallied with five runs in the eighth inning for a 7-5 victory over New York, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 5-2, Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 4-2 and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

The Mets carried a 5-2 lead into the eighth inning against St. Louis but Mike Shannon's bloop single climaxed the Cards' comeback.

Julian Javier and Dave Ricketts opened with singles and after a force play produced one run. Singles by Lou Brock and Curt Flood, a double by Roger Maris and an intentional walk to Orlando Cepeda tied the game and left the bases loaded for Shannon's winning hit.

Jerry Buchek homered for the Mets.

Don Pavletich drove in three runs with a double and single as Sammy Ellis' five-hitter beat the Phillies for the Reds.

Ellis, a 20-game winner in 1965 but 12-19 last year, used an unorthodox rocking windup and liked it so much that he'll stay with it for awhile.

"The way it went tonight," he said, "I might use that windup for a long time."

Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente rapped third-inning home runs for the Pirates and Billy O'Dell won his third straight. O'Dell, who was stricken by Addison's disease during the winter, allowed Atlanta just four hits before leaving for reliever Elroy Face in the eighth.

Curt Simmons scattered eight hits against the Dodgers and drove in Adolpho Phillips with the winning run in the fifth inning after Phillips had tripled.

WHERE TWO HEADS ARE NOT BETTER THAN ONE

Soccer - Hockey Played With A Basketball On A Football Field

By JOHN SMITH
Written for
The Associated Press

Soccer owes its worldwide popularity to its easy-to-follow rules, non-stop action and the fact that a good little man stands just as good a chance as a good big man.

It is a simple game to understand, combining many of the basics from hockey, basketball and football. It has been described as hockey played with a basketball on a football field by 22 marathon runners not allowed to touch the ball with the hands.

As in these other sports, a team trys to score over the other team's goal. The soccer goal is eight yards wide and eight feet high and resembles a hockey goal. Instead of a puck, a black and white leather ball weighing between 14-16 ounces with a circumference of between 27-28 inches is used.

The game starts off with a kickoff which is decided by a toss of a coin. The winning side has the choice of either choosing the side it wishes to defend or kicking off.

A player kicks off by booting the stationary ball placed on the ground at midfield. He can kick to a teammate or into opposing territory. After a score the ball is returned to the center of the field and play begins again.

Speed is one of the strong selling points of the game. Soccer is composed of two "fast and furious" halves with only a few minutes of halftime. There are no time outs as U.S. sports fans know them. There is no water boy, no towels and no consultation with the coach. And, if a player stops to argue with the referee, an opponent may well kick a goal behind his back.

European soccer in recent years has evolved into a defensive game based on the theory that the team which concedes the fewer goals can't lose. South American play is noted for a more aggressive wide-open strategy. The newly-aware North Americans have attempted to open up the game even more.

The National Professional Soccer league, under the stewardship of Commissioner Ken Macker, has tried to encourage scoring output with a new system for its point standings. Soccer has been calculated on the hockey basis of two points for a victory, one for a tie and none for a defeat. The NPSL system scores six points for a victory and three for a tie plus a point for every goal scored up to three.

Eusebio, the great 24-year-old Portuguese star is 5-foot-10 and weighs 165. He owned only one soccer shoe until he became a pro, when he received a new pair as a bonus for signing.

Tenoran for soybeans, the best early post-emergence weedkiller.

Don't use it till you see a stand of beans.

Tenoran lets you see your stand of soybeans before you invest in weed control. Then you can knock out the troublesome broadleaf weeds. Just spray Tenoran before the weeds get 2 inches tall - in about 10 days you'll have dead weeds and clean beans. This is the way to weed soybeans.

Tenoran kills annual broadleaf weeds such as cocklebur, morning glory, velvetleaf and pigweed - the weeds that come through pre-emergence weedkillers. This year wait till you see your beans - then wipe out the weeds with Tenoran Herbicide. Order Tenoran from your dealer today.

Kennett Teachers Win Big Musical Comedy Following

By TONY PIPPIN
Daily Dunklin Democrat
For The Associated Press

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) - Two Kennett teachers have pooled their talents to bring musical comedy to the high school stage and it looks like it's here to stay.

"The Music Man," their first production, was so widely accepted in March, 1966 that Joe Newman and Fred Ford decided to try again this year with "Bye Bye Birdie." Each was presented before full houses for three consecutive nights.

The acceptance was so enthusiastic that the Kennett Arts Council, an organization formed for the purpose of bringing cultural progress to the city, asked Newman and Ford to direct a Broadway musical this summer using local adult and high school talent.

Tryouts will soon be under way.

Newman, who teaches English and drama, came to Kennett in 1965 from Bragg City. Prior to that he was on the West Coast, where he directed plays and attended San Diego State, earning a master's degree in theater.

On the coast he performed in a number of musicals and directed 15 plays, among them, "Miranda," "Night Must Fall," "Great Big Doorstep," "Lillom," "Glass Menagerie," "Traveling Lady," "Johnny Belinda," and "Dark of the Moon."

Ford, a native of Kennett, is now in his third year as director of vocal music. He is a graduate of Southwestern College in Memphis, where he received his master's degree in music last summer. During the summer of 1964 he performed with the Inspiration Point Fine Arts Colony.

The real test of Newman's and Ford's abilities has been to take young high school tenagers, most of them with no acting or singing background, and turn them into actors and singers who project on stage with all the qualities of professionals.

The key to their success may be the fact that both enjoy working with young people and both are highly skilled in their professions.

However, both admit that neither would be able to produce a musical comedy alone.

And there have been some good side effects.

Ford says, as a result of the stage productions, his choir has nearly doubled and the quality of the singing is improving. Newman's drama class also is reaping benefits with increased enrollment and more enthusiasm among the students.

Both have high priase for the students they work with.

"The wonderful part about our job is that there is no reluctance on the part of the Kennett kids to try," they agreed.

"We get as good a response out of the athletes as we do the young girls. Everyone does his best and it shows up on opening night."

Silage can be fed to pregnant sows and gilts. They won't eat enough to justify making silage unless it is used for other livestock, says Homer Sewell, animal husbandryman at the University of Missouri. Sows will eat 10 to 14 pounds daily and gilts 8 to 12 pounds of silage. A protein supplement should be fed with the silage. Also, a small amount of grain may be needed to keep sows and gilts in proper conditon.

New Personnel At Oran CAA

ORAN - New personnel of the Northwest Scott County community action agency include Mrs. Richard Golden, Chaffee, co-ordinator; Mrs. Joe Kellum, Oran, aide; Mrs. James Maddox, Oran, part-time aide, and Mrs. Curtis Williams, Oran, custodian.

Twenty-two citizens and board members attended the April meeting of the agency in its new location west of the former elementary school in Oran. The May meeting will be held at the Neighborhood Service Center Tuesday night, May 16, at 7:30. Romper Room children, under the direction of Mrs. Clyde Tidmore, will present a program.

Oran Senior Citizens Slated for Recognition

ORAN - Senior citizens of Oran will be recognized Thursday afternoon, since May has been designated as Senior Citizen Month.

A parade will start from Oran City Park at 2 p.m. Any organization or business firm may participate.

The event is being sponsored by the community action agency in co-operation with other citizens.

Cinnamon bears are to be found in the Jasper Canadian National Park.

FARM LABOR BULLETIN

STATE SUMMARY

Reports on freeze damage to the fruit and vegetable crop in Missouri paint a gloomy picture. Replanting of corn and cotton in specific areas reported.

Strawberry picking in Sikeston, Monett, Kennett, and Poplar Bluff underway with the Cape Girardeau and West Plains berry harvests to start this week.

Rolla reports some 20,000 acres of grapes damaged 65 to 75 per cent due to freeze and hail. St. Joseph reports 75 to 80 percent loss of apple, peach and strawberry crops. Kansas City reports $400,000 freeze loss as conservative estimate. Lexington - Waverly area hard hit by freeze. Apple crop severely damaged.

Initial reports from over the state show good response on recruitment of college men for summer work in Washington, Wisconsin and Minnesota as machine operators and in-plant workers.

135 year - round and 87 seasonal unfilled farm job openings reported. 21 year-round, 1907 seasonal, 673 order - holding and 391 applicants - holding acceptances were primary types of placements reported the past week.

Extensive recruitment underway for qualified applicants for new farm hand class at Marshall, starting May 29. Graduation at Marshall will be May 26 for present class.

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway -- Telephone: Granite 1-2731.

Local workers picking strawberries in immediate area and day - haul to Kentucky. Some few small groups have left area for berries. Year - round demands and supplies of farm hands have leveled off to near balance. Growers still want well qualified farm hands but will not settle at present for less qualified.

Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route No. 2, Sikeston.

The Camp served 511 migrants with 162 going to Michigan, 74 to Indiana, 158 to Ohio and 117 to Illinois.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street -- Telephone: Sunset 5-9606.

No farming has been done this past week due to excess rainfall. Most all the early cotton that was planted will have to be replanted. Strawberry harvest in full swing over this area with very little help. Some recruitment is being done for MDTA Farm Hand Training at Marshall.

Labor Mobility Office, Poplar Bluff:

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street -- Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666.

Demand for year - round and seasonal farm workers continues to exceed the available supply. Strawberry harvest to start with volume picking on Monday, May 8. Positive recruitment of cannery workers by Stokely - Van Camp Company on May 1 resulted in 26 youth, ages 18 to 22 being accepted for employment.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street -- Telephone Tuxedo 3-3184.

Strawberry harvest continues to be very good. One grower in north part of county started picking this week. Local labor and crews from Hayti and Lilbourn are being used, with one crew from Texas and one crew expected from Texas this weekend. Weather and soil conditions have improved and planting and replanting of cotton is in full swing. 1784 seasonal placements and 671 order - holding placements were made this week. Supply and demand for labor is being met at this time.

Caruthersville: 112 West Fifth Street -- Telephone: Edison 3-2416.

Another week has passed with very little farm activities being done, due to rain and cool weather throughout the week. Many of the farmers are becoming very concerned about the situation and are hoping for the weather to break. No demand for general farm hands at the present time. A few crews from this area are working in strawberries in Dunklin County.

West Plains: 111 Walnut Street -- Telephone: 256-3158.

Slight freeze damage over the area on apple and peach crop. Strawberry crop is not ripening as expected due to cool weather. No available labor for relocation at present time.

KEEP RECORDS OF CHEMICALS USED

You'll never know why you did or did not achieve good weed control unless you keep a good record of chemicals applied. Such a record might include planting date, date chemicals used, depth of application, banded or broadcast, acres tested, date crop emerged, and other observations.

Since the beginning of use of chemicals for weed control, there has never been a year when so many different chemicals and combinations of chemicals have been used in so many different ways under such varying conditions. This is the year many lessons can be learned about chemicals that experiment stations may never have thought of provided farm records are kept.

Once crops are up to a stand, decisions about what postemergence chemicals to use safely may depend on record of original treatment.

Probably one of the simplest ways to get record of the amount of chemical used is to keep records of purchase and subtract the amount of material on hand or returned when planting is completed.

CHEMICAL CONTAINERS NEED TO BE DISPOSED OF PROPERLY

Paper bags could be burned, but even this job must be done with caution. The fumes from these burning paper bags should not be inhaled.

Tin containers should be crushed and buried so the drainage from them will not get into drainage ditches.

STORAGE OF CHEMICALS

Read the label on all chemical chemical containers carefully and store them under the conditions prescribed by the manufacturer.

All chemicals should be kept under lock for the protection of the owner not only from theft, but possible lawsuits. This is also important to insure that children will not be harmed by the chemicals.

ASC Provisions For Cotton Crop Damage

BENTON -- Many producers in Scott county and other cotton areas are preparing to or have already planted their 1967 cotton crop. Because of existing weather conditions, it seems appropriate to inform producers of ASC provisions relating to prevented or disaster plantings.

Should abnormal weather conditions prevent a farmer from planting his cotton or destroy his crop after it is planted, there are certain provisions set forth by the Department of Agriculture to protect a producer's cotton payment.

In 1966 if a producer's crop had been destroyed by natural causes, he could plant the area to soybeans without loss of price - support payment provided his request was approved by the county committee. This provision was widely used in Scott and other cotton counties.

At a meeting of the cotton advisory commiteee last fall more restrictive regulations and procedures were adopted to prevent producers from making token plantings merely to obtain price-support payments.

For 1967 to be eligible for payments and history credit, producers must have planted and farmed cotton in a workmanlike manner solely for price support payments or history purposes shall not be counted as planted acreage.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for cotton acreage which is to be replanted to another crop must file a written request for such credit and receive approval of the county committee before an acreage is replanted. Credit may not be given if the committee determines that the acreage may be replanted to cotton before May 18.

If a producer has his crop planted now and it has already been ruined or destroyed because of adverse weather conditions, that producer must replant the cotton in a normal manner, weather permitting, to be eligible to receive his cotton payment.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for acreage which has already been abandoned or destroyed will be required to furnish such evidence as the county committee may request to establish that the cotton was planted in a manner considered normal for his particular locality.

The Scott County ASC committee reminds producers that May 15 is the final date to report their 1967 wheat acreage. If you have not already done so, producers participating in the 1967 wheat program must report their acreage before they can be eligible for program payments.

Hearnes to Receive Honorary Degree

COLUMBIA -- The University of Missouri will confer three honorary degrees at the 125th annual commencement exercises at 7 p.m. June 6, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Recipients will include Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, and Dr. Lester V. Chandler, chairman of the economics and sociology department at Princeton University.

Gov. Hearnes, a University Arts and Science College and School of Law graduate in 1952, will deliver the commencement address before some 3,000 graduates at Memorial Stadium.

Gov. Hearnes and Heinkel are natives of Missouri and the governor and Dr. Chandler are alumni of the university.

Honorary degree candidates are nominated by a faculty committee and elected by the faculty and approved by the board of curators from individuals with outstanding records of service.

Gov. Hearnes, born at Charleston in 1923, is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and was elected to the Missouri house of representatives while a student in the School of Law here. He remained in the legislature from 1950 until 1960, serving as majority floor leader in 1957-59 and receiving the Globe - Democrat award as the most effective member in debate in 1958.

He was elected secretary of state in 1960 and governor in 1964. Gov. Hearnes received the American Heritage Foundation citizenship award in 1961 for leadership in working for modernization of Missouri's election laws.

Heinkel, native of Jefferson County where he was born in 1897, has been president of Missouri's federation of cooperatives since 1940 and was a member of the university board of curators from 1953 to 1959.

He joined the farm club movement in 1917, and nine years later helped organize an MFA farmers' exchange at Catawissa. He served as vice president of the MFA from 1936 and until he assumed the presidency.

Heinkel, who testified frequently before congressional and legislative committees, has received national recognition. He has been a member of the National Agriculture Advisory Commission, the Public Advisory Committee on Trade negotiations, director of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and trustee and vice president of the American Institute of Cooperation.

He was chairman in 1951 of the national feed grains study committee, a member in 1952 of the Missouri Basin survey commission, and member and vice chairman from 1943-49 of the Missouri state soil districts commission. He holds the award of merit of Gamma Sigma Delta, lifelong membership in the alumni consulate of the University and the distinguished service to agriculture award of the MFA.

Dr. Chandler is a native of Gueda Springs, Kan., where he was born in 1905. He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1930 and a master of arts degree in 1931 at the university before taking his doctorate at Yale.

He joined the Dartmouth faculty in 1933 for two years, moved in 1935 to Princeton for two years and then joined the Amherst College faculty, where he attained the rank of professor before returning in 1950 to Princeton. He became department chairman in 1955.

Dr. Chandler has been a member of the Research advisory board of the Committee on Economic Development, director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, director of the Atlantic City Electric Co., was president in 1954 of the America Economic Association. He is author of several books on economics, money and banking.

The Key and The Lock

For two milleniums now the message of the church has been that Christ is the key to life. But the church has not always understood the lock, i.e. the world, into which the key fits. At TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH we are endeavoring to understand both the living Christ and the needs of people. We should be delighted to have you worship with us where a genuine effort is being made to get together the power of the Gospel and the needs of the world.

Now! Big Company Group Insurance For Smaller Businesses

Now, businesses with less than 25 employees are eligible for a new, low-cost group health and life insurance program that offers coverage you'd expect to find only in big company group insurance plans.

It's P.E.P. (Progressive Employers Program) — from Mutual of Omaha and its life insurance affiliate, United of Omaha. P.E.P. solves the salary continuance problem for the small employer and helps reduce labor turnover by providing important financial security for the employee and his family.

If you have a small business, you owe it to yourself and your employees to investigate P.E.P. — the modern answer to the small businessman's need for a flexible, low-cost employee insurance program.

Clifford Nelson Teaching in South America

MATTHEWS - Mrs. Clifford L. Nelson arrived Saturday for a month's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benton B. Conrad, before joining her husband in Curitiba, Parana, Brazil. Dr. Nelson, an assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, has been given an 18-month assignment with the University of Minnesota - Ford Foundation project, to teach in the Federal University of Parana.

The five-year project involves training vocational - agriculture teachers for junior high and high schools in Brazil. It is the first of its kind that has been attempted internationally to aid the development of a country that is having difficulty in meeting agricultural needs. If the project is successful, it is hoped that the organization and design might be taken as a model for similar projects around the world.

Dr. Nelson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilding C. Nelson of Mount Vernon, Wash., was graduated from Mount Vernon high school. He received degrees from Skagit Valley College, Washington State University and earned his Doctor of Philosophy in agricultural education and journalism in 1966 at the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Nelson is a graduate of Matthews high school, the University of Missouri school of home economics and received her master's degree in textiles and clothing from the University of Minnesota.

The couple visited last week with his parents in Mount Vernon. He left from Seattle, Wash., on Friday. Mrs. Nelson's parents and brother, Charles, met her at the airport in St. Louis Saturday morning. They were overnight guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stone at Belleville, Ill.

Friends here have received word of the death of Ronald Roberts, 27, at Battle Grounds, Wash. He was a graduate of Matthews high school and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Roberts, who now live in Flint, Mich. Besides his wife and three children, he is survived by two brothers, Roger, Flint, Mich. and Terry, in the armed forces overseas, and five sisters.

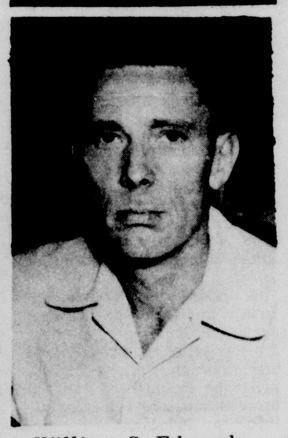

Mr. and Mrs. Don Underwood and children, Dianna Lynne and Donnie of Portageville, were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stafford.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester King spent the weekend with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wayne King and son, Kerry Wayne at Wapella, Ill.

Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Dennis Parsons attended the wedding Saturday evening of their granddaughter and niece, Sandra Kay Atwill, and Thomas Chronister of St. Louis at the First Christian church in Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schuerenberg and sons visited last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Durban and family of Oakland City, Ind.

Armed Forces

William S. Edwards

WITH U.S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam -- Technical Sergeant William S. Edwards, son of Mrs. Dollie Edwards of 406 E. Seventh St., Portageville, Mo., is on duty at Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Edwards, a management analyst, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces which provides offensive - defensive airpower for the U. S. and its allies in the Pacific, Far East and Southeast Asia.

Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to the 10th Air Force at Richards -Gebaur AFB, Mo.

The sergeant is a graduate of Portageville (Mo.) High School.

His wife, Lois, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rinck of Rt. 3, Newburg, Mo.

FT. BENNING, GA. (AHTNC) -- Army Private David Pyles, 18, son of Mrs. Mary L. Pyles, 303 W. Sixth St., Portageville, Mo., completed the Infantry School's three - week airborne course at Ft. Benning, Ga., May 6.

His training, which included five jumps from a C-130 airplane flying 170 miles an hour at an altitude of 1,250 feet, qualified him as a parachutist. He also underwent strenuous physical conditioning.

Michael G. Watson

FT. SILL, OKLA. (AHTNC) -- Michael G. Watson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva V. Watson, Morehouse, Mo., was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Officer Candidate School at the Army Artillery and Missile Center, Ft. Sill, Okla., May 2.

Gunnery was the primary subject taught during the 23 - week course, designed to prepare men for officer duties in artillery units. He was also trained in artillery survey and transport, communications, map and aerial - photo reading, electronics, counter insurgency, and leadership.

(H1056) CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF., (FHTNC) -- Marine Lance Corporal Don E. Ervin, nephew of Mrs. Gertrude Dorsey of Sikeston, Mo., was among the more than 10,000 Marines who prevented a simulated enemy takeover of a small country friendly to the U. S., during amphibious training exercises on the beaches of Camp Pendleton Marine Corps Base in southern California.

Code-named exercise "Alligator Hide", the week - long maneuvers included Marine units from the west coast and Hawaii, as well as Navy transport ships and air squadrons.

The fictitious tactical situation dealt with the friendly country of "Mateo" being overrun by the nearby country of "Horno." Under treaty agreements, Mateo requested U. S. assistance to prevent further seizure of territory, and to regain what was lost. With this objective, the Leathernecks went ashore by boat and helicopter, established their beachhead positions, and then moved into the "hostile" areas sweeping them clear of the enemy threat. Completing their mission, the forces moved back to the beaches and out to the transport ships standing offshore.

Robert Wallace Will Be Home

Pvt. Robert C. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wallace, will be home May 19 after completing four months training in the army. He was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood and Fort Lee, Va.

He will be here for 30 days and for the celebration of his parents' 22nd wedding anniversary.

THEY'D RATHER ITCH THAN SWITCH

Two California dermatologists have come up with a group of patients who would "rather itch than switch."

These patients, mostly -- but not entirely -- women and girls, are suffering from an affliction dubbed "stretch garment dermatitis," a slightly red, scaly, ill - defined rash caused by stretch garments that are too tight.

Dr. Richard Mihan, assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of Southern California, and Dr. Samuel Ayers, Jr., emeritus clinical professor of dermatology at the University of California at Los Angeles, reported to members attending the California Medical Association meeting that they first became aware of the condition in a little girl who had been wearing leotards and stretch socks for three years.

Her irritation was not alergic but seemed to be caused solely by the friction and pressure of the garments, Dr. Mihan said.

The widespread use of stretch garments over the past several years has brought an increasing number of patients to his office suffering from skin complaints, the doctor said. Irritation appears where garments bind and hug the body most tightly. Chief offenders are stretch bras, stretch girdles and stretch socks, he noted, though stretch trousers also cause difficulty.

Tight stretch garments can also be highly irritating to a pre - existing skin problem such as acne or psoriasis, Dr. Mihan reported.

"Elimination of the stretch garment is absolutely essential to treatment," he said, "but many people won't switch until they absolutely have to."

Dr. Mihan emphasized that the dermatitis does not disappear immediately once the offending garment is removed. It may be several weeks before the condition begins to improve.

SOME UNWED GIRLS NEED BIRTH CONTROL HELP

Why does a distinguished obstetrician - gynecologist, a responsible member of his profession and community, provide some unmarried girls with contraceptive information and materials?

Here's what Dr. A. Herbert Marbach, gynecology professor at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School and senior attending gynecologist - obstetrician at the Albert Einstein Medical Center, told Women's Medical News Service at the recent meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"When a patient comes to me for help I feel a professional and humanitarian obligation to do what I consider best in her behalf. This applies to minor unmarried girls who come to me as well as to adults.

"In taking the case history of the girl, I try to elicit from her what her plans are, what her attitudes toward sex are, why she is seeking contraception. In the course of such a discussion I try to help my patient understand the profound importance of sex, not only as an individual act, but as the very root of both her femininity and her relationship to all other human beings. I try to help her see, without condemning her, that sex is not a commodity to be traded for a dinner, for popularity.

"If it seems to me that the young woman is going to indulge in pre - marital sex despite my efforts to convince her not to, then I will prescribe the pill or other contraceptives to see to it that the least possible harm is done to her and to society. I consider it immoral to bring an unwanted child into the world, to make it and society pay for the mistakes of its parents."

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

The merry confusion over a commemorative stamp and first-day cancellation on the 200th birthday of Andrew Jackson recalls another contretemps at the Hermitage, this time at the former President's funeral June 10, 1845.

Here is the story, as told by Stanley Horn, in his "The Hermitage: Home of Old Hickory." published by Greenberg in 1950:

"General Jackson had expressed the wish that his funeral services be simple and without pomp or ostentation; but such a funeral was hardly possible for the most distinguished private citizen of his day. The military company marched out of Nashville to attend the services . . . and a great multitude of people, estimated at 3,000, gathered to pay their last tribute. The funeral was preached by Dr. Edgar, the minister who had received him into the church, the services being conducted from the front porch owing to the inability of the large crowd to get inside the house.

"There was a moment of disturbance while the mourners were assembling, caused by an untimely outburst of blistering profanity from Old Poll, the Hermitage parrot who had so long been a favorite pet of the general. The solemnity of the occasion was completely upset by the sudden torrent of objurgation from the old bird on her perch on the upper front gallery, but she was quickly banished to the servants' quarters at the back of the house and Dr. Edgar stepped on the stone-paved portico and began to read the burial service."

It is to wonder, at the 200th anniversary of Old Hickory's birth, what the advocate of "hard money" would have had to say about Federal Reserve notes and our present circulation of ersatz dimes and quarters.

The question of "hard money" was an acute issue in the summer of 1834 and Jackson provided himself with enough gold coins to pay his bills when he took the 1,000-mile overland trip from Washington to Nashville.

With breezy gusto he planked down $10 gold pieces on small-town tavern counters, and enjoyed the reaction of pop-eyed citizens.

Gold coins were scarce at the time, and to furnish an adequate supply Jackson had started the mint to turning out half-eagles at the rate of $20,000 a day. While he was at the Hermitage in August, the first eagle struck from a new die was sent to him.

Mrs. Annie Eaggleston and Mrs. Roberta Rowe of the Smith Methodist chapel at Sikeston also attended.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

A neighbor of ours was idly watching seven or eight small children playing hide - and - seek. The game went smoothly for a while, but then a problem arose.

The smallest boy, barely three, was "it", and he couldn't count to 100. In fact, he couldn't even count to ten with any consistency. How were the others going to get enough time to hide properly, if the "it" boy couldn't count?

The gang went into a huddle. Then a little girl about six, obviously a real brain, figured out a solution, and issued instructions to the tiny boy.

So, while the other kinds scattered and hid, the little boy turned his back, covered his eyes, and recited the Our Father.

Asked why she isn't giving up smoking, a woman explained: "Oh, I would, but I'm afraid to. The last time I quit they bombed Pearl Harbor."

With everyone trying to tie in with the World's Fair again this year, an executive of the Wheeling Machine Products Co., in West Virginia, offered this invitation to customers and prospects:

"Dear Friend, I imagine that you'll be visiting the New York World's Fair this year. If so, why don't you also visit us? Our factory is at the first traffic light after leaving the George Washington Bridge. From the bridge take the New Jersey Turnpike and the Pennsylvania Turnpike to the New Stanton exit; then Interstate 70 and U.S. Route 40 to the traffic light and our factor. The distance is approximately 440 miles . . ."

Doyne L. Chartrau

Doyne Chartrau Promoted to Superintendent

DANVILLE, Ill. -- Doyne L. Chartrau, 1614 North Gilbert St., has been promoted to superintendent of tool and production engineering of the Central Foundry Division of General Motors plant here.

Chartrau is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyne Chartrau, 830 Lake, Sikeston, Mo.

He was formerly senior engineer in the production engineering area.

Chartrau received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Missouri at Rolla in June, 1962, and began his career with the plant as a college-graduate-in-training the same month. He had participated in the summer student program at the Danville plant during the previous summer.

After completing the training program, he was assigned as a engineer in process engineering. In September, 1966, he was promoted to senior engineer in the production engineering department.

He is a member of the Danville Engineer's club and the Central Indiana chapter of the American Foundrymen's society.

Chartrau is a trainee in the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers. He has served as Junior Achievement advisor and has assisted in United Fund campaigns.

He is a member of the St. James Methodist church. Chartrau and his wife, Donna, have two sons, Blake and Todd.

Charleston Boy Gets Scholarship

CHARLESTON -- Robert A. Uthoff, a part-time clerk in the Del Farm store, is one of nine persons selected to receive a $1,000 scholarship from the National Tea Co.

Robert O'Neal, St. Louis division manager of Del Farm, a division of National Tea, said the winners are all employees or children of employees of the company.

The nine winners in the St. Louis division are among 122 persons who will receive grants from the company. Winners are selected solely on the basis of achievement as determined by scholastic aptitude tests, academic records, extracurricular activities, school recommendations, and statements from the students themselves.

A three - member committee headed by the director of admissions at Northwestern University made the selections. O'Neal said that while the winners were selected on the basis of achievement, the amount of each award was determined by the individual's financial need. Awards ranged up to $1,000 in value.

Uthoff said he plans to attend the University of Missouri after graduation this month from St. Henry's high school.

I have often thought, says Sir Roger, it happens very well that Christmas should fall out in the middle of winter.

To Demonstrate Soils June 6

COLUMBIA -- Research work on soils and crops will be shown and discussed at a Field Day June 6 on the University of Missouri Bradford Farm near Columbia.

The public is invited to see test plots of small grain varieties, fertilizer treatments on wheat and fescue, legumes, and grasses in various combinations for pasture, weed control methods and other experimental work.

In addition, different devices for measuring soil moisture will be demonstrated, and there will be exhibits of herbicide and fertilizer equipment, weed specimens and plant diseases.

Tours will start at 9 a.m. and are expected to end about 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be available on the grounds. The Field Day at the 524-acre College of Agriculture farm will be held rain or shine, say the co-chairmen of the event, C. M. Woodruff, chairman, soils department, and Lloyd Cavanah, associate professor of field crops.

Construction Turning up Important Archeological Items

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among highway workers, if they can't pronounce paleontology they just say "fossils and bones."

They've turned up items like dinosaur tracks discovered in Pecos County, Texas, while building U.S. Route 57. They've salvaged Indian mounds in Iowa and excavated prehistoric ruins in Arizona.

When bulldozer operators started digging for a section of Interstate 71 near Cleveland, Ohio, they set off one of the biggest fossil hunts ever undertaken in the United States. Scientists collected 10,000 specimens.

"Scientists evidently figure this is a big deal as far as they are concerned," James E. Kirk, a highways engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, said in an interview.

Congress has said that federal aid highway funds may be used in archeological and paleontological salvage in highway construction. It follows a national policy of preserving for public use sites such as Indian ruins, historic buildings, fossils or other objects of antiquity that have national significance.

Since 1956, under the Highway Transportation Act, 118 federal aid archeological and paleontological projects have been undertaken in 21 states. Their cost totals some $1.4 million, of which $1.2 million was in federal-aid funds.

The initiative for such projects must come from the states. Agreements for the work are made with museums, universities and state archeologists.

In the Right of Way and Location Office of the Bureau of Public Roads, Kirk and James A. Carney, a highway engineer, make sure that archeological and paleontological salvage get attention.

There are problems. Everybody has certain ideas about what is significant historically. Often even the experts can't agree.

Kirk said they leave it up to the professionals in the field.

For 17 months, from April 1965 to September 1966, workers under the direction of the Cleveland Natural Science Museum dug, chipped, pried and hammered to collect specimens of fossils from the Devonian Age of more than 350 million years ago when northern Ohio was covered by the sea.

The museum arranged the project after it was learned that a section of Interstate Highway 71 would cut through what was believed to be an important but heretofore inaccessible fossil formation.

Important scientists visited the site. Some schools sent bus loads of classes there.

William E. Scheele, museum director, said the road workers "Generally seemed to have more pride in knowing that something of value was coming from their excavating efforts aside from the creation of a new superhighway."

Scheele reported that "it appears that we have collected at least 10,000 major specimens of tremendous scientific value."

It may take 10 to 15 years to complete scientific analysis and description, he said, but there may be as many as 75 animals in all classes which are totally new to the world of science.

The Cleveland project cost some $119,000, of which 90 per cent is from federal funds and the rest from the museum.

Other highways-archeology projects, by states, last year included:

Arizona — Exploration and excavation of prehistoric ruins in Mohave County.

Arkansas — Excavation and study by the University of Arkansas of an Indian village near Fishing Lake.

California — In Sacramento, excavation and salvage of historic building foundations associated with the gold rush days.

Idaho — Excavation of an early Indian community area in Idaho County.

Illinois — Salvage of Indian artifacts in St. Clair County.

Iowa — Salvage of five Indian mounds in Lee County.

Nebraska — Archeological salvage of the historic Creighton House in Omaha.

New Mexico — Salvaging of several Indian sites in Grant County.

Tennessee — Investigations by the University of Tennessee in the vicinity of the Tennessee River crossing.

Car Topics For Lady Pedal Pushers

BOYS AND GIRLS

If there is a teen age boy at your house you may know very well how important an automobile is to him. It is his transportation, his mobility and very often his status symbol.

But to thousands of young men a car is much more than this. It is a hobby, a love, a fascinating, technical feat of engineering to be probed, examined, repaired and improved upon, or as the kids say, "souped up."

To many parents, their son's fascination with an automobile seems to be a problem. Understandably, they have better things in mind for him than a life as a mechanic in a cold garage. They would like him to go to college and pursue something loftier.

Such parents might be surprised to learn that some of our country's leading citizens started their careers as grease pit mechanics. The automotive parts and service business, for example, a twelve billion dollar industry, is staffed with just such men: men who serve today as executives, salesmen, advertising representatives, engineers and service specialists.

Today, a service specialist (he is no longer called a mechanic) is a highly respected, well paid technician. Industry provides thousands of good jobs to well trained men, and it often provides the training schools. Working conditions are excellent, training often is free, and the opportunity for advancement grows as the automobile population grows.

As automobiles become more sophisticated, better trained people to work with them are needed desperately. The safety of millions of drivers is in their hands.

If your son is car crazy, don't discourage him. There is unlimited opportunity for him ahead. For information, write to MOTOR AND EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION, 304 West 58th Street, New York, New York 10019.

Seven Wonders of The World

THE STATUE OF ZEUS AT OLYMPIA

Majestic is the word for the Statue of Zeus (Jupiter) at Olympia, Greece -- the third of the ancient world's "wonders". The colossal gold - and-ivory figure, 40 feet high and finely worked -- was the creation of Phidias, widely acclaimed as the greatest Greek sculptor of the fifth century B. C., and inspiration of all workers in sculptural materials ever since.

The statue, though seated, occupied the entire height of one section of the temple erected for the worship of Zeus. The god sat on an elaborately decorated throne, holding a "Victory" in his right hand, while his left hand rested on a scepter. His body was of ivory, his robe of gold. His eyes were precious stones.

Three sections made up the colonnaded center part of the temple. One contained the statue of Zeus on his throne; another, an area where, probably, wreaths were presented to the Olympic Games victors; and the third, a section open to the public.

A thousand years later -- by the fifth century A. D. -- desolation had set in at Olympia. The giant gold statue was carried off to Constantinople, where it perished in a great fire there in the year 476. Fifty years later, the temple, -- partially damaged by an earthquake -- was dismantled, either by the Goths or by Christian zeal; and a fortress was built with many of the stones to usher in the Dark Ages.

YOUTH EMPLOYMENT

Would you hire a boy or girl of high-school age for part-time work during the summer months?

Employment during the summer can help these high school people help themselves and allow them to supplement the income of their families.

Even though the job you have may require only a few hours work, the extra money can help these students meet their school expenses next September when the new school term begins.

The Neighborhood Service Center will endeavor to be a liaison between citizens who have a job to be done and a willing high school student.

Persons interested in employing a high school boy or girl for part-time work call your local Neighborhood Service Center in New Madrid County.

High School Students wishing to work during the summer, please contact your local Neighborhood Service Center and sign up.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will continue to advise girls who have had babies out of wedlock to tell their sweethearts BEFORE they marry. This is what happened to me:

I had a little boy out of wedlock and decided to keep him. I cooked up a story about a brief, unsuccessful marriage which most people believed. When I met Ron I told him I was divorced. After several months of dating he asked me to marry him. I felt like the luckiest girl in the world.

Two weeks before the wedding my mother took me aside and told me I would be doing a terrible thing if I married Ron under the cloud of a lie. I wept and insisted I couldn't take a chance on losing him. If he was unable to accept me because of my past I would just die. After hours of talking, my mother persuaded me that she was right.

I told Ron the very next night. His reply was, "I knew it. I was just waiting to hear it from you. And now there is nothing between us to mar our perfect love."

So you see, Ann, once again truth paid off in a way that a lie never could. Please keep telling the girls who are in my boat that there is only one way to handle this problem. The honest way. -- A HAPPY MRS. WITH A CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Dear Happy Mrs.: You told them, dear. And, on behalf of all the girls whose minds you may have changed, I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Quite some time ago my daughter-in-law suddenly stopped talking to my daughter. I tried to learn the details but nobody would talk about it.

This family rift bothered me and I decided to get to the bottom of it. Last week I wrote my daughter - in - law and asked her to tell me why she had stopped talking to my daughter. I said, "Perhaps there was a misunderstanding which I can help iron out." I was shocked at her answer. She wrote, "I have always despised your daughter and decided to stop going through the hypocritical motions of being nice to her."

This reply cut into my heart like a knife. How should I treat my son and his wife now? Should I ignore them as they have ignored my daughter? Or should I pretend that I did not receive the letter of explanation? -- SORRY I ASKED

Dear Sorry: Let this be a lesson to all self - appointed menders of ruptured relationships. The golden slogan "Mind Your Own Business" should be the cardinal rule for well- intentioned "fixers." Now, say nothing more. You've said too much already.

Dear Ann Landers: I met this girl when we were counselors at a camp last summer. We are both 14. My parents met her and they like her a lot.

She wants me to spend a weekend with her (it is a nice bus ride from here, about 60 miles), but my folks won't let me go because they have never met her parents.

Does this make sense? I don't think so and I hope you'll be on my side. -- MISSED Q

Dear Missed: I suggest that the girl's mother write or telephone your mother and introduce herself. This would make your folks less uneasy about allowing you to make the trip.

P. S. You ARE a girl aren't you? I'm assuming this although you didn't say.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. (II Peter 3:18)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we would dedicate ourselves to making our homes part of the church. May we grow in the grace and knowledge of Christ. Guide us in being effective in the service of the church in its worldwide ministry. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Marriage Licenses

BENTON: These marriage licenses were filed with John Bollinger, Recorder:

Joe Otis English, 28, Bell City, and Brenda Sue Pirtle, 18, Painton, were married in Perkins by Rev. W.S. Bailey.

Donald Ray Robey, 21, Sikeston, and Nancy Allene Lemmick, 17, of Grantsburg, were married in Benton by Rev. Albert W. Gibbs.

Donald Raymond Shelton, 20, and Mary Ann Seiler, 20, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. Walter J. McGrove.

Thomas Monroe Alford, 19, Morehouse, and Brenda Sue Yong, 17, Sikeston, were married in Morehouse by Rev. W.H. Worth.

Moses Chairs, 71, and Cathrine Chairs, 55, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. James L. Nabors.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE STARTLING VIEW

Myron, living in country-like surroundings, didn't bat an eyelash when Mr. Thorn erected several motels across the street from his lovely home nestled amongst some lovely trees. He did plenty of blinking, however, when he pulled his blinds one morning and discovered that Mr. Thorn had built a comfort station directly in front of his picture window.

Upon recovering from the shock, Myron raced to the nearest courthouse and demanded that Mr. Thorn be ordered to remove the structure immediately.

"He's framed a comfort station in my picture window," he complained to a judge, "and he can't get away with it. While it may give comfort to others, I don't have to tell you what it gives me."

"I don't know what he's complaining about," responded the seemingly puzzled Mr. Thorn." It's a nice looking building. All he's got to do is to forget what it is."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the removal of the discomforting comfort station?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while it was undoubtedly true that the presence of a comfort station in front of a man's house is not a thing to be desired, a comfort station, in and of itself, is not a nuisance.

(Based upon a 1927 Washington Supreme Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

If you offer your house for sale through a real estate broker, the general rule is that he earns his commission when he finds someone who is ready, able and willing to make the purchase. However, since many deals are not completed for unforeseen complications, such as a change of heart on the part of the seller, the death of the seller's wife or husband, etc., the seller may end up finding himself having to pay a brokerage commission without having sold his house. To guard against this, the seller should have his attorney prepare a brokerage contract for him with an appropriate covering provision.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

4-H Sunday Is Observed

MOREHOUSE - The Brown Spur 4-H club observed 4-H Sunday April 30 in the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church.

The program was planned and given by leaders and members of the club. The prelude was played by Mrs. Geraldine Estep. Ken Lape gave the call to worship.

Frances Catlett gave the welcoming remarks and told what 4-H work has meant to her. She also gave the objectives of 4-H Sunday.

The pledge to the American flag was led by Rhea Estep. The pledge to the Christian flag was led by Glenda Estep. Connie Schuchart gave the pledge to the Bible and Penny Leek gave the 4-H pledge.

The congregation joined in the hymn, "This Is My Father's World."

Ken Lape gave the invocation. Brenda Estep read a poem entitled "A Nation's Life." Penny Leek and Rhea Estep sang.

Responsive reading was led by David Lape. Connie Schuchart read the scripture lesson from Acts 3:1 and explained the 4-H emblem and its relation to Christian beliefs. Offering was collected by Bonnie Schuchart and Robert Rennier. All 4-H members sang.

The Rev. Estep's sermon was "Preparing for the Harvest."

The congregation joined in the hymn, "Take My Life." Benediction was given by David Lape.

About 45 members, leaders, parents and friends attended the service. One guest, Wayne Kem, was present.

END HOT WATER RATIONING WITH BIGGER WATER HEATER

The typical American family uses at least 30 percent more hot water during the summer months, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau says. Its members bathe and shower more often. Because doors and windows are open most of the time, the house needs more frequent cleaning too.

Does your family always have hot water when it's needed -- or do you have to ration it among bathers, dishwashing, laundering or housecleaning at certain times of the day or on certain days of the week? Many families put up with the inconvenience of rationing for years, mainly because it doesn't occur to them to replace the heater. It's still working perfectly well, isn't it? The fact is, however, that a well-functioning heater is "obsolete" if the family's water needs have outgrown its capacity.

Just a few years ago, the average water heater being installed was 20 or 30-gallon. Today it's at least 40, to keep pace with the family's increased water usage. Americans are using about 60 percent more water today than they did 10 years ago. It's predicted that the present use will double in the next five years, so a family buying a heater today would be wise to get one big enough to handle the anticipated increase as well as its present needs.

Tank capacity isn't the only factor in the heater's output. The best quality is the fast-recovery type, which refers to the rate at which hot water is replenished as it's being used. Since your water is just about your hardest working appliance, it's wise to buy a top-quality product.

In large or sprawling homes, with long runs of pipe, it's sometimes desirable to have two water heaters to handle different areas of the house. They're now available in "squat" as well as longer shapes to provide greater flexibility for installing a variety of available spaces.

MRS. JESSIE LEE JOHNSON, educational aide, helps homemakers at the Sikeston neighborhood service center complete garments. From left are Mrs. Johnnie Lee Felton, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Willie Mae West, Mrs. Arlider Gaitor and Mrs. Margaret Wiggins, neighborhood service center aide.

Homemakers Receive Sewing Instructions, Make Garments

Sewing machines have been humming and tape measures flying. The construction of new garments is nearing completion. Homemakers enrolled in the area homemaker development program are putting the finishing touches to their dresses.

These homemakers have been receiving sewing instructions from the educational aides employed by the University of Missouri extension councils. The aides working in this area are Mrs. Betty Miller, Scott City; Mrs. Pauline Brock, Benton; Mrs. Jessie Lee Johnson and Mrs. Lou Ella Tucker, both of Sikeston; Mrs. Virginia Segers, Bell City; and Mrs. Norma Tripplett, Essex.

The educational aides receive their training from area home economist Mrs. Dorothy Wagner at the extension center at Benton.

Homemakers in this program have discussed with the educational aides personal and social clothing needs of each family member, a family clothing plan and a clothing budget.

The homemakers have received information concerning care, repair and storage of clothing. They were shown how to construct a clothes closet frame from the new publication, "A Clothes Closet - You Can Make and Move."

Other phases of the program were designed to help homemakers read and understand labels; to help them develop standards for judging quality of materials and workmanship in ready-made and self-made garments; and to select suitable clothes with regard to design, color, activities and grooming. The homemakers were also taught fabric and pattern selection and basic construction techniques.

Garments made during this period will be made at a style show Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. at the Morley neighborhood service center. This is being planned by the educational aides in cooperation with neighborhood service center coordinators and their aides.

Today is Saturday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1967. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, Jamestown, Va., the first permanent English settlement in America, was founded.

On this date:

In 1717, Maria Theresa, empress of the Holy Roman Empire, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon captured Vienna.

In 1846, congress authorized the president to raise an army of 50,000 men for the war against Mexico.

In 1940, Holland's Queen Wilhelmina and her daughter, Juliana, fled to London.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the British: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

In 1946, the Allied military government ordered all Nazi military memorials be destroyed.

Ten years ago — The United States rejected Japan's request that it cancel the start of nuclear tests in Nevada.

Five years ago —Indonesia's President Sukarno escaped the bullets of a would-be assassin in Jakarta.

One year ago — British seamen rejected a plea by Prime Minister Wilson to call off a planned shipping strike.

Report from Heckemeyer

This week the Missouri General Assembly advanced a great many pieces of legislation. Some of those critical to our area and of particular interest to our area I shall comment on. I have left out others which I do not feel are particularly interesting to the readers of this column.

I would like to comment that a bill that I co - sponsored, House Bill 495, was passed by the House this week. This bill would create a commission to study the entire set of election laws in the state of Missouri and recodify them and to submit legislation for the next assembly of the corrective nature, or make general suggestions for the improvement of our election system.

The minimum wage passed the House. This bill was 392. It excludes farmers and has a graduated wage increase over the next few years, finally reaching $1.25 minimum wage.

House Bill 388 was advanced. It will increase school aid to special school programs for handicapped and exceptional children.

House Bill 38 was advanced. It would withhold state aid for schools that allow buses in substandard in mechanical condition to be used for the transportation of children. This is a much needed bill as we have discovered many dangerous situations throughout the state in regard to our bus transportation systems.

The House debated House Bill 374, which was the very large and complicated insurance revision bill. It will virtually do away with the charter type contracts which are now so prevalent in the state. This is a much needed provision, as many people are being duped into buying substandard life insurance. A good test of most life insurance policies is to check on the cash value of such policy at the end of a given period of time. For instance, 10 years, and compare this to other policies available to the public.

House Bill 588 was passed, which will be of great assistance to some of our older people. It exempts the first $1,000 cash value of a life insurance policy in the computation of eligibility for old age assistance.

Legislative action has been taken to have the Missouri General Assembly go into annaul sessions rather than bi-annual sessions. This is a much needed provision as the complexities of government have made it very difficult for us to administer only six months every two years.

House Bill 575 was advanced, which will create a tourism commission for the state. This should benefit all of our people, as we have discovered that tourism is a very valuable industry for the people of the state.

House Bill 90 was passed by the House. This would put a ceiling of $15,000 on any elected county official who receives his pay by a fee system.

House Bill 533 was advanced, which will allow for county reassessment of counties having a disparity of 25 per cent from the true assessed value. The bill in its theory is good, but it concentrates, in my opinion, too much power in the State Tax Commission.

House Bill 113 was advanced, which would exempt $3,000 a year for taxation in any one year of those funds received from federal service annuities.

House Bill 547 was advanced, which exploits a loophole found in the federal beautification law which has been in the news recently. It was discovered that the federal law did not apply to any area which was zoned. This bill zones the entire state of Missouri, thus, theoretically, eliminating it from the federal law. I think this is very bad procedure for a state to intentionally subvert any law, whether good or bad.

House Bill 74 was passed, which will give some additional duties to county court judges and will raise their pay slightly.

I would also like to announce to those people interested that an additional 1,000 - acre lake will be provided at the Mingo Wild Life Reserve for the use of the people. This, of course, will take several years to build and stock, but is a welcome addition to our wild life facility in the Bootheel.

Open House for Housing Project At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- May 21 is the date set for open house of the new low - rent housing project, with touring of the duplex homes between 1 and 5 p.m.

There are 46 units and a community center in the project. The units are all one-story duplexes, all distinctly different in choice of materials and paint.

Representatives will be present from the architectural firm, contractor and all those who were connected with the building as well as the members of the Bloomfield Housing Authority and women from Bloomfield clubs to help with the tour.

NAVY NURSE CORPS CELEBRATES 59th ANNIVERSARY

May 13, 1908 saw President Theodore Roosevelt sign legislation authorizing the establishment of the Navy Nurse Corps as a staff Corps of the Navy. By October 1908, the first twenty nurses, who later came to be called the "Sacred Twenty" had reported to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C. for duty.

During World War I, four Navy Nurses were awarded the Navy Cross for outstanding service, three post-humously; two others won Army Citations for "special, meritorious and conspicuous service."

World War II saw 11,068 Navy Nurse Corps Officers on active duty. They served in Naval Hospitals within the continental limits of the United States. They brought nursing care to the front lines aboard 12 hospital ships, in air evacuation of casualties, and to foreign lands where American women had never before been seen. Commander Ann A. Bernatitus, now retired, was the first person in the Naval Service to receive the Legion of Merit for Service with the Army in Bataan. Sixteen Navy Nurses were prisoners of war of the Japanese, five were returned to the United States in 1942 and eleven were liberated in 1945 from the Phillipines after 37 months internment. Thirteen nurses were awarded Bronze Star Medals and eleven received Gold Stars in lieu of a second Bronze Star for meritorious performance of duty. Twelve nurses wear the Distinguished Unit Badge of the Army, for especially meritorious service in the Phillipines, and forty-two have Unit Commendations for distinguished service aboard the USS SOLACE and at the Naval Hospital, Pearl Harbor, at the time of the Japanese attack.

During the Korean conflict three Navy Nurses won the Bronze Star, one a Letter of Commendation with Ribbon and Combat "V" while six received Letters of Commendation.

Four Navy Nurses, stationed at the U. S. Navy Headquarters Support Activity, Saigon, were the first women in Viet Nam to be awarded the Purple Heart. Presently, the hospital ships, the USS REPOSE and the SANCTUARY, are staffed with Navy Nurses and operating off the cost of Viet Nam.

The history of the Nurse Corps is long and enviable, and is deserving of the best wishes of us all on this their 59th Anniversary.

In consonance with the illustrious history of the Navy Nurse Corps, Governor WARREN E. HEARNES has proclaimed the week May 15th through 21st as "Navy Nurse Corps Week."

The Navy Nurse Corps urgently needs nurses who qualify to help provide the best nursing care possible to our Navy and Marine Corps men who are defending our country. Interested persons should contact their local Navy Recruiting Station for further information.

"Some political figures have discovered that there is potent political pay dirt in courting Mrs. Consumer - her husband, and all of the rest of her family," said Charles G. Mortimer, chairman of the executive committee of General Foods, Inc., New York.

"America's business, backbone of our economic strength, is bound to be weakened - perhaps dangerously so - by any loss of consumer confidence."

Mortimer condemed what he described as legislation "mislabeled truth-in-this or truth-in-that," as well as current proposals to rewrite laws dealing with hazardous household products, to minimize the chance of electric power failure, to create a department of consumer affairs, to limit advertising messages, to provide federal grade labeling of food products, and to limit advertising expenditures.

Students Do Good Turn for Taxpayers

RENTON, Wash. (AP) -- Renton High School students thought something should be done for persons who continue to pay taxes to support schools although they no longer are served directly by the schools.

So the students suggested formation of a gold card club for senior citizens. The school board went along.

Now all women in the district will be given a card at age 62 and men at 65. It will admit them free to all high school events from athletic contests to plays and concerts.

nam. In aerial dogfights the MIGs have now downed 16 U.S. planes while losing 49 Red aircraft.

The intensified air war was matched by heavier ground fighting in South Vietnam, mainly along the 17th Parallel which divides Vietnam.

The most sensitive targets for the 126 strike missions flown Friday were a storage area four miles from downtown Hanoi and an army barracks an equal distance southwest of the capital.

Returning to their bases in Thailand, pilots reported both areas burning fiercely. Smoke was rising 1,500 feet over Hanoi's outskirts as the raiders winged off, they said.

Striking even deeper into North Vietnam, a Thunderchief strike plastered a SAM site 68 miles up the Red River Valley from Hanoi. Evidently the bombs hit a warhead storage area. Smoke was billowing 7,000 feet in the air after the raid, pilots said.

An Air Force spokesman said the MIGs attempted to disrupt practically every deep penetration mission by the Thunderchiefs. The speedier F4C Phantoms, flying cover against the MIGs, had their hands full fighting off the Red jets.

The spokesman said the Communist MIG's evidently escaped unscathed from the dogfights. No claims were made by returning U.S. pilots, although one Thunderchief pilot reported a MIG was streaming a white vapor trail after being fired upon.

There was no estimate of the number of MIGs in the sky. It appeared, however, that the U. S. raids against the MIG airfields which started last month -- three of the six MIG bases have now been bombed -- have not appreciably weakened North Vietnam's fledgling air force of about 120 planes.

The United States claims that between 9 and 15 Red jets were destroyed in the bombings.

U.S. headquarters disclosed that Communist forces dug in along the demilitarized zone frontier of North Vietnam were continuing to bring new weapons into the area. Two new types of artillery pieces were among the guns which shelled U.S. positions just below the DMZ Friday.

Shelling the Army-Marine artillery base at Gio Linh and the Marine camp at Con Thien, Red mortars and artillery shells killed one Marine and wounded 24 Friday.

A few miles further south in Quang Nam province, more Marines were reported in a heavy battle Friday and Saturday with an enemy force holding a rugged ridgeline.

An Immortal Inheritance

By Brigadier Christine E. McMillan (R).

Tens of thousands of Americans went abroad this summer. A computation of the cumulative hours of preparation from the first moments spent paring over travel folders to the last minute instructions to the paper boy and the milkman would be staggering.

Lists are made of what to take, and how much. And it's usually too much! Lists of friends and relatives to be looked up -- lists, lists, lists. On and on it goes until the inexperienced and harried would - be traveler wonders if "this trip is really necessary."

Curiously enough, while we make necessary and adequate preparation for most of what we must face in life, the final destination of the soul rarely enters into the calculations of the average man -- religionist or not.

Someone said a long time ago, "A dialogue between two infants in the womb concerning the state of the world, might handsomely illustrate our ignorance of the next." This distaste for considering the future life of the soul may partly be due to the distorted image we have received through biblical descriptions which use Oriental imagery to describe the glories of Heaven.

Streets of gold, jeweled gates, robes and harps and strange shapes and figures make little impression upon 20th century western man.

Unable to accept the image so incongruous to the mind, we now adopt an attitude of indifference, preferring not to think at all of that which is beyond man's imagination.

Another obstacle is the challenge implicit in a belief in a future life. To believe in an ongoing life of the soul requires that one should sow to the spirit and bring forth the fruits of the spirit, and this endeavor does not fit in somehow with the claims and pressures, the selfish involvements and goals of modern life.

When those we love die, it is difficult for us to think of them in any other way save that they are removed from life, and between them and us is fixed a great gulf which widens with the years. The "communion of saints," once so comforting a phrase, is to most merely a phrase, beautiful but scarcely to be entertained as a spiritual reality.

The deep, abiding conviction that this life is only the training ground for another and better life, enters nowhere into the consideration of most men and women in the world today.

The Christian who is seeking to know God, His nature and what is the relation of the soul to its Maker and Giver, knows in the depths of his spirit that "there is something within us that can be without us and will be after us."

There are moments in the life of every man when the obscuring mists part and a glimpse is received of "that which is above and beyond," a swift dart of shining truth, which is beyond reason, to which the soul responds instantly and completely.

The commandment is not, "only think" or "only reason," says Osler. The only enduring enlightenment is through faith. "Only believe" and "he that believeth" are the commandments with strength and comfort.

THE MOB SPIRIT

The worsening of the climate of violence, anarchy and civil disobedience was grimly apparent in recent days in several sections of the country. The rapid breakdown of law and order and of public safety and private decency could well become a prime issue in the next presidential campaign.

In California, a band of ruffians who call themselves Black Panthers knocked over sergeants at arms and invaded the California legislature while it was in session. The invaders carried with them a variety of loaded weapons, including sawed - off shotguns. The leaders of the group broke into the proceedings of the legislature and shouted insults.

In New Hamsphire, former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, who had been invited to speak at Dartmouth College, was forced off the speaking platform by a gang of roughnecks. Approximately a thousand students then surrounded him in his automobile, rocked it, and came close to injuring him. Mr. Wallace showed remarkable coolness in a dangerous situation, but he rightly pointed out that the kind of "academic freedom" displayed by the Dartmouth students could get one killed. The editor of the Dartmouth student newspaper said of the incident, which came close to resembling a lynching party: "I am ashamed." Indeed the entire administration and student body of the famous old "liberal arts" college should feel shame for what took place.

In Kentucky, radical demonstrators threatened to disrupt the historic Kentucky Derby if they did not get their way on "open housing" demands, and forced the governor to call out National Guardsmen to preserve the peace.

In New Jersey, a radical protest group based in Rockester, N. Y., and known as FIGHT (Freedom, Integration, God, Honor -- Today) conducted a huge demonstration against Eastman Kodak Company, one of the country's model employers and most progressive business enterprises.

The demonstration took place at the company's annual meeting, and 100 state policemen were needed to contain demonstrators who had been recruited at Cornell, Princeton and other colleges. The leader of FIGHT, the Rev. Franklin D. Roosevelt Florence, vowed to war against Kodak until demands for exclusive control over hiring of unskilled workers had been met. In a speech at the company session, he gave stockholders a one - hour ultimatum to bow to FIGHT's demands. Fortunately, the stockholders refused to pay heed to this.

These and other developments around the country point to a situation which is getting out of hand. Lawless, contemptuous elements in the country believe they have free rein to do what they want to disturb the peace. Not only do they want to trample on the rights of the majority, but they want to have police protection while they go on a rampage of disorderly behavior. For example, when Gen. William C. Westmoreland received an honorary degree from the University of South Carolina -- his native state -- the ceremony was rudely interrupted. A handful of demonstrators later were indignant that they had not been protected in their protest by state police.

Unless the disorderly protest minority is curbed in this country, life may become intolerable to decent, respectable citizens and responsible businesses. The California legislature may not be the last to be invaded by armed groups. Traditionally, this has been a tolerant country. Americans sensibly have realized that every nation has a tiny element of kooks who have to be humored a little. But there is a limit on just toleration. The small group of oddballs -- the lunatic fringe in American life -- cannot be allowed to ride roughshod over the laws or to create a kind of epidemic of disorder.

This is the real danger. No doubt the students at Dartmouth College are generally good citizens. It is likely that the vast majority were caught up in the fever of excitement created by a small cadre of disruptionists. That's the way all mobs work: the few incite the many, and terrorism and tragedy results. To prevent mob rule in this country, on the campus and off, will require some stern leadership in public office, the press, the bar, and in the pulpit. Those clergymen who have involved themselves in demonstrations bear an especially heavy responsibility for what is taking place. They should examine their consciences, and wake up to the necessity for upholding law and decency.

Sikestonian To Graduate From MSU

MEMPHIS -- A total of 664 degrees will be awarded in the second convocation of the year May 27 for Memphis State University.

Among the graduates will be Shirley Anne Adams of Sikeston, Mo. Miss Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewavon Adams of 115 School, is scheduled to receive a bachelor of business administration degree.

Charles Schneider, editor of the Memphis Press - Scimitar, will give the commencement address at 10 a.m. before presentation of degrees in the Mid-South Coliseum near the University campus.

Of the total number of degrees, 517 bachelors will be awarded, along with 116 masters degrees and 27 new juris doctor degrees of the school of law. Another four bachelor of laws degrees will be awarded.

Memphis State, which has convocations in January, May and August, will award nearly 1,500 degrees this year.

Stoddard County Marriage Licenses

BLOOMFIELD -- These marriage licenses were issued by the recorder:

Johnny Junior Hill and Marilyn Kay Sisk, both of Dexter.

Lawrence Eugene Foster and Flora Eveline Hemby both of Puxico.

Glendall Ray Mickey and Joyce Ann Jackson, both of Bernie.

Marion Royal Sanders, St. Louis, and Wanda Jewel Spurlin, Morehouse.

Mental retardation never kills anyone.

But who can count the lives it's wasted?

It's not a killer like heart disease or cancer. Yet, no human affliction is more wasteful than mental retardation.

Think of the babies doomed from birth to live out their years uselessly . . . the children who never have a chance to learn what they are capable of learning . . . the retarded adults, trained to work, but refused jobs.

What a waste! What a loss!

We can change this. How?

Start by finding out what your community or state is doing to salvage many of these lives.

Are programs under way in education, recreation, vocational training? Are they directed by teachers and others who really understand the retarded and how they can best be helped?

Remember, fully 85 percent of the retarded can become productive citizens—if given the special help they need and deserve.

Don't wait for the other fellow to take the lead. Use your own influence, or that of a group to which you belong, to assure the retarded their rights as fellow human beings and fellow citizens.

Murder Suspect Arrested

(Special to the Daily Standard)

CHESTER, Ill. - A suspect in the murder-robbery of Joseph Gagnepain, 55, toll booth attendant on the Chester bridge was picked up at 2:40 a.m. this morning, the Randolph county sheriff's office reported.

Arrested by local police, sheriff's officers and highway patrol officers was Jerome Miller, 25, of Chester.

Miller was expected to be charged with armed robbery and murder today by State's Attorney Harold Cloffelter.

Gagnepain was pronounced dead in Memorial Hospital about 1 a.m. Friday.

Pete Mehrer, deputy sheriff of Randolph county, reported this morning that a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol and $38.30 were recovered from the trunk of Miller's car.

Police placed the time of the robbery-shooting at between 11 and 11:05 p.m. Thursday night.

At 10:55 p.m. a bus went through the toll gate and signed a charge ticket. At 11:05 p.m. a truck driver found Gagnepain lying on the floor but alive. Gagnepain never regained conciousness. He was shot in the head with a .38 calibre weapon. About $51 in toll money was missing from his booth.

In the intense investigation officers reported that Miller's car was parked near the bridge. They decided to get a search warrant about midnight last night and discovered the revolver and the money in the trunk of the car.

Miller, who rides back and forth from Chester to St. Louis to work and leaves his car at the bridge, was arrested on his return to his car this morning.

A suspect apprehended in Cairo yesterday was cleared of the robbery-shooting, but was charged with another crime, police said.

A MOTHER'S DAY SURPRISE will be in store for their mothers. Vanessa, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keefer, and Chris, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Yarnell, both pupils at the Carousel school, make gifts for Mother's Day. Each pupil made a small paper lace apron and a wall plaque.

U.S. Planes Shoot Down 7 MIG Fighters

SAIGON (AP) - Sweeping the skies over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes knocked down seven Communist MIG17 jet fighters today, the U.S. Air Force said. Two other MIGs were listed as probably destroyed.

The Air Force said the Communist planes were shot down during strikes in the Hanoi area.

There was no report of any American planes lost, although it had been disclosed earlier that three U.S. Air Force planes were downed over North Vietnam on Friday.

All the American fighter planes involved in the dogfights Saturday were flying from bases in Thailand, the Air Force said.

The destruction of seven MIG s in dogfighting on a single day equalled an American record set last Mar. 2.

By Saigon tabulation, U.S. pilots now have destroyed 56 of Hanoi's jet fighters in such combat against the loss of 16 American planes.

Aground U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen fought Communist detachments at three points on a great arc below the border demilitarized zone.

Fragmentary field reports told of 35 enemy dead in these actions ranging 200 miles from the Con Thien area down to the An Lao valley. There was no immediate accounting of American casualties.

Involved in the air battles were pilots flying from the Thailand bases at Ubon, Takhli and Korat, the Air Force said.

These followed raids Friday on two targets four miles from the center of Hanoit. There was heavy fire from Red guns, missiles and MIGs that day and three U.S. Air Force planes were downed.

Military headquarters said practically every strike in the Hanoi area was jumped by Communist MIGs. One of the lost jets, a Phantom F4C, was downed by the Red's slower MIG17.

The other two U.S. aircraft lost were slower Thunderchief jets-one lost to ground fire and the other to "unknown causes." Five airmen were listed as missing in action.

The toll brought to 539 the U.S. planes lost over North Viet-

Rain Hits Area

A severe thunderstorm watch was issued today for parts of southeast Missouri.

"The threat of a few severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds will exist in these areas from 12 noon until 6 p.m. CDT, this afternoon.

"The severe thunderstorms are expected in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from 30 miles west of Dyersburg, Tenn., to 30 miles northeast of Chattanooga, Tenn."

The weather man has been unkind to residents of the lower Bootheel the past three days as rain, hail and strong winds have tormented the area.

Rain at Kennett yesterday measured 6.9 inches and 8.7 since the start Thursday.

Sikeston's rain measured .68 of an inch in the 24-hour period ending today at 7:30 a.m.

Lightning struck an electrical line above a white way pole in front of the C&H Service Station, 808 West Malone, at 9:15 p.m. Friday and darkened the west entrance to Sikeston from the city limits to Ferrell's Castle.

The white way was without power for about 20 minutes. Electrical service to Malone and Hyde Inc., 1500 West Malone, and the Gulf Oil Corp, Chemical Dept., 1600 West Malone, also were affected, George Robinson, line superintendent for the Board of Public Works, said.

The shortage resulted when two fuses blew on a tap line near the area where the lightning struck, Robinson said.

Lighting knocked out radio transmitting towers at Kennett and Poplar Bluff. The KBOA radio tower in Kennett was struck by lightning, and the Missouri highway patrol tower at Poplar Bluff was damaged about midnight last night.

A reported hail storm at Hayti this morning damaged roof tops and windows as two inches of hail fell in less than an hour.

Hayti reported five inches of rain this morning.

Water has caused small streams in the lower part of the Bootheel to overflow over highways, and damage to farm land is expected to be heavy.

An unexpected hail storm swept through the Bootheel area late Thursday night, causing extensive damage to crops, houses and business buildings, especially in the Hornersville area.

The huge ice balls, reportedly the size of baseballs, knocked out windows and damaged roofs in Hornersville where a path of destruction a little larger than the town itself was reported.

Mrs. Goldie Young, wife of Hornersville City Marshal J.D. Young, said "The windows on the north side of our house were knocked out by the hail and a wheat field across the road from our house looked as though a shredder had gone over it."

The most extensively damaged building in this small Bootheel community was the elementary school where more than 70 windows were reported knocked out by the hailstones.

The Kennett area witnessed hail about the size of mothballs while Senath reported the hail was about one and a quarter inches in diameter.

The hail storm was accompanied by rain and an electrical storm. Precipitation left on the Bootheel soil Thursday night amounted to 1.07 inches.

'Hound' Eludes Police Chase

Police received a report Friday evening that a large greyhound was running loose in the 600 block of Holly Hill, and jumping over high fences.

Residents of the area became concerned that the large dog might injure someone, so they notified police.

Officers James Sindle and Dolph Webb arrived on the scene at about 7 p.m. and attempted to catch the dog. The report filed with the radio dispatcher quoted the officers as saying, "He just ran off and left us."

The greyhound tunred out to be a great dane owned by W.P. Sappenfield. The owner caught the dog later in the evening, police reported.

In other police activity, Raymert Miller, 719 Mimosa, reported Friday that an electric shaver valued at $15 was taken from the glove compartment of his automobile Monday night while it was parked on Luther street.

Leeta Smith and Scott Smith Jr., Box 494, Sikeston, were each issued a summons Friday charging them with allowing their son to violate the curfew, police reported.

John H. Stevenson, 208 Westgate, was arrested today on Felker street and charged with public intoxication, police said.

First MCB Star For East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE - The city has received the first star for the education section of Community Betterment.

This is the first received in any of the five categories, and it is to be erected early next week on Community Betterment signs located at Big Book Corner and at the city limits on Highway 80 west.

The Five Star evaluation form under education received here states: "This community has been evaluated by my office on present status of the education system. The community has met the minimum criteria and is therefore entitled to display a star for education."

Huey D. Cook, general supervisor, state department of education, wrote:

"I am happy to recommend the community of East Prairie for the star in education. Last school year they had a AA-6-2-4 classification. At the present time they are in process of building and remodeling some existing buildings at an estimated cost of $300,000. I'm sure you will find Ray Melton, superintendent of the East Prairie School System most co-operative in discussing any deficiences which he feels exist in the school system."

Under utilities, East Prairie has been evaluated on present status of the sewer system and has met the minimum criteria for sewers. Other categories which must be approved under utilities are water and street lighting in order that the city will be eligible to receive another star.

Health services and fire protection have also met the minimum criteria under the heading of community services. Others which must be met under this heading are police protection and leisure time activity.

All these projects are being worked on, it was reported.

Fowler Indicates Lower Taxes Will Be Needed After War's End

By STERLING F. GREEN

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler assured the nation's top industrialists today that the administration will call for major tax reductions when the war in Vietnam ends in order to continue sustained economic growth.

Fowler prepared his address for the spring meeting of the Business Council, attended by the heads of about 100 of the country's largest corporations.

He said President Johnson has set in motion "the most explicit, detailed and inclusive" planning effort ever made for a return to peace from war.

For the council, it was a switch from Friday's bad news.

The council's panel of 25 professional economic advisers reported that a $6-billion escalation in Vietnam spending was in prospect for fiscal 1968, starting next July 1. The report indicated that the estimate was drawn at least in part from government sources.

Because of a prospective $2.5-billion dip in corporation profits, this could mean a federal deficit of more than $18 billion, the professional economists said, unless Johnson's proposed income tax surcharge is enacted. Johnson forecast an $8.1-billion deficit, assuming a 6 per cent tax surcharge starting July 1.

This would make the government a net borrower of $10 billion in this calendar year, the council's consultants said, and is a major reason for the administration's continued desire to have a tax increase enacted this year.

The panel said it concurred that a tax boost would be desirable — not on July 1, but possibly Oct. 1 — for budgetary and anti-inflation reasons.

Fowler did not mention any increase in Vietnam spending, although many Washington sources have predicted another steep upturn. Instead, he emphasized that spending has been held below increases in revenues, except for the Vietnam outlays, and that government policies have left the economy in a healthy state for an end to hostilities.

He noted congressional estimates that if current spending and tax policies — other than those connected with Vietnam — were continued unchanged, the government would run a surplus of some $15 billion by 1970 and $44 billion by 1975.

Since such massive surpluses would paralyze the economy, he said, there would have to be either a great increase in federal spending "or there will be room for tax reduction spreading over many years and of a large scale nature."

"It is my strong belief that we should — and will — choose to take a large portion of this substantial fiscal dividend in the future in the form of a lighter tax burden," Fowler said.

Industrial leaders, meanwhile, were urged to unite in defense of the business system against consumerism - described as the drive in Congress and state legislatures to enact consumer protection

City Manager to Address Rotarians

Rotarians will be given an insight into city government problems Monday night at their meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

City Manager T. Raymert Miller will address the meeting.

One Injured

MATTHEWS - Edgar Stewart, 67, sustained head cuts in a two-car accident east of Matthews Friday noon.

The highway patrol said a car driven by William Hennecke, 23, Jackson, pulled out into the path of the Stewart car. Stewart was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

No Leads in Cave Search

HANNIBAL (AP) - Rescue workers resumed digging today at the mud and grey rock of a cave which they think has trapped three local boys since Wednesday.

The scene was quiet as workers made spot diggings near Murphy's Cave in hopes of breaking into passageways unreachable from the cave entrance.

There is no evidence that Craig Dowell, and brothers Billy and Joey Hoag are in the cave. But they were seen near it before they were reported missing. New highway excavations have sliced through a hill making the cave accessible.

Earth-moving equipment will be used today to excavate a completed road bed where some believe the bodies of the boys might be found.

Some searchers believe the boys may have fallen into one of the "sink holes" which have plagued the construction work and later were covered up. The sink holes result when the heavy machinery forces the collapse of one of the underground passages in the area.

A company of Missouri National Guardsmen was to remain in the area in the search and help control the spectators.

Fire at Lilbourn Destroys Stores

LILBOURN -- Fire broke out during an electrical storm early today and resulted in the complete loss of three downtown business establishments valued at $50,000 to $75,000. No one was injured.

Only the rickety frames of the Western Auto Associate Store, (formerly known as The Palace), and an old theater building remain standing this morning.

The three buildings are adjacent to each other and are located on Main street.

Intense heat from the burning brick buildings burst the plate glass windows in three business establishments across the street.

The Lilbourn volunteer fire department was called to the scene at 3 a.m. today. Volunteer firemen of the New Madrid fire department came to their aid at about 4 a.m.

The fire was brought under control at about 5:30 a.m., but remaining embers were still burning at 10 a.m. today.

A doctor's office adjacent to the Western Auto building was threatened by the blazing flames. A firewall divides the two buildings, but the heat caused minor damage to the inside of the office.

Cause of the fire was not determined, but there was speculation that it was caused by lightning, Fred Saltzman, manager of the Western Auto store, said.

The fire was believed to have started in the rear of the Western Auto store or the rear of the restaurant, Saltzman said.

Alumni Want Funds Restored

COLUMBIA (AP) -- The University of Missouri Alumni Association is appealing to the Missouri Senate to restore some appropriations that were cut by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The committee chopped $10 million from the capital improvements recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and approved by the House.

The association's national board said in a resolution that "lack of these facilities will severely affect the academic offerings extended to the thousands of present and future young people of the state."

The Senate committee eliminated $7.6 million for a proposed multi-purpose auditorium; $2.5 million for a chemistry building addition; $350,000 for an addition to the university system building, and $200,000 of $400,000 requested for future campus sites.

Illinois Man Fined $123

Henry Wright, Pulaski, Ill., was fined a total of $123 on four charges Friday in city court. City Judge W. L. George presided in the absence of E.R. Schrader.

Wright was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated; $25 each on charges of resisting arrest and carrying a concealed weapon and $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

N. J. Warthan, 319 Smith, was fined $12 on a charge of public intoxication.

Rosie Lee Todd, 946 Lake, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Homer L. Greene, 117 West Wakefield, was fined $23 on charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Ike McCormick, 140 Fifth Street, was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated and $15 on a charge of littering.

Lucy Ann Newton, Morehouse, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Margaret Griffin, Charleston, was fined $56 on a charge of petit larceny.

East Prairie Pool Will Open May 30

EAST PRAIRIE - Repairs and repainting are underway at the city swimming pool, Mayor Ed Felts said, so that the pool will be ready to open as usual on May 30, Memorial Day.

The city's annual Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week will be held May 22-27. City trucks will pick up all trash which is placed in containers near the street on Tuesday and Thursday of that week.

Alderman Joe Watson is in charge of the program, which will aid in the Community Betterment project. He said the mayor and council join him in urging East Prairie residents to participate in the campaign.

At a city council meeting Watson was appointed president of the city board; he will act as mayor in Felts' absence.

The council discussed a new franchise for the Associated Natural Gas Co. The city attorney is drawing up an ordinance calling for an election to vote on the new franchise. The ordinance is expected to be ready by the June meeting, and the election will be held soon afterward.

The gas franchise, which expires in October, was for 20 years, calling for the company to pay the city a franchise tax of 2 per cent of gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills. The proposed new franchise would be for 10 years with two five-year options to renew: it may be canceled at the end of the 10 years.

At the end of the 10 years, negotiations can be made, and the option renewed. The new franchise calls for 5 per cent of the gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills to be paid to the city, in comparison with the 2 per cent paid under the past franchise.

Procedure to be followed by the city when complaints from property holders are received about outdoor toilets, trash, cans and general litter on property near them, was discussed, and the ordinances on these matters were checked. This comes under ordinances covered by the Nuisance Clause, and steps are being taken by the board to handle these complaints, and correct the condition.

The auditing report was received at the meeting, and Mayor Felts stated there is a copy at city hall, and he also has one, and any interested citizen may see the report at either place.

An outline of the budget for the coming year was also received by the board, and at present Mayor Felts is working on that budget to present to the council during the June meeting for their approval.

A petition was received by the board from Mrs. L. J. Falkoff and Mrs. Leola B. Hopgood, asking that the dirt fill between the sidewalk and the curb beside Falkoff's Ben Franklin Store and beside the building owned by Mrs. Hopgood, where the Dollar Store now is, be either blacktopped or concreted. The board is securing advisement on the cost of such a project.

Mary Anne Bruce

Miss Bruce Soloist at Band Concert

Miss Mary Anne Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo A. Bruce, will be featured as piano soloist with the Sikeston high school band at the pop concert Monday.

Miss Bruce plays first chair oboe in the band and will play Bucalosi's "Grasshopper's Dance" as her solo piano number.

Other numbers to be played by the early division band will include "The Shadow of Your Smile," "On a Clear Day," and other Broadway and motion picture songs.

The concert will be in the outdoor band shell at the high school at 8 p.m. following open house activities.

Parents and friends of high school students are invited to tour the school Monday 6:30 to 8 p.m. during the school's open house.

Delinquency Is Contagious: Craig

By BARBARA LACY

"Delinquency is contagious, it can become an epidemic," Judge Marshall Craig told a joint dinner meeting of the Scott County child welfare advisory committee and Scott County welfare commission Friday night at the El Capri restaurant. About 50 persons attended the annual meeting.

Speaking on "Services to Children," Judge Craig traced the development of the juvenile court system in our country and reviewed changes in the court's philosophy toward helping young people in trouble.

"Each generation has had their problem children," he said. "Even the Bible speaks of juvenile delinquency. Last year 1,304,000 children in the United States went to juvenile court in one capacity or another, ranging from delinquency to traffic violations. Of these, 160,000 were involved in neglect cases.

"Children used to be treated in court as adults. They were tried and prosecuted as adults, and if convicted, they were placed in prison with adult criminals."

We have since learned that we don't solve our problems by keeping our children in jail. It's much easier to help or change children when they are young, than when they are older and more matured, and have committed themselves to a life of delinquency.

Over the years court treatment of children has changed. Juveniles are now treated under special laws and court procedures.

The first juvenile court was set up in 1899, establishing separate hearings for children. Today, our sessions are held in private and the records are kept confidential. The parents of the delinquents are expected to attend the hearings, as are the juvenile court staff, the child welfare worker and the school counselors.

"The problems of youth in our community are the same as in other communities. Each child is different and about 30 individual cases are heard each time the juvenile court meets, which is one Saturday a month.

"We hold juvenile court on Saturdays so that the child does not have to miss school. Few counties in the state have this practice," he added.

Judge Craig said that contrary to some popular opinion, law and social work were seeking the same goals: justice, welfare and help for the individual.

Judge Craig pointed out the need for foster family homes as well as shelter homes. Foster family homes are used for children who can not be cared for in their own home because of parental neglect, abuse or abandonment. Shelter homes would be used for children returning from institutions such as the state training schools in Boonville and Chillicothe. These children would return to society on a gradual basis.

"Much public education and understanding of the children involved in juvenile court is needed," he continued. "The court serves as a parent when the natural parents fail to meet the child's basic needs. Some parents can be helped to provide better care, training and supervision, but in other cases the child needs to be removed for his own protection.

"Although the parents are often to blame," he concluded, "the community also has some responsibility toward the group."

Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, Scott County welfare director, announced that Gary Thurman has been appointed as the second child welfare worker for Scott County. He will be joining Mrs. Gwen McDonough in providing services to neglected and dependent children, to unmarried mothers and to children in foster and adoptive homes.

The members of the county welfare commission are Charles Simpson, W. G. "Bud" Mason, William Bess and M. E. Gisi.

The members of the child welfare advisory committee are Mrs. Margaret Cain, Mrs. Glenda Davis, Jim Mac Emerson, Mrs. Melvin Glueck, Mrs. Milem Limbaugh, Mrs. Barbara Moore, Mrs. K. M. Streeter, Donald Fulton, Ollie Amick and William Moore.

Others attending the meeting included the Scott county court judges, the prosecuting attorney and members of the district and county welfare offices.

Murder Suspect Arrested

(Special to the Daily Standard)

CHESTER, Ill. - A suspect in the murder-robbery of Joseph Gagnepain, 55, toll booth attendant on the Chester bridge was picked up at 2:40 a.m. this morning, the Randolph county sheriff's office reported.

Arrested by local police, sheriff's officers and highway patrol officers was Jerome Miller, 25, of Chester.

Miller was expected to be charged with armed robbery and murder today by State's Attorney Harold Cloffelter.

Gagnepain was pronounced dead in Memorial Hospital about 1 a.m. Friday.

Pete Mehrer, deputy sheriff of Randolph county, reported this morning that a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson pistol and $38.30 were recovered from the trunk of Miller's car.

Police placed the time of the robbery-shooting at between 11 and 11:05 p.m. Thursday night.

At 10:55 p.m. a bus went through the toll gate and signed a charge ticket. At 11:05 p.m. a truck driver found Gagnepain lying on the floor but alive. Gagnepain never regained conciousness. He was shot in the head with a .38 calibre weapon. About $51 in toll money was missing from his booth.

In the intense investigation officers reported that Miller's car was parked near the bridge. They decided to get a search warrant about midnight last night and discovered the revolver and the money in the trunk of the car.

Miller, who rides back and forth from Chester to St. Louis to work and leaves his car at the bridge, was arrested on his return to his car this morning.

A suspect apprehended in Cairo yesterday was cleared of the robbery-shooting, but was charged with another crime, police said.

A MOTHER'S DAY SURPRISE will be in store for their mothers. Vanessa, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keefer, and Chris, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Yarnell, both pupils at the Carousel school, make gifts for Mother's Day. Each pupil made a small paper lace apron and a wall plaque.

U.S. Planes Shoot Down 7 MIG Fighters

SAIGON (AP) - Sweeping the skies over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes knocked down seven Communist MIG17 jet fighters today, the U.S. Air Force said. Two other MIGs were listed as probably destroyed.

The Air Force said the Communist planes were shot down during strikes in the Hanoi area.

There was no report of any American planes lost, although it had been disclosed earlier that three U.S. Air Force planes were downed over North Vietnam on Friday.

All the American fighter planes involved in the dogfights Saturday were flying from bases in Thailand, the Air Force said.

The destruction of seven MIG s in dogfighting on a single day equalled an American record set last Mar. 2.

By Saigon tabulation, U.S. pilots now have destroyed 56 of Hanoi's jet fighters in such combat against the loss of 16 American planes.

Aground U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen fought Communist detachments at three points on a great arc below the border demilitarized zone.

Fragmentary field reports told of 35 enemy dead in these actions ranging 200 miles from the Con Thien area down to the An Lao valley. There was no immediate accounting of American casualties.

Involved in the air battles were pilots flying from the Thailand bases at Ubon, Takhli and Korat, the Air Force said.

These followed raids Friday on two targets four miles from the center of Hanoit. There was heavy fire from Red guns, missiles and MIGs that day and three U.S. Air Force planes were downed.

Military headquarters said practically every strike in the Hanoi area was jumped by Communist MIGs. One of the lost jets, a Phantom F4C, was downed by the Red's slower MIG17.

The other two U.S. aircraft lost were slower Thunderchief jets-one lost to ground fire and the other to "unknown causes." Five airmen were listed as missing in action.

The toll brought to 539 the U.S. planes lost over North Viet-

Rain Hits Area

A severe thunderstorm watch was issued today for parts of southeast Missouri.

"The threat of a few severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds will exist in these areas from 12 noon until 6 p.m. CDT, this afternoon.

"The severe thunderstorms are expected in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from 30 miles west of Dyersburg, Tenn., to 30 miles northeast of Chattanooga, Tenn."

The weather man has been unkind to residents of the lower Bootheel the past three days as rain, hail and strong winds have tormented the area.

Rain at Kennett yesterday measured 6.9 inches and 8.7 since the start Thursday.

Sikeston's rain measured .68 of an inch in the 24-hour period ending today at 7:30 a.m.

Lightning struck an electrical line above a white way pole in front of the C&H Service Station, 808 West Malone, at 9:15 p.m. Friday and darkened the west entrance to Sikeston from the city limits to Ferrell's Castle.

The white way was without power for about 20 minutes. Electrical service to Malone and Hyde Inc., 1500 West Malone, and the Gulf Oil Corp, Chemical Dept., 1600 West Malone, also were affected, George Robinson, line superintendent for the Board of Public Works, said.

The shortage resulted when two fuses blew on a tap line near the area where the lightning struck, Robinson said.

Lighting knocked out radio transmitting towers at Kennett and Poplar Bluff. The KBOA radio tower in Kennett was struck by lightning, and the Missouri highway patrol tower at Poplar Bluff was damaged about midnight last night.

A reported hail storm at Hayti this morning damaged roof tops and windows as two inches of hail fell in less than an hour.

Hayti reported five inches of rain this morning.

Water has caused small streams in the lower part of the Bootheel to overflow over highways, and damage to farm land is expected to be heavy.

An unexpected hail storm swept through the Bootheel area late Thursday night, causing extensive damage to crops, houses and business buildings, especially in the Hornersville area.

The huge ice balls, reportedly the size of baseballs, knocked out windows and damaged roofs in Hornersville where a path of destruction a little larger than the town itself was reported.

Mrs. Goldie Young, wife of Hornersville City Marshal J.D. Young, said "The windows on the north side of our house were knocked out by the hail and a wheat field across the road from our house looked as though a shredder had gone over it."

The most extensively damaged building in this small Bootheel community was the elementary school where more than 70 windows were reported knocked out by the hailstones.

The Kennett area witnessed hail about the size of mothballs while Senath reported the hail was about one and a quarter inches in diameter.

The hail storm was accompanied by rain and an electrical storm. Precipitation left on the Bootheel soil Thursday night amounted to 1.07 inches.

First MCB Star For East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE - The city has received the first star for the education section of Community Betterment.

This is the first received in any of the five categories, and it is to be erected early next week on Community Betterment signs located at Big Book Corner and at the city limits on Highway 80 west.

The Five Star evaluation form under education received here states: "This community has been evaluated by my office on present status of the education system. The community has met the minimum criteria and is therefore entitled to display a star for education."

Huey D. Cook, general supervisor, state department of education, wrote:

"I am happy to recommend the community of East Prairie for the star in education. Last school year they had a AA-6-2-4 classification. At the present time they are in process of building and remodeling some existing buildings at an estimated cost of $300,000. I'm sure you will find Ray Melton, superintendent of the East Prairie School System most co-operative in discussing any deficiences which he feels exist in the school system."

Under utilities, East Prairie has been evaluated on present status of the sewer system and has met the minimum criteria for sewers. Other categories which must be approved under utilities are water and street lighting in order that the city will be eligible to receive another star.

Health services and fire protection have also met the minimum criteria under the heading of community services. Others which must be met under this heading are police protection and leisure time activity.

All these projects are being worked on, it was reported.

'Hound' Eludes Police Chase

Police received a report Friday evening that a large greyhound was running loose in the 600 block of Holly Hill, and jumping over high fences.

Residents of the area became concerned that the large dog might injure someone, so they notified police.

Officers James Sindle and Dolph Webb arrived on the scene at about 7 p.m. and attempted to catch the dog. The report filed with the radio dispatcher quoted the officers as saying, "He just ran off and left us."

The greyhound tunred out to be a great dane owned by W.P. Sappenfield. The owner caught the dog later in the evening, police reported.

In other police activity, Raymert Miller, 719 Mimosa, reported Friday that an electric shaver valued at $15 was taken from the glove compartment of his automobile Monday night while it was parked on Luther street.

Leeta Smith and Scott Smith Jr., Box 494, Sikeston, were each issued a summons Friday charging them with allowing their son to violate the curfew, police reported.

John H. Stevenson, 208 Westgate, was arrested today on Felker street and charged with public intoxication, police said.

Fowler Indicates Lower Taxes Will Be Needed After War's End

By STERLING F. GREEN

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler assured the nation's top industrialists today that the administration will call for major tax reductions when the war in Vietnam ends in order to continue sustained economic growth.

Fowler prepared his address for the spring meeting of the Business Council, attended by the heads of about 100 of the country's largest corporations.

He said President Johnson has set in motion "the most explicit, detailed and inclusive" planning effort ever made for a return to peace from war.

For the council, it was a switch from Friday's bad news.

The council's panel of 25 professional economic advisers reported that a $6-billion escalation in Vietnam spending was in prospect for fiscal 1968, starting next July 1. The report indicated that the estimate was drawn at least in part from government sources.

Because of a prospective $2.5-billion dip in corporation profits, this could mean a federal deficit of more than $18 billion, the professional economists said, unless Johnson's proposed income tax surcharge is enacted. Johnson forecast an $8.1-billion deficit, assuming a 6 per cent tax surcharge starting July 1.

This would make the government a net borrower of $10 billion in this calendar year, the council's consultants said, and is a major reason for the administration's continued desire to have a tax increase enacted this year.

The panel said it concurred that a tax boost would be desirable — not on July 1, but possibly Oct. 1 — for budgetary and anti-inflation reasons.

Fowler did not mention any increase in Vietnam spending, although many Washington sources have predicted another steep upturn. Instead, he emphasized that spending has been held below increases in revenues, except for the Vietnam outlays, and that government policies have left the economy in a healthy state for an end to hostilities.

He noted congressional estimates that if current spending and tax policies — other than those connected with Vietnam — were continued unchanged, the government would run a surplus of some $15 billion by 1970 and $44 billion by 1975.

Since such massive surpluses would paralyze the economy, he said, there would have to be either a great increase in federal spending "or there will be room for tax reduction spreading over many years and of a large scale nature."

"It is my strong belief that we should — and will — choose to take a large portion of this substantial fiscal dividend in the future in the form of a lighter tax burden," Fowler said.

Industrial leaders, meanwhile, were urged to unite in defense of the business system against consumerism - described as the drive in Congress and state legislatures to enact consumer protection

City Manager to Address Rotarians

Rotarians will be given an insight into city government problems Monday night at their meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

City Manager T. Raymert Miller will address the meeting.

One Injured

MATTHEWS - Edgar Stewart, 67, sustained head cuts in a two-car accident east of Matthews Friday noon.

The highway patrol said a car driven by William Hennecke, 23, Jackson, pulled out into the path of the Stewart car. Stewart was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

No Leads in Cave Search

HANNIBAL (AP) - Rescue workers resumed digging today at the mud and grey rock of a cave which they think has trapped three local boys since Wednesday.

The scene was quiet as workers made spot diggings near Murphy's Cave in hopes of breaking into passageways unreachable from the cave entrance.

There is no evidence that Craig Dowell, and brothers Billy and Joey Hoag are in the cave. But they were seen near it before they were reported missing. New highway excavations have sliced through a hill making the cave accessible.

Earth-moving equipment will be used today to excavate a completed road bed where some believe the bodies of the boys might be found.

Some searchers believe the boys may have fallen into one of the "sink holes" which have plagued the construction work and later were covered up. The sink holes result when the heavy machinery forces the collapse of one of the underground passages in the area.

A company of Missouri National Guardsmen was to remain in the area in the search and help control the spectators.

Fire at Lilbourn Destroys Stores

LILBOURN -- Fire broke out during an electrical storm early today and resulted in the complete loss of three downtown business establishments valued at $50,000 to $75,000. No one was injured.

Only the rickety frames of the Western Auto Associate Store, (formerly known as The Palace), and an old theater building remain standing this morning.

The three buildings are adjacent to each other and are located on Main street.

Intense heat from the burning brick buildings burst the plate glass windows in three business establishments across the street.

The Lilbourn volunteer fire department was called to the scene at 3 a.m. today. Volunteer firemen of the New Madrid fire department came to their aid at about 4 a.m.

The fire was brought under control at about 5:30 a.m., but remaining embers were still burning at 10 a.m. today.

A doctor's office adjacent to the Western Auto building was threatened by the blazing flames. A firewall divides the two buildings, but the heat caused minor damage to the inside of the office.

Cause of the fire was not determined, but there was speculation that it was caused by lightning, Fred Saltzman, manager of the Western Auto store, said.

The fire was believed to have started in the rear of the Western Auto store or the rear of the restaurant, Saltzman said.

Alumni Want Funds Restored

COLUMBIA (AP) -- The University of Missouri Alumni Association is appealing to the Missouri Senate to restore some appropriations that were cut by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The committee chopped $10 million from the capital improvements recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and approved by the House.

The association's national board said in a resolution that "lack of these facilities will severely affect the academic offerings extended to the thousands of present and future young people of the state."

The Senate committee eliminated $7.6 million for a proposed multi-purpose auditorium; $2.5 million for a chemistry building addition; $350,000 for an addition to the university system building, and $200,000 of $400,000 requested for future campus sites.

Illinois Man Fined $123

Henry Wright, Pulaski, Ill., was fined a total of $123 on four charges Friday in city court. City Judge W. L. George presided in the absence of E.R. Schrader.

Wright was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated; $25 each on charges of resisting arrest and carrying a concealed weapon and $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

N. J. Warthan, 319 Smith, was fined $12 on a charge of public intoxication.

Rosie Lee Todd, 946 Lake, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Homer L. Greene, 117 West Wakefield, was fined $23 on charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Ike McCormick, 140 Fifth Street, was fined $56 on a charge of driving while intoxicated and $15 on a charge of littering.

Lucy Ann Newton, Morehouse, was fined $17 on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Margaret Griffin, Charleston, was fined $56 on a charge of petit larceny.

East Prairie Pool Will Open May 30

EAST PRAIRIE - Repairs and repainting are underway at the city swimming pool, Mayor Ed Felts said, so that the pool will be ready to open as usual on May 30, Memorial Day.

The city's annual Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week will be held May 22-27. City trucks will pick up all trash which is placed in containers near the street on Tuesday and Thursday of that week.

Alderman Joe Watson is in charge of the program, which will aid in the Community Betterment project. He said the mayor and council join him in urging East Prairie residents to participate in the campaign.

At a city council meeting Watson was appointed president of the city board; he will act as mayor in Felts' absence.

The council discussed a new franchise for the Associated Natural Gas Co. The city attorney is drawing up an ordinance calling for an election to vote on the new franchise. The ordinance is expected to be ready by the June meeting, and the election will be held soon afterward.

The gas franchise, which expires in October, was for 20 years, calling for the company to pay the city a franchise tax of 2 per cent of gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills. The proposed new franchise would be for 10 years with two five-year options to renew; it may be canceled at the end of the 10 years.

At the end of the 10 years, negotiations can be made, and the option renewed. The new franchise calls for 5 per cent of the gross revenue on residential and commercial gas bills to be paid to the city, in comparison with the 2 per cent paid under the past franchise.

Procedure to be followed by the city when complaints from property holders are received about outdoor toilets, trash, cans and general litter on property near them, was discussed, and the ordinances on these matters were checked. This comes under ordinances covered by the Nuisance Clause, and steps are being taken by the board to handle these complaints, and correct the condition.

The auditing report was received at the meeting, and Mayor Felts stated there is a copy at city hall, and he also has one, and any interested citizen may see the report at either place.

An outline of the budget for the coming year was also received by the board, and at present Mayor Felts is working on that budget to present to the council during the June meeting for their approval.

A petition was received by the board from Mrs. L. J. Falkoff and Mrs. Leola B. Hopgood, asking that the dirt fill between the sidewalk and the curb beside Falkoff's Ben Franklin Store and beside the building owned by Mrs. Hopgood, where the Dollar Store now is, be either blacktopped or concreted. The board is securing advisement on the cost of such a project.

Mary Anne Bruce

Miss Bruce Soloist at Band Concert

Miss Mary Anne Bruce, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo A. Bruce, will be featured as piano soloist with the Sikeston high school band at the pop concert Monday.

Miss Bruce plays first chair oboe in the band and will play Bucalosi's "Grasshopper's Dance" as her solo piano number.

Other numbers to be played by the early division band will include "The Shadow of Your Smile," "On a Clear Day," and other Broadway and motion picture songs.

The concert will be in the outdoor band shell at the high school at 8 p.m. following open house activities.

Parents and friends of high school students are invited to tour the school Monday 6:30 to 8 p.m. during the school's open house.

Delinquency Is Contagious: Craig

By BARBARA LACY

"Delinquency is contagious, it can become an epidemic," Judge Marshall Craig told a joint dinner meeting of the Scott County child welfare advisory committee and Scott County welfare commission Friday night at the El Capri restaurant. About 50 persons attended the annual meeting.

Speaking on "Services to Children," Judge Craig traced the development of the juvenile court system in our country and reviewed changes in the court's philosophy toward helping young people in trouble.

"Each generation has had their problem children," he said. "Even the Bible speaks of juvenile delinquency. Last year 1,304,000 children in the United States went to juvenile court in one capacity or another, ranging from delinquency to traffic violations. Of these, 160,000 were involved in neglect cases.

"Children used to be treated in court as adults. They were tried and prosecuted as adults, and if convicted, they were placed in prison with adult criminals."

We have since learned that we don't solve our problems by keeping our children in jail. It's much easier to help or change children when they are young, than when they are older and more matured, and have committed themselves to a life of delinquency.

Over the years court treatment of children has changed. Juveniles are now treated under special laws and court procedures.

The first juvenile court was set up in 1899, establishing separate hearings for children. Today, our sessions are held in private and the records are kept confidential. The parents of the delinquents are expected to attend the hearings, as are the juvenile court staff, the child welfare worker and the school counselors.

"The problems of youth in our community are the same as in other communities. Each child is different and about 30 individual cases are heard each time the juvenile court meets, which is one Saturday a month.

"We hold juvenile court on Saturdays so that the child does not have to miss school. Few counties in the state have this practice," he added.

Judge Craig said that contrary to some popular opinion, law and social work were seeking the same goals: justice, welfare and help for the individual.

Judge Craig pointed out the need for foster family homes as well as shelter homes. Foster family homes are used for children who can not be cared for in their own home because of parental neglect, abuse or abandonment. Shelter homes would be used for children returning from institutions such as the state training schools in Boonville and Chillicothe. These children would return to society on a gradual basis.

"Much public education and understanding of the children involved in juvenile court is needed," he continued. "The court serves as a parent when the natural parents fail to meet the child's basic needs. Some parents can be helped to provide better care, training and supervision, but in other cases the child needs to be removed for his own protection.

"Although the parents are often to blame," he concluded, "the community also has some responsibility toward the group."

Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, Scott County welfare director, announced that Gary Thurman has been appointed as the second child welfare worker for Scott County. He will be joining Mrs. Gwen McDonough in providing services to neglected and dependent children, to unmarried mothers and to children in foster and adoptive homes.

The members of the county welfare commission are Charles Simpson, W. G. "Bud" Mason, William Bess and M. E. Gisi.

The members of the child welfare advisory committee are Mrs. Margaret Cain, Mrs. Glenda Davis, Jim Mac Emerson, Mrs. Melvin Glueck, Mrs. Milem Limbaugh, Mrs. Barbara Moore, Mrs. K. M. Streeter, Donald Fulton, Ollie Amick and William Moore.

Others attending the meeting included the Scott county court judges, the prosecuting attorney and members of the district and county welfare offices.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE DRUG CONTROVERSY

The Senate Monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), begins hearings on drug prices on Monday (May 15).

Headlines rather than legislation is the outlook for new Senate hearings on drug prices. The principal effect of the Kefauver hearings of 1959-62 was to reinforce industry opposition to price and labeling controls. Drug industry interests seem to remain confident that they will emerge relatively unscathed from the encounter coming up on Capitol Hill.

The mid-May investigation will be headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), successor as chairman of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee to Sen. Russell Long (D La.) Nelson will be relying heavily for his material on alleged drug pricing abuses on a newly-published Handbook of Prescription Drugs, by Dr. Richard Burack of the Harvard Medical School faculty.

It already has become a cliche that the Burack book will have the same popular impact that Ralph Nader's Unsafe at Any Speed had on automobile safety. In the preface to the book, Dr. George Nichols, Jr., Clinical Professor of Medicine at Harvard, acclaims it as providing the practicing physician "with a much-needed guide for simpler and more effective therapy."

Dr. Burack writes: "For example, CIBA, the enormous Switzerland-based company, offered to sell to the United States government for about 60¢ a quantity and quality of reserpine (a drug to lower blood pressure) for which the corner pharmacist buys and dispenes it as Serpasil." CIBA actually didn't win the government contract. It was underbid by another company willing to sell the same batch for 51¢.

All drugs have a generic, or official name, but usually pharmaceutical manufacturers sell by an unofficial or brand name. The New Republic observes: "The drug companies spend $600 million a year in advertising, to din brand-names into the heads of patients and doctors. As a result, 90 per cent of all prescriptions are written for brand-names, which sometimes are easier to pronounce, spell and remember, but often are expensive."

Dr. Burack's handbook abounds in examples. Penicillin G, the basic drug, was introduced on a wide scale in 1942. It is unpatented. Squibb offers Penicillin G under the brand-name "Petids" and charges $6.62 for 100 tablets. A lesser-known company will sell the same quantity of Penicillin G for 92¢.

The big drug companies say these small companies are "copiers" rather than developers. They stress the cost of the research in which they are constantly engaged - 2,000 experiments may produce only one marketable drug. They also place heavy emphasis on "quality control."

C. Joseph Stetler, president and general counsel of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, on March 27 told his members that a comprehensive study now under way by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the use of prescription drugs under Medicare "could bring home to the public and members of Congress the realization that quality in drug products is a vital ingredient; that there are significant differences in products made by different manufacturers; that the best ultimate gauge of the purity and effectiveness of a given product is the proven ability of a known manufacturer and the reputation for high quality products he has acquired...over the years."

With the passage of federal traffic safety legislation, the field of traffic engineering now offers unparalleled career opportunities to those who can qualify.

This is the opinion of Russell I. Brown, president of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety in Washington, D.C.

Said Brown, "Studies have shown that traffic safety efforts can be greatly improved in the area of highway design and traffic control if the present 20 percent shortage of trained highway transportation engineers can be overcome.

"Fourteen hundred trained engineers are needed to staff existing job openings, right now," he added.

In many cities and towns, traffic engineers bear primary responsibility for designing and maintaining safe roads and a good traffic safety record. They are the ones who study road conditions, accident sites and hazardous locations in an effort to correct them with wider lanes, standard reflective traffic signs and stabilized road shoulders.

The new safety legislation, Brown said, authorizes a grant fellowship program, federally financed, that should provide up to 500 fellowships in graduate highway transportation engineering in the next three years. Today, he maintains, there are only 34 graduate fellowships offered to deserving young engineers by government and industry, but graduate schools have room for 80 to 100 more students to take existing courses.

"If the states and communities implement this federal program, we should be able to train more engineers, and to expand available courses in traffic engineering at more colleges and universities, so that those empty design chairs can be filled with life-saving design talent," he asserts.

The chance to study - to save lives on our highways - is now a challenging reality. "Driver's Seat" hopes the challenge is accepted.

RIESEL BEATS FIELD ON CIA LABOR OPERATIONS BY FULL WEEK

Few stories have churned the press, the public, and the influential labor movement as has the series of revelations of CIA front operations on the international labor scene. And virtually each time there's been a headline explosion of CIA-labor "cover" stories, our columnist Victor Riesel has been well ahead.

BANNING THE 'BUG' HANDCUFFS POLICE

Since the Republic has survived in freedom for 178 years under a Constitution that permits police to intrude on private property, search through private papers and effects and confiscate evidence under authority of court - issued warrants, it is a little difficult to understand the horror that is aroused among some people by the idea of legalized wiretapping or eavesdropping in criminal investigation.

Wiretapping and other forms of electronic eavesdropping are merely extensions of the traditional form of search and seizure of evidence, without which law enforcement would be crippled. It is strange that the law is being asked to foreswear the use of these technological aids but not others. Logically, they should also be denied the use of high - speed cars and two -way radios.

There have been police abuses even under the Constitution. In recent years, court decisions refining the rules governing the scope of warrants, the admissibility of evidence obtained by means of them and the use of confessions have strengthened the safeguards surrounding the rights of suspected persons. There is no reason why these rules should not be equally applicable to information gained by electronic means.

Nonpolice abuse of this new technology is another matter entirely. Without question, the unauthorized eavesdropping of private conversations should be prohibited by law, just as is the unauthorized physical intrusion into private homes.

President Johnson, however, wants Congress to pass a total ban on wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping except in cases involving the national security.

A bill introduced by Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas would allow wiretapping (but not bugging) by court order in federal investigations of a limited number of crimes and would also legalize the use in state courts of wiretapping evidence obtained in accordance with state laws.

Testifying before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the subject, Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U. S. Court of Appeals recommended that the bill be broadened to include electronic eavesdropping as well as wiretapping and that their use be authorized in any federal crime.

What it comes down to is this: Either we, the people, trust our police and our courts or we do not. Or if we do not trust them, either we exercise ultimate control over them, through our legislators, or we do not.

But if we have been able to trust them in the matter of physical search and seizure of criminal evidence, it is not clear just what terrible danger is now posed by permitting them a more remote form of this power.

Indeed, the danger may lie in doing the opposite.

The hillbilly did not know what a discount was, so he said he'd be back in a few minutes. Then he went to a restaurant near by and ordered coffee. When the waitress brought it, he asked her if she knew what a discount was? "Certainly," she said. "That's when you take off something for cash."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Members of the Soviet Embassy staff, seized with a sudden enthusiasm for fishing, would like to try their luck in capitalist streams. The question now awaiting Soviet-American agreement is whether they will go after salt-water fish or fresh - water fish and how much it will cost.

Diplomatic negotiations on this problem began after the Russians purchased an old hotel on a tributary flowing into the Chesapeake Bay which they are patching up for use as a recreation center.

The tributary is better known for its stinging nettles than for its fish, but the Russians are determined to go fishing anyway.

Anxious to obey the law, they applied to the Maryland authorities for fishing licenses and were informed that no licenses are required for salt - water fishing.

Not wanting to be confined to their nettle- infested tributary, the Russians also asked about fresh- water fishing, which requires a license of $1 for a Marylander, $10 for anyone out of state. Asked how many licenses it would need, the Soviety Embassy sent a list of eighty - five names.

This involved $850 in state revenue, and the Department of Game and Inland Fish, typically bureaucratic, referred the problem to Maryland's aggressive new Attorney General, Bill Burch. He consulted the statutes, but could find no legal ground for providing Russian diplomats with free fishing licenses.

Mindful of LBJ's policy of building bridges with the East, Burch suggested a diplomatic solution. The law allows 20 free fishing licenses for the President of the United States, also 20 free license for each of the state governors.

He suggested that the Russian Embassy ask the President for his quota of 20 license, since LBJ is the godfather of Soviet-American understanding. Then the governors of New York, New Jersey and a couple of other states might contribute 20 licenses each. This would take care of enough courtesy licenses.

By the time this was done, however, the fishing season would be over, or half the Soviet staff would be back in Moscow on summer vacation.

LAST ROOSEVELT POLITICIAN

Despite the fact that politics is supposed to be thicker than blood in a Roosevelt, only one member of FDR's large family is still actively running for office. He is Elliott Roosevelt, who is running for reelection as Mayor of Miami Beach next week.

Perhaps because the Roosevelt name still counts for a lot in Washington, the affable, crew-cut mayor has wangled more benefits out of the federal government in two years than Miami Beach had received for the past 50 years.

Some federal officials have complained privately that Miami Beach, under Elliott, has been treated more like a depressed area than the nation's no. 1 resort city. At any rate, in the past two years he has obtained a staggering $3,350,000 in government grants to improve Miami Beach.

Apparently Elliott considers this only the beginning. He is now badgering the federal government to help foot the bill for filling in Pelican Island, which would add another 180 acres to Miami Beach for an 18-hole championship golf course.

Roosevelt has also made repeated trips to Washington to persuade both the Democratic and Republican parties to bring their national conventions to Miami Beach. He has promised a hotel for each delegation, "Sunshine Twins" to greet and assist each delegation, even babysitting service for mothers who want to bring their children. Exulted Roosevelt's effervescent wife Patty: "We can make them think they have died and gone to heaven."

Elliott Roosevelt is the hero of Miami Beach's senior citizens who still remember the late FDR.

Four candidates are running against him in the elections next week.

CONGRESSMAN FROM STRAWBERRYLAND

Rep. John R. Rarick, the congressman who defeated Jimmy Morrison to represent the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana, has now made at least one contribution to congressional debate, and has laid an egg.

Rarick defeated Morrison, one of the colorful standbys of the old south, with a rip-roaring racist campaign because Jimmy voted once for civil rights.

The other day Rarick stood up on the house floor and denounced "Shriver's Peace Corps" for paying the expenses of "vacationing idealists" in Tanzania, who "brawled in bars and clubs and appeared in short - shorts or tight trousers, growing long beards."

"Little wonder we are losing friends in Africa," proclaimed the new congressman from Louisiana. And he inserted a clipping in the congressional record quoting J. Kasubi, a member of the Tanzanian National Assembly.

What the congressman from the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana failed to do, however, was check his facts. The facts are:

First, that Shriver has not been head of the peace corps for more than a year.

Second, J. Kasubi is the leading Communist in the Tanzanian Parliament, bent on trying to undermine the prestige of the United States.

Third, the 297 members of the peace corps in Tanzania are doing such a good job that they are winning Tanzania away from its pro - Communist status. This is why Kasubi is so sore, and anxious to castigate the peace corps.

The new congressman from Louisiana should take a look at the enlightening book of William Attwood, our ex-Ambassador to Guinea and to Kenya, "The Reds and the Blacks," in which Attwood tells of the progress we have made in Africa, in part through the peace corps. Attwood has now retired from diplomacy and is editor of Look Magazine, so can write as an impartial observer.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Angry Drive Launched For Nationwide No - Strike, No-Lockout Pact for Vietnam War Duration.

Washington, D. C.: -- In a closed - door, showdown session with some tense but even-tempered Senators seeking to prod President Johnson into whipping up an emergency strike - curbing law, the Chief Executive said he has had the "best brains" in the country working on it but that they simply can't agree on a solution.

He was deadly serious when he said the experts simply have no answer. They can't get together on any legal extinguisher to put out the labor-management flash fires.

It was in the privacy of the Cabinet room one recent Friday that the President faced his determined interlocutors -- a small group led by Senators Jack Javits and Wayne Morse.

"You know I love you, Mr. President," said Javits, "but I have my responsibilities. You pointed out in '66, in your State of the Union message, that you would have legislation on emergency strikes. We are still waiting for it."

"I made that statement," the president replied, "and I'll deliver on it. I appointed a task force and put some of the country's best brains on it to give me advice. And there is great disagreement among these experts. When they give me a report, I'll carry it to the Congress.

"I did not realize the enormity of these problems."

The President then asked the Senators not to mix the temporary rail moratorium bill with the matter of permanent national strike legislation. He asked them to go up the Hill and deliver to him to head off a wartime rail strike.

They did. But no one was in a rougher, perhaps more angry, mood than the veteran horse-breeder and infighter, Wayne Morse, the gentleman from Oregon who had been discussing the matter at breakfasts and lunches with the President.

There was nothing bitter or Pollyannish in Morse's voice or credo as we talked later about the great industrial rebellions of 1967. The Senator -- who has as much knowledge of the labor movement as any consortium of university advanced studies libraries -- has a simplistic approach.

The public and the nation come first. No right to strike, no right to lockout is absolute.

Especially in time of war. And this is wartime.

He wants no government by lockout and picket line, but rather government by law "doing justice to all our people."

"It is just too bad that we don't have labor and management leadership in this country," asserted Morse, "which would give a no - strike, no-lockout pledge during this war. All during World War II labor sat with me (on the National War Labor Board -- VR) and voted finality in case after case.

"I'm saying now the controlling thing is the war. We just can't take a position that they have the right to strike. This is a relative right. But what of the public right which is so far superior?

"I am going to fight for a no-strike, no - lockout pledge from labor and management as we had during the war. They can't accuse me of not being a liberal, either.

"I'm opposed to this Vietnam war completely. No one wants to get out of Vietnam as much as I do. I have fought with the President on this. Everybody knows how I stand.

"But no one can justify stopping the railroads. It is unthinkable in wartime. There must be no stoppage on the lines. And we should have that old no - strike, no - lockout agreement for the duration."

Morse also opposed seizure of the rails by the U. S. Such action, he conjectured, would result in long litigation. It would also be costly.

"The government would have to put in personnel and defend itself in court for ten years against all sorts of suits. The price eventually would be in the millions.

"They're playing politics with seizure," he mused. "There is only one way out now -- that no - strike pledge. Of course, the President doesn't legislate. Congress regulates interstate commerce.

"We need not wait for him and his experts. I'm going to keep fighting whether the President sends up legislation or not, if we don't get that no - strike, no - lockout agreement."

Congress has no fury like Wayne Morse spurred (cq).

An Editor's Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE PUZZLEMENT OF FREEDOM

THAT WAS a fine rhubarb that closed Catholic University in Washington a couple of weeks ago, following a mass walk-out by students, priests, nuns and faculty over the dismissal of a 33-year-old assistant professor of moral theology, Father Charles E. Curran. After six tumultuous days he was reinstated.

Father Curran got the heave-ho at a Chicago meeting of the cardinals and bishops who dominate the board of trustees. He had openly quarreled with the Church's traditional stand on birth control, and he had delivered a series of lectures last fall in which he argued that instead of handing down absolutist decrees on morality the Church should "consult the experience of Christian people."

FATHER CURRAN'S placard-waving supporters, who gathered en masse to vote the walkout, were no beatnik types trying to legalize pot and popularize free love. They were eminently respectable Catholics, many of them already in or oriented toward the priesthood.

Their spokesmen made it plain that in view of the second Ecumenical Council they felt that the Church hierarchy had agreed to listen more carefully to the laity and the clergy.

But before we hang the poor board of trustees, let's try to see it their way. If what Father Curran had committed was not heresy it would, as Damon Runyon might have put it, do until heresy came along. Until Pope John opened up the windows with his Ecumenical call it would certainly have been heresy, and there is still no clearly defined area in which the priesthood may freely quarrel with a repeated and reiterated position of the Church on a high moral matter.

THE BISHOPS and cardinals who run Catholic U. are under an ancient admonition to see that what passes as Catholic teaching does not endanger the welfare of the souls of the taught.

HERE, therefore, was not a simple struggle between good and evil, but a clash between people dedicated to conflicting ideas of good.

No one suggested that Father Curran be dragged before an Inquisition and turned over to the tender ministrations of a Torquemada. He didn't even face joblessness. Fordham, an equally prestigious Catholic university, quickly offered him a contract.

I FIND myself admiring Father Curran's bravery and in total sympathy with what he tried to teach. But I would have waved my placard gently in view of the dilemma facing the board. They are, by definition of their duties, responsible for how Catholic U. performs. If the university is to be run, instead, to suit the faculty and the students the board abdicates this responsibility.

Out of this, perhaps, a rule may be drawn. A college administration can divest themselves of responsibility for what is taught and how.

NOW HERE comes the sticky part: A college or university, to amount to anything, must attract a faculty that is eager for and dedicated to the discovery of new truths. These truths will often go beyond the philosophies of even the wisest administrators and the smartest boards. Some may appear to be shocking. But there must be wide latitude for men of demonstrated scholarship to research their fields and to both publish and teach their conclusions.

But wide doesn't mean limitless. No university is under any obligation to retain a professor of astronomy who maintains that the moon is made of green cheese, even if no one has yet brought back a sample of what it really is made of. There remains a realm of reasonable conclusions, even if absolute truth is unobtainable.

Similarly, no college should be required to provide both with lifetime support and with a lifetime audience an advocate of barnyard morality or drug - taking or the overthrow of popular government by violence and subversion. "Free speech" doesn't put anyone under an obligation to pay you to say it, nor even to provide you with a platform.

FATHER CURRAN lashed out against "absolutist decrees." The professor who says "In the interest of academic freedom you must hire me to teach whatever I doggone please" is handing down an absolutist decree.

Freedom is a puzzlement. It is neither anarchy nor a mathematical formula. It requires a lot of common sense.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE DRUG CONTROVERSY

The Senate Monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), begins hearings on drug prices on Monday (May 15).

Headlines rather than legislation is the outlook for new Senate hearings on drug prices. The principal effect of the Kefauver hearings of 1959-62 was to reinforce industry opposition to price and labeling controls. Drug industry interests seem to remain confident that they will emerge relatively unscathed from the encounter coming up on Capitol Hill.

The mid-May investigation will be headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D Wis.), successor as chairman of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee to Sen. Russell Long (D La.) Nelson will be relying heavily for his material on alleged drug pricing abuses on a newly-published Handbook of Prescription Drugs, by Dr. Richard Burack of the Harvard Medical School faculty.

It already has become a cliche that the Burack book will have the same popular impact that Ralph Nader's Unsafe at Any Speed had on automobile safety. In the preface to the book, Dr. George Nichols, Jr., Clinical Professor of Medicine at Harvard, acclaims it as providing the practicing physician "with a much-needed guide for simpler and more effective therapy."

Dr. Burack writes: "For example, CIBA, the enormous Switzerland-based company, offered to sell to the United States government for about 60¢ a quantity and quality of reserpine (a drug to lower blood pressure) for which the corner pharmacist buys and dispenes it as Serpasil." CIBA actually didn't win the government contract. It was underbid by another company willing to sell the same batch for 51¢.

All drugs have a generic, or official name, but usually pharmaceutical manufacturers sell by an unofficial or brand name. The New Republic observes: "The drug companies spend $600 million a year in advertising, to din brand-names into the heads of patients and doctors. As a result, 90 per cent of all prescriptions are written for brand-names, which sometimes are easier to pronounce, spell and remember, but often are expensive."

The big drug companies say these small companies are "copiers" rather than developers. They stress the cost of the research in which they are constantly engaged - 2,000 experiments may produce only one marketable drug. They also place heavy emphasis on "quality control."

C. Joseph Stetler, president and general counsel of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, on March 27 told his members that a comprehensive study now under way by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on the use of prescription drugs under Medicare "could bring home to the public and members of Congress the realization that quality in drug products is a vital ingredient; that there are significant differences in products made by different manufacturers; that the best ultimate gauge of the purity and effectiveness of a given product is the proven ability of a known manufacturer and the reputation for high quality products he has acquired...over the years."

BANNING THE 'BUG' HANDCUFFS POLICE

Since the Republic has survived in freedom for 178 years under a Constitution that permits police to intrude on private property, search through private papers and effects and confiscate evidence under authority of court - issued warrants, it is a little difficult to understand the horror that is aroused among some people by the idea of legalized wiretapping or eavesdropping in criminal investigation.

Wiretapping and other forms of electronic eavesdropping are merely extensions of the traditional form of search and seizure of evidence, without which law enforcement would be crippled. It is strange that the law is being asked to foreswear the use of these technological aids but not others. Logically, they should also be denied the use of high - speed cars and two -way radios.

There have been police abuses even under the Constitution. In recent years, court decisions refining the rules governing the scope of warrants, the admissibility of evidence obtained by means of them and the use of confessions have strengthened the safeguards surrounding the rights of suspected persons. There is no reason why these rules should not be equally applicable to information gained by electronic means.

Nonpolice abuse of this new technology is another matter entirely. Without question, the unauthorized eavesdropping of private conversations should be prohibited by law, just as is the unauthorized physical intrusion into private homes.

President Johnson, however, wants Congress to pass a total ban on wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping except in cases involving the national security.

A bill introduced by Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas would allow wiretapping (but not bugging) by court order in federal investigations of a limited number of crimes and would also legalize the use in state courts of wiretapping evidence obtained in accordance with state laws.

Testifying before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee holding hearings on the subject, Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the U. S. Court of Appeals recommended that the bill be broadened to include electronic eavesdropping as well as wiretapping and that their use be authorized in any federal crime.

What it comes down to is this: Either we, the people, trust our police and our courts or we do not. Or if we do not trust them, either we exercise ultimate control over them, through our legislators, or we do not.

But if we have been able to trust them in the matter of physical search and seizure of criminal evidence, it is not clear just what terrible danger is now posed by permitting them a more remote form of this power.

Indeed, the danger may lie in doing the opposite.

FEDERAL SPENDING - In commenting on the increased federal spending as a result of the laws passed in 89th Congress, Cong, George H. Mahon (D-Tex.) said, "The ultimate answer is only partly in Congress; it is only partly in the White House. More importantly, control of public spending rests with the people who create public sentiment and elect officials of government. And, it is a real challenge, because we are to some extent an undisciplined people. Congress is not going to practice restraint unless the message comes through loud and clear from the people generally."

MONEY REMOVES INTERFERENCE IN FUNNY WAYS

The ignorant hillbilly went in to buy a new Cadillac, and the salesman said it would cost him about $5000. So he reached for his roll and started to peel off $1000 bills. "Wait a minute, sir," the amazed salesman said. "If you pay cash, you can have a discount."

The hillbilly did not know what a discount was, so he said he'd be back in a few minutes. Then he went to a restaurant near by and ordered coffee. When the waitress brought it, he asked her if she knew what a discount was? "Certainly," she said. "That's when you take off something for cash."

"Well," said our boy, "what would you take off for $5000?" The waitress blinked, "Honey," she said, "would these earrings be in the way?"

Doc. Duncan Says

Since Russia and the U.S.A. are the only nations trying to penetrate the mysteries of the moon, stars and the Heavens, we sometimes wonder if the Lord will cause them to clash and destroy each other within an hour. They seem to be on a clision course once more.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Members of the Soviet Embassy staff, seized with a sudden enthusiasm for fishing, would like to try their luck in capitalist streams. The question now awaiting Soviet-American agreement is whether they will go after salt-water fish or fresh - water fish and how much it will cost.

Diplomatic negotiations on this problem began after the Russians purchased an old hotel on a tributary flowing into the Chesapeake Bay which they are patching up for use as a recreation center.

The tributary is better known for its stinging nettles than for its fish, but the Russians are determined to go fishing anyway.

Anxious to obey the law, they applied to the Maryland authorities for fishing licenses and were informed that no licenses are required for salt - water fishing.

Not wanting to be confined to their nettle- infested tributary, the Russians also asked about fresh- water fishing, which requires a license of $1 for a Marylander, $10 for anyone out of state. Asked how many licenses it would need, the Soviety Embassy sent a list of eighty - five names.

This involved $850 in state revenue, and the Department of Game and Inland Fish, typically bureaucratic, referred the problem to Maryland's aggressive new Attorney General, Bill Burch. He consulted the statutes, but could find no legal ground for providing Russian diplomats with free fishing licenses.

Mindful of LBJ's policy of building bridges with the East, Burch suggested a diplomatic solution. The law allows 20 free fishing licenses for the President of the United States, also 20 free license for each of the state governors.

He suggested that the Russian Embassy ask the President for his quota of 20 license, since LBJ is the godfather of Soviet-American understanding. Then the governors of New York, New Jersey and a couple of other states might contribute 20 licenses each. This would take care of enough courtesy licenses.

By the time this was done, however, the fishing season would be over, or half the Soviet staff would be back in Moscow on summer vacation.

LAST ROOSEVELT POLITICIAN

Despite the fact that politics is supposed to be thicker than blood in a Roosevelt, only one member of FDR's large family is still actively running for office. He is Elliott Roosevelt, who is running for reelection as Mayor of Miami Beach next week.

Perhaps because the Roosevelt name still counts for a lot in Washington, the affable, crew-cut mayor has wangled more benefits out of the federal government in two years than Miami Beach had received for the past 50 years.

Some federal officials have complained privately that Miami Beach, under Elliott, has been treated more like a depressed area than the nation's no. 1 resort city. At any rate, in the past two years he has obtained a staggering $3,350,000 in government grants to improve Miami Beach.

Apparently Elliott considers this only the beginning. He is now badgering the federal government to help foot the bill for filling in Pelican Island, which would add another 180 acres to Miami Beach for an 18-hole championship golf course.

Roosevelt has also made repeated trips to Washington to persuade both the Democratic and Republican parties to bring their national conventions to Miami Beach. He has promised a hotel for each delegation, "Sunshine Twins" to greet and assist each delegation, even babysitting service for mothers who want to bring their children. Exulted Roosevelt's effervescent wife Patty: "We can make them think they have died and gone to heaven."

Elliott Roosevelt is the hero of Miami Beach's senior citizens who still remember the late FDR.

Four candidates are running against him in the elections next week.

CONGRESSMAN FROM STRAWBERRYLAND

Rep. John R. Rarick, the congressman who defeated Jimmy Morrison to represent the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana, has now made at least one contribution to congressional debate, and has laid an egg.

Rarick defeated Morrison, one of the colorful standbys of the old south, with a rip-roaring racist campaign because Jimmy voted once for civil rights.

The other day Rarick stood up on the house floor and denounced "Shriver's Peace Corps" for paying the expenses of "vacationing idealists" in Tanzania, who "brawled in bars and clubs and appeared in short - shorts or tight trousers, growing long beards."

"Little wonder we are losing friends in Africa," proclaimed the new congressman from Louisiana. And he inserted a clipping in the congressional record quoting J. Kasubi, a member of the Tanzanian National Assembly.

What the congressman from the Strawberry Capital of Louisiana failed to do, however, was check his facts. The facts are:

First, that Shriver has not been head of the peace corps for more than a year.

Second, J. Kasubi is the leading Communist in the Tanzanian Parliament, bent on trying to undermine the prestige of the United States.

Third, the 297 members of the peace corps in Tanzania are doing such a good job that they are winning Tanzania away from its pro - Communist status. This is why Kasubi is so sore, and anxious to castigate the peace corps.

The new congressman from Louisiana should take a look at the enlightening book of William Attwood, our ex-Ambassador to Guinea and to Kenya, "The Reds and the Blacks," in which Attwood tells of the progress we have made in Africa, in part through the peace corps. Attwood has now retired from diplomacy and is editor of Look Magazine, so can write as an impartial observer.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Angry Drive Launched For Nationwide No - Strike, No-Lockout Pact for Vietnam War Duration.

Washington, D. C.: -- In a closed - door, showdown session with some tense but even-tempered Senators seeking to prod President Johnson into whipping up an emergency strike - curbing law, the Chief Executive said he has had the "best brains" in the country working on it but that they simply can't agree on a solution.

He was deadly serious when he said the experts simply have no answer. They can't get together on any legal extinguisher to put out the labor-management flash fires.

It was in the privacy of the Cabinet room one recent Friday that the President faced his determined interlocutors -- a small group led by Senators Jack Javits and Wayne Morse.

"You know I love you, Mr. President," said Javits, "but I have my responsibilities. You pointed out in '66, in your State of the Union message, that you would have legislation on emergency strikes. We are still waiting for it."

"I made that statement," the president replied, "and I'll deliver on it. I appointed a task force and put some of the country's best brains on it to give me advice. And there is great disagreement among these experts. When they give me a report, I'll carry it to the Congress.

"I did not realize the enormity of these problems."

The President then asked the Senators not to mix the temporary rail moratorium bill with the matter of permanent national strike legislation. He asked them to go up the Hill and deliver to him to head off a wartime rail strike.

They did. But no one was in a rougher, perhaps more angry, mood than the veteran horse-breeder and infighter, Wayne Morse, the gentleman from Oregon who had been discussing the matter at breakfasts and lunches with the President.

There was nothing bitter or Pollyannish in Morse's voice or credo as we talked later about the great industrial rebellions of 1967. The Senator -- who has as much knowledge of the labor movement as any consortium of university advanced studies libraries -- has a simplistic approach.

The public and the nation come first. No right to strike, no right to lockout is absolute.

Especially in time of war. And this is wartime.

He wants no government by lockout and picket line, but rather government by law "doing justice to all our people."

"It is just too bad that we don't have labor and management leadership in this country," asserted Morse, "which would give a no - strike, no-lockout pledge during this war. All during World War II labor sat with me (on the National War Labor Board -- VR) and voted finality in case after case.

"I'm saying now the controlling thing is the war. We just can't take a position that they have the right to strike. This is a relative right. But what of the public right which is so far superior?

"I am going to fight for a no-strike, no - lockout pledge from labor and management as we had during the war. They can't accuse me of not being a liberal, either.

"I'm opposed to this Vietnam war completely. No one wants to get out of Vietnam as much as I do. I have fought with the President on this. Everybody knows how I stand.

"But no one can justify stopping the railroads. It is unthinkable in wartime. There must be no stoppage on the lines. And we should have that old no - strike, no - lockout agreement for the duration."

Morse also opposed seizure of the rails by the U. S. Such action, he conjectured, would result in long litigation. It would also be costly.

"The government would have to put in personnel and defend itself in court for ten years against all sorts of suits. The price eventually would be in the millions.

"They're playing politics with seizure," he mused. "There is only one way out now -- that no - strike pledge. Of course, the President doesn't legislate. Congress regulates interstate commerce.

"We need not wait for him and his experts. I'm going to keep fighting whether the President sends up legislation or not, if we don't get that no - strike, no - lockout agreement."

Congress has no fury like Wayne Morse spurred (eq).

An Editor's Outlook

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

THE PUZZLEMENT OF FREEDOM

THAT WAS a fine rhubarb that closed Catholic University in Washington a couple of weeks ago, following a mass walkout by students, priests, nuns and faculty over the dismissal of a 33-year-old assistant professor of moral theology, Father Charles E. Curran. After six tumultuous days he was reinstated.

Father Curran got the heave-ho at a Chicago meeting of the cardinals and bishops who dominate the board of trustees. He had openly quarreled with the Church's traditional stand on birth control, and he had delivered a series of lectures last fall in which he argued that instead of handing down absolutist decrees on morality the Church should "consult the experience of Christian people."

FATHER CURRAN'S placard-waving supporters, who gathered en masse to vote the walkout, were no beatnik types trying to legalize pot and popularize free love. They were eminently respectable Catholics, many of them already in or oriented toward the priesthood.

Their spokesmen made it plain that in view of the second Ecumenical Council they felt that the Church hierarchy had agreed to listen more carefully to the laity and the clergy.

But before we hang the poor board of trustees, let's try to see it their way. If what Father Curran had committed was not heresy it would, as Damon Runyon might have put it, do until heresy came along. Until Pope John opened up the windows with his Ecumenical call it would certainly have been heresy, and there is still no clearly defined area in which the priesthood may freely quarrel with a repeated and reiterated position of the Church on a high moral matter.

THE BISHOPS and cardinals who run Catholic U. are under an ancient admonition to see that what passes as Catholic teaching does not endanger the welfare of the souls of the taught.

HERE, therefore, was not a simple struggle between good and evil, but a clash between people dedicated to conflicting ideas of good.

No one suggested that Father Curran be dragged before an Inquisition and turned over to the tender ministrations of a Torquemada. He didn't even face joblessness. Fordham, an equally prestigious Catholic university, quickly offered him a contract.

I FIND myself admiring Father Curran's bravery and in total sympathy with what he tried to teach. But I would have waved my placard gently in view of the dilemma facing the board. They are, by definition of their duties, responsible for how Catholic U. performs. If the university is to be run, instead, to suit the faculty and the students the board abdicates this responsibility.

Out of this, perhaps, a rule may be drawn. A college administration can divest themselves of responsibility for what is taught and how.

NOW HERE comes the sticky part: A college or university, to amount to anything, must attract a faculty that is eager for and dedicated to the discovery of new truths. These truths will often go beyond the philosophies of even the wisest administrators and the smartest boards. Some may appear to be shocking. But there must be wide latitude for men of demonstrated scholarship to research their fields and to both publish and teach their conclusions.

But wide doesn't mean limitless. No university is under any obligation to retain a professor of astronomy who maintains that the moon is made of green cheese, even if no one has yet brought back a sample of what it really is made of. There remains a realm of reasonable conclusions, even if absolute truth is unobtainable.

Similarly, no college should be required to provide both with lifetime support and with a lifetime audience an advocate of barnyard morality or drug - taking or the overthrow of popular government by violence and subversion. "Free speech" doesn't put anyone under an obligation to pay you to say it, nor even to provide you with a platform.

FATHER CURRAN lashed out against "absolutist decrees." The professor who says "In the interest of academic freedom you must hire me to teach whatever I doggone please" is handing down an absolutist decree.

Freedom is a puzzlement. It is neither anarchy nor a mathematical formula. It requires a lot of common sense.

Miss Phyllis Wofford Says Vows With Gary E. Tippen

BLOOMFIELD -- Miss Phyllis Sue Wofford and Gary Edwin Tippen were married April 22 at 3:30 p.m. in the Mount Gilead Baptist church.

The Rev. Elmer Cates officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Wofford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wofford, route two, and the groom's mother is Mrs. Mary Tippen.

Baskets of white mums and palms decorated the sanctuary of the church.

Mrs. Clarice Goldsmith of Malden, pianist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Ruth Mallory, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her dress was a pearl accented and scalloped Chantilly lace redingote revealing an A-line silk organza gown. The gown featured a scalloped sabrina neckline. The lace cage effect swept to a watteau chapel train.

Her headpiece was encrusted with pearls and held a four tiered veil of silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white pompons centered with two white orchids.

Mrs. Deloris May was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Swallows of St. Louis and Miss Shirley Mills of Dexter.

The bride's attendants wore yellow chiffon empire dresses with matching Venetian lace around the midriff and sleeves. The gowns featured sabrina necklines and shirred watteau backs. Their dyed - to - match headpieces were yellow chiffon drops matching the lace on their dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow pompon mums.

Miss Amanda Jennings of St. Charles, cousin of bride, was flower girl. She wore a white dress and a wreath of yellow pompon mums in her hair. She carried a white basket with yellow rose petals.

Scott Hart of Burna, Ky., cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Richard May was best man. Steven Tippen, brother of the groom, and Lonnie Mallory were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a celery green colored dress with matching jacket. Her corsage was yellow rose buds. Mrs. Tippen wore a two piece pink dress with a corsage of white rose buds.

The reception was in the Amvet building. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth decorated in yellow. A silver candelabra decorated with yellow mums centered the table. The four tiered wedding cake was decorated in white and yellow. A silver punch bowl appointed the table.

Mrs. Lucille Bennett, Miss Connie Bennett, Miss Rhonda Hamby and Mrs. Wanda Hart served at the reception.

The couple will live at 1406 East Elk in Dexter.

Mrs. Tippen is a secretary of the Missouri Division of Health in Poplar Bluff. Her husband is a teacher at Bernie junior high school.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cason, Flint, Mich.; Mrs. L. W. Yarbrough, Memphis, Tenn.; E. J. Tippen, Kennett; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Revelle and Mrs. Maggie Wilson, all of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hart, all of Burna, Ky.; Mrs. J. B. Wofford, Barlow, Ky.; Mrs. W. T. Wofford, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jennings, St. Charles; Mrs. Roy Powers and Mrs. Joe Cooley, Poplar Bluff, and Mrs. W. A. Merick and Ann, Bernie.

This is your invitation to observe MOTHER'S DAY and PENTECOST SUNDAY with us. Special recognition will be given all mothers in the morning service. You should hear the pastor's message Sunday night entitled, "TWENTY BIBLE REASONS WHY CHRISTIANS SHOULD SPEAK IN OTHER TONGUES TODAY." For all unbiased Christians, this Bible message should explode for all time the error that this apostolic experience and blessing is not for the church today. Sunday school, 9:30 a.m., Sunday morning service, 10:30 a.m., Sunday night, 7:00 p.m.

Mrs. Riley Wins Award For Poem

Mrs. Beulah Henson Riley of Cape Girardeau, a former resident of Sikeston, won the state award for literature and drama given by the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs for her poem, "Hollow Glory."

The Poem:

HOLLOW GLORY

Our dauntless astronauts search out
The trackless paths of outer space.
We nonchalantly go about
The filming of the moon's great face.
But on the earth we feel the scourge
Of war's continuous funeral dirge.

Our oceanographers probe deep
Into the wealthy ocean floor.
Neptune cannot his secrets keep
Since scientists have oped the door.
But Asian battlefields flow red,
And ravaged families mourn their dead.

Our archeologists delve beneath
The layered soil of ancient lands
For knowledged fossils can bequeath
From men long buried in the sands.
While brave young bodies--full of life
Are blown to bits in battle's strife.

We preach that brotherhood of man
Was Christ's prime message for the earth,
That only peace and goodwill can
Exemplify the Savior's birth.
But preachments falter in the path
Of guns -- the implements of wrath.

We seek a fair and goodly peace
Which meets our altruistic laws.
Our National prestige would cease
Should we withdraw without a cause.
God give us grace to seek the Light,
And lead our Nation in the right.

O hollow glory -- should we fail
To search and find the Holy Grail!

Class Meets

The Betty Madeline class of the Second General Baptist church met Tuesday with eight members attending.

Members answered roll call by reciting their favorite Bible verse.

President Lema Duncan presided. Ora Hazel led in prayer. Evelyn Dockins read the minutes.

Mary Crowley read and discussed "The Secret of Happiness" by the Rev. Billy Graham. The class sent 10 get well cards and a floral arrangement to hospital patients. Class members made 12 sick calls.

The project for next month was discussed.

Members formed a friendship circle and repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The next meeting will be June 13.

Nothing is every good enough! Now the airlines want a slow jet -- so they can show double features.

Sorority Pledges Installed

The Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met for a patio party at the home of Doris Campbell Tuesday night. A buffet dinner was served after which a short business meeting was conducted by president Doris Campbell. Nineteen members and guests were present.

New pledges Zelpha Davis, Jewell Bell, Lila Brannock and Lois Myers, were installed. A candlelight ceremony was conducted by retiring vice president, Dorothy Nowell, assisted by Gillie Russelburg, the new vice president. Also recognized and installed were two transfer members, Marie Collins, Caruthersville, and Carol Morris, Sikeston, and Mrs. Lila Harwell, city sponsor.

Retiring president, Doris Campbell was presented a president's pin by Gillie Russelburg.

Tope Circle Meets With Mrs. Herring

The LaVerne Tope circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. Pat Herring. Ten members attended.

Mrs. Carl Elam read the Scripture for the day, the prayer calendar and led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The committee reports were given.

Mrs. E. T. Freeman, activities chairman, reported that the Rev. B. G. Corn, associational missionary, had received 171 health kits to be placed in the farm labor rest camp east of Sikeston for migrant workers. A religious tract from First Baptist church was included in each kit.

Mrs. Freeman also read a card from Mr. and Mrs. Ira Shuffit and patients in the Ruth Street nursing home thanking Mrs. Freeman and circle five for the gift of fruit.

Mrs. Freeman will be out of town through the summer and Mrs. Ralph Ancell will be responsible for the community activities until she returns.

Mrs. Elam read a thank you note from a school in Pineville, Ky., thanking members for a gift box sent to them.

Mrs. Harold Bean announced a mission study class will be June 13 at the church. Both night circles will attend the study.

Mrs. Louis Goehri and her daughter, Mrs. Donald Beggs, were in charge of the program on Guatemala, often called "the Switzerland of the Americas."

The study was highlighted with showing of films taken by Louis Goehri while on a trip to Guatemala and British Honduras. A discussion followed.

Mrs. Beggs gave each member a missionary's name to pray for each day. These missionaries are all serving in Guatemala.

Mrs. Freeman led the closing prayer.

The hostess served strawberry shortcake and coffee.

Others present were Mrs. Charles Tisdel, Mrs. Phillip Sadler and Mrs. J. B. Hall.

A San Francisco man gave his nine-year-old daughter $10 for her birthday so that she could open her first bank account. She was filling out the bank application when she came to the line asking the name of her former bank. In big bold letters, she wrote: "Piggy." AP.

1,000 Attend Beauty Bazaar

"Beauty Bazaar", the third in a series of Ladies Fair programs, sponsored by Wetterau Foods, Inc., and area IGA stores, attracted about 1,000 women at the armory yesterday.

The shows were at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Professional models gave tips on etiquette, poise, charm, cosmetics, hair styling and nail care.

Receiving $10 gift certificates redeemable at IGA stores were Mrs. Beatrice Orr, Morehouse; Anna B. Jewell, Advance; Mrs. Arta Johnson; Mrs. B. C. Rice; Mrs. Josephine O'Reilly, Charleston; Mrs. E. P. Bridges, route three; Sue Myrick, route two; Eve Settele, Charleston; Mrs. Gilbert Spears, Bell City, and Mrs. Gertrude Rowling, Charleston.

Julie Harbin, Mrs. Jake Smith, Jo Ann Williams, Mrs. Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. Nelson Lumsden of Canalou, Mrs. Alta Starnes, route one; Jean Triplett, Dorothy Kidd, Melba McCord and Marsha Edwards.

Susie Miller and Laurie Harbin drew the winning tickets.

Class Meets Monday With Mrs. Collins

The Kings Daughters class of the First Baptist church met Monday at 2 p.m. with Mrs. F. F. Collins.

Twelve members and one guest, Mrs. David Laird, were present. Mrs. Gerda Harrison, president, was in charge.

Mrs. Edythe Spidell, class teacher, led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Fred Tope gave the devotional from Psalms 23. She read a poem, "You Never Know."

Mrs. Thomas Mathis gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Ruth Turner gave the treasurer's report. Group captains reported nine 100 per cent members in April.

The class signed cards to be sent to Larry Kinsey and Albert E. Sisson, who are in service.

Mrs. Stella Freeman led the closing prayer. A fellowship hour followed. The hostess served fruit cocktail cake, coffee, tea and soft drinks.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Tope, 316 Wallace, June 12.

11 Attend WSCS Meeting Monday

MOREHOUSE --The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Rauch - Spence Memorial Methodist church met at 2 p.m. Monday in the fellowship room for its regular business meeting. Eleven members attended.

Mrs. A. W. Summers, president, presided. Mrs. James Estep gave the devotional, "The Home," with Scripture reading Luke 1: 5-15, telling "How Children Should Be Brought Up."

The group sang "Happy Is The Home When God Is There," accompanied by Mrs. Estep, pianist. Mrs. Estep read a poem, "Somebody's Mother."

The WSCS sang "Bless Be the Tie That Binds."

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and approved.

Thirty - one sick calls were made and 25 get well cards were sent in April.

Mrs. Frank Kesler closed the meeting with prayer.

Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky: "A deaf old couple were sitting on the porch one evening. The old man attempted to tell his wife how much he appreciated all she had done for him during their life. In her deafness, she could not understand what he was trying to tell her. At last, he shouted, 'I'm proud of you!' She replied, 'I'm tired of you, too!'"

Mrs. Gary Edwin Tippen

Miss Phyllis Wofford Says Vows With Gary E. Tippen

BLOOMFIELD -- Miss Phyllis Sue Wofford and Gary Edwin Tippen were married April 22 at 3:30 p.m. in the Mount Gilead Baptist church.

The Rev. Elmer Cates officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Wofford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wofford, route two, and the groom's mother is Mrs. Mary Tippen.

Baskets of white mums and palms decorated the sanctuary of the church.

Mrs. Clarice Goldsmith of Malden, pianist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Ruth Mallory, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her dress was a pearl accented and scalloped Chantilly lace redingote revealing an A-line silk organza gown. The gown featured a scalloped sabrina neckline. The lace cage effect swept to a watteau chapel train.

Her headpiece was encrusted with pearls and held a four tiered veil of silk illusion. The bride's bouquet was an arrangement of white pompons centered with two white orchids.

Mrs. Deloris May was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Swallows of St. Louis and Miss Shirley Mills of Dexter.

The bride's attendants wore yellow chiffon empire dresses with matching Venetian lace around the midriff and sleeves. The gowns featured sabrina necklines and shirred watteau backs. Their dyed - to - match headpieces were yellow chiffon drops matching the lace on their dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow pompon mums.

Miss Amanda Jennings of St. Charles, cousin of bride, was flower girl. She wore a white dress and a wreath of yellow pompon mums in her hair. She carried a white basket with yellow rose petals.

Scott Hart of Burna, Ky., cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

Richard May was best man. Steven Tippen, brother of the groom, and Lonnie Mallory were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a celery green colored dress with matching jacket. Her corsage was yellow rose buds. Mrs. Tippen wore a two piece pink dress with a corsage of white rose buds.

The reception was in the Amvet building. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth decorated in yellow. A silver candelabra decorated with yellow mums centered the table. The four tiered wedding cake was decorated in white and yellow. A silver punch bowl appointed the table.

Mrs. Lucille Bennett, Miss Connie Bennett, Miss Rhonda Hamby and Mrs. Wanda Hart served at the reception.

The couple will live at 1406 East Elk in Dexter.

Mrs. Tippen is a secretary of the Missouri Division of Health in Poplar Bluff. Her husband is a teacher at Bernie junior high school.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cason, Flint, Mich.; Mrs. L. W. Yarbrough, Memphis, Tenn.; E. J. Tippen, Kennett; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Revelle and Mrs. Maggie Wilson, all of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hart, all of Burna, Ky.; Mrs. J. B. Wofford, Barlow, Ky.; Mrs. W. T. Wofford, Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jennings, St. Charles; Mrs. Roy Powers and Mrs. Joe Cooley, Poplar Bluff, and Mrs. W. A. Merick and Ann, Bernie.

Mrs. Riley Wins Award For Poem

Mrs. Beulah Henson Riley of Cape Girardeau, a former resident of Sikeston, won the state award for literature and drama given by the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs for her poem, "Hollow Glory."

The Poem:

HOLLOW GLORY

Our dauntless astronauts search out
The trackless paths of outer space.
We nonchalantly go about
The filming of the moon's great face.
But on the earth we feel the scourge
Of war's continuous funeral dirge.

Our oceanographers probe deep
Into the wealthy ocean floor.
Neptune cannot his secrets keep
Since scientists have oped the door.
But Asian battlefields flow red,
And ravaged families mourn their dead.

Our archeologists delve beneath
The layered soil of ancient lands
For knowledged fossils can bequeath
From men long buried in the sands.
While brave young bodies--full of life
Are blown to bits in battle's strife.

We preach that brotherhood of man
Was Christ's prime message for the earth,
That only peace and goodwill can
Exemplify the Savior's birth.
But preachments falter in the path
Of guns -- the implements of wrath.

We seek a fair and goodly peace
Which meets our altruistic laws.
Our National prestige would cease
Should we withdraw without a cause.
God give us grace to seek the Light,
And lead our Nation in the right.

O hollow glory -- should we fail
To search and find the Holy Grail!

Class Meets

The Betty Madeline class of the Second General Baptist church met Tuesday with eight members attending.

Members answered roll call by reciting their favorite Bible verse.

President Lema Duncan presided. Ora Hazel led in prayer. Evelyn Dockins read the minutes.

Mary Crowley read and discussed "The Secret of Happiness" by the Rev. Billy Graham. The class sent 10 get well cards and a floral arrangement to hospital patients. Class members made 12 sick calls.

The project for next month was discussed.

Members formed a friendship circle and repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The next meeting will be June 13.

Nothing is every good enough! Now the airlines want a slow jet -- so they can show double features.

Jack Wilson.

Sorority Pledges Installed

The Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met for a patio party at the home of Doris Campbell Tuesday night. A buffet dinner was served after which a short business meeting was conducted by president Doris Campbell. Nineteen members and guests were present.

New pledges Zelpha Davis, Jewell Bell, Lila Brannock and Lois Myers, were installed. A candlelight ceremony was conducted by retiring vice president, Dorothy Nowell, assisted by Gillie Russelburg, the new vice president. Also recognized and installed were two transfer members, Marie Collins, Caruthersville, and Carol Morris, Sikeston, and Mrs. Lila Harwell, city sponsor.

Retiring president, Doris Campbell was presented a president's pin by Gillie Russelburg.

Tope Circle Meets With Mrs. Herring

The LaVerne Tope circle of the First Baptist church met Tuesday with Mrs. Pat Herring. Ten members attended.

Mrs. Carl Elam read the Scripture for the day, the prayer calendar and led in prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The committee reports were given.

Mrs. E. T. Freeman, activities chairman, reported that the Rev. B. G. Corn, associational missionary, had received 171 health kits to be placed in the farm labor rest camp east of Sikeston for migrant workers. A religious tract from First Baptist church was included in each kit.

Mrs. Freeman also read a card from Mr. and Mrs. Ira Shuffit and patients in the Ruth Street nursing home thanking Mrs. Freeman and circle five for the gift of fruit.

Mrs. Freeman will be out of town through the summer and Mrs. Ralph Ancell will be responsible for the community activities until she returns.

Mrs. Elam read a thank you note from a school in Pineville, Ky., thanking members for a gift box sent to them.

Mrs. Harold Bean announced a mission study class will be June 13 at the church. Both night circles will attend the study.

Mrs. Louis Goehri and her daughter, Mrs. Donald Beggs, were in charge of the program on Guatemala, often called "the Switzerland of the Americas."

The study was highlighted with showing of films taken by Louis Goehri while on a trip to Guatemala and British Honduras. A discussion followed.

Mrs. Beggs gave each member a missionary's name to pray for each day. These missionaries are all serving in Guatemala.

Mrs. Freeman led the closing prayer.

The hostess served strawberry shortcake and coffee.

Others present were Mrs. Charles Tisdel, Mrs. Phillip Sadler and Mrs. J. B. Hall.

A San Francisco man gave his nine-year-old daughter $10 for her birthday so that she could open her first bank account. She was filling out the bank application when she came to the line asking the name of her former bank. In big bold letters, she wrote: "Piggy." AP.

1,000 Attend Beauty Bazaar

"Beauty Bazaar", the third in a series of Ladies Fair programs, sponsored by Wetterau Foods, Inc., and area IGA stores, attracted about 1,000 women at the armory yesterday.

The shows were at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Professional models gave tips on etiquette, poise, charm, cosmetics, hair styling and nail care.

Receiving $10 gift certificates redeemable at IGA stores were Mrs. Beatrice Orr, Morehouse; Anna B. Jewell, Advance; Mrs. Arta Johnson; Mrs. B. C. Rice; Mrs. Josephine O'Reilly, Charleston; Mrs. E. P. Bridges, route three; Sue Myrick, route two; Eve Settele, Charleston; Mrs. Gilbert Spears, Bell City, and Mrs. Gertrude Rowling, Charleston.

Julie Harbin, Mrs. Jake Smith, Jo Ann Williams, Mrs. Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. Nelson Lumsden of Canalou, Mrs. Alta Starnes, route one; Jean Triplett, Dorothy Kidd, Melba McCord and Marsha Edwards.

Susie Miller and Laurie Harbin drew the winning tickets.

Same Names, New Records Due in '67 Track Season

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jim Ryun and Bob Seagren hear the same questions at least 50 times a week.

When will Ryun break 3:50 for the mile and when will Seagren break 18 feet in the pole vault?

The question embarrasses Ryun, who embarrasses easily. It amuses Seagren who can miss an 18-foot vault by an inch and come bounding out of the pits with a smile on his face.

"I don't want to sound too cocky," Ryun said. "I hope people understand. I feel a little stupid every time someone comes up to me and I just say, 'I just try to keep improving.' They ask 'how much?' and it's obvious that if it's very much it's under 3:50. If I can just word it right, I don't see why I shouldn't say what everyone knows . . . I hope it's not egotistical."

As for Seagren: "There are 32 steps needed for a perfect vault," he says. "When I put them together . . ."

Seagren's best vault is 17-5½, which is not the world's record. Bob's ex-roomie, John Pennel, holds the world mark (17-6¾), but John has been having trouble with his back again and did not vault during the winter.

Ryun's best (3:51.3) for the mile also is the world's best. Jim also holds the world's record for the half-mile (1:44.9). Both are likely to be broken this year.

Joining Ryun and Seagren as likely record-breakers are sprinter Tommie Smith and shot-putter Randy Matson.

Matson, like Ryun, continues to break his own world records. He did it again recently with a toss of 71-5½ feet.

Smith has been pacing himself more this year in preparation for the heavy international schedule in mid-summer.

A year ago, when Tommie broke the 20-second barrier for the 200-meter run (19.9), he was competing in four different events for San Jose State: the 100, 200, 400 and long jump.

He established world records for 200 meters, 220 yards, ran a 10.1 in the 100 meters and a 45.3 for 400 meters. Then he pulled a muscle and was never quite the same last season.

Smith is the greatest sprinter in the world today. Typical of his performances was the anchor leg in the mile relay in the national championships. Fifteen yards behind Dave Crook and Edwin Roberts, two of the world's best, Tommie made up the deficit and won by a half-stride. No one who saw the race has been able to forget it.

As for other possible world-record breakers, Dave Patrick of Villanova has a good chance in the half-mile and Willie Davenport of Southern University and Richmond Flower Jr. of the University of Tennessee in the 120-yard hurdles.

Of course, record holders like Ron Clarke of Australia (distances) and Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia (discus) are expected to improve on their existing marks.

Danek may get a challenge from triple gold-medal winner Al Oerter of the U.S.

Al hasn't competed too much since the last Olympics, but he wants another medal and he's starting to train seriously for the 1968 games.

Charleston Third, Sikeston Fourth

Kennett District Winner

The Kennett Indians, winner of the Northern Division track meet, captured first place honors here yesterday afternoon and night, in the district meet.

Because of heavy rains and strong winds, the times were somewhat slower than usual, which hindered the boys' chances for state qualifications. The weather, however, didn't stop the bounding Indians, who qualified 13 boys.

The Sikeston Bulldogs finished with 15 1/2 points, placed fourth and qualified both of their relay teams and a pole vaulter for state competition.

Sikeston's 880-yard relay team consist of Roger Blackman, Riley Gross, Arthur Jackson and Mike Killian. The mile relay team is composed of Roger Blackman, John Childress, Riley Gross and Randy Haley. Allen Craig also qualified with a 12'1" jump and a third place in the pole vault.

Boys taking one of the first three places in their respective events qualified for the state action.

Cape Girardeau Central (CA) finished second, 19 points behind the leaders with 49 1/2 points. Charleston (CH) was third with 48, Sikeston (S) fourth with 15 1/2, Poplar Bluff (PB) fifth, 12 1/2, Caruthersville (CV) sixth, 12, Jackson (J) seventh 4, and Perryville (P) was unable to score.

Four meet records were broken. Cape Central and Kennett shared the honors taking two a piece. Reed from Kennett broke the pole vault mark with a 13'1" vault, while teammate Turner finished with a shattering 14:07.5 time in the high hurdles. For Cape, Blackiston hurled the discus 161'10", and Riehl ran a record breaking time of 4:31.9 in the mile.

This meet concluded the 1967 version of track for all the Southeast Missouri teams except for the schools taking part in the state finals held in Columbia May 20.

Pole Position Battle Today

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Traffic officials braced today to funnel possibly 200,000 speed fans into the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to see an international field of drivers battle Mario Andretti for the pole position in the 500-mile race May 30.

The field against Italian-born Mario was precisely the way the 10-mile time trials shaped up.

The U.S. Auto Club's defending champion turned an unofficial lap Friday at 169.4 miles per hour against his own one-lap mark of 166.328 and his 10-mile record of 165.899, both set last year in a similar Brawner Hawk.

A half-dozen drivers had shown possibilities of breaking Andretti's '66 records but none had come very close to threatening his new pace.

The potential challengers included Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., veteran of seven 500 starts, who had been running over 166 m.p.h. in a Mongoose Ford, and Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., the national sprint car champion, who had been in the same bracket in one of Dan Gurney's Eagle Fords. Gurney, Santa Ana, Calif., himself had been close to 166.

Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., the 1963 Indianapolis winner, had been close to 166 in the unorthodox four - wheel-drive STP turbine car and Speedway observers suspected he had not extended it in practice.

Other running over 165 this week included Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., in a Gerhardt Ford; A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., the 1961 and 1964 winner, in a Coyote Ford of his own design, and Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., former national motorcycle racing champ, in another Coyote.

Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C., a star of the southern stock car tracks, had been practicing at a strong 164 Friday when he demolished his Mongoose against the Speedway retaining wall. He was unhurt in spite of an impact that knocked a 3-inch-thick chunk out of the concrete.

It was the 13th mishap of the 14-day practice period.

Today's qualifiers will hold their positions in the lineup regardless of speeds made in the three additional qualifying sessions Sunday and the following week.

Cape Takes Lead In MIAA Track Meet

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. AP-Host Cape Girardeau State took the lead in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association track meet Friday.

In golf, Kirksville State leads with 382 after 18 holes. Stan Ferguson of Warrensburg State grabbed medalist honors with a two-over-par 72.

Other team totals: Springfield State, 384; University of Missouri at Rolla, 390; Cape Girardeau and Warrensburg 394; and Maryville State, 424.

In tennis doubles finals today, Springfield meets Kirskville.

In track, Dave Walls of Warrensburg, established a new meet record, putting the shot 52-5, surpassing the old mark of 52-3 3/4. Mark Pittman of Warrensburg established a new long jump record by one - eighth inch with a 23 - 4 7/8 effort.

MU Closes In On Big Eight Lead

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado, the giant killer of Big Eight baseball, did it again Friday with a 2-1 victory over Oklahoma State's league leaders. Just a year ago, Oklahoma State won the championship because of Colorado's season-ending sweep over Oklahoma.

Despite the rain- shortened five-inning loss, Oklahoma State has a 10-3 record and three fewer defeats than runner-up Missouri, which closed the gap and made its record 10-6 with a 5-1 victory at Iowa State.

Colorado is notoriously tough on its home field, final resting place for the title hopes of several teams. Over the past five years, Colorado has won 33 of 46 home games and scored 273 runs, while taking only 11 of 46 on the road and scoring 152.

Last year, Oklahoma came to Boulder, Colo., with an 11-3 record, needing just one victory in the three games to clinch the crown. Colorado won all three, 1-0, 3-1 and 13-12. All three were extra inning games and Colorado overcame a 10-0 deficit in the third game.

Earlier this year, Kansas State was off to a 5-1 start and tied for first, but came to Boulder, lost two of three and never caught up.

Oklahoma won two games over K-State at Norman Friday and moved to third place at 9-7, dropping K-State to fourth at 7-7. Nebraska beat Kansas 1-0 at Lawrence. The second game was tied 0-0 after 14 innings, halted by darkness, and will be finished today.

The second division now shows Iowa State 7-9, Nebraska and Colorado both 5-8 and Kansas 5-10.

Missouri got its fifth straight victory on a steady nine-hitter by Mike McFarland.

Nebraska's Al Furby, the Big Eight earned run leader, fired a two-hitter for the Huskers, who beat Roger Jackson. Randy Stroup of Kansas pitched 11 1-3 innings of no-hit ball in the second game. After the marathon is completed, a single game will be played.

Oklahoma got three-hit pitching from Larry Patterson in the first game, beating K-State's Steve Snyder on a two-run homer by Gary Harper in the seventh. K-State jumped to a 3-0 first inning lead against Rusty Disbro in the second game, but OU won it with a four-run fifth.

Colorado got a bases - loaded single by Jack Schmidt in the fourth for a 2-0 lead. Colorado's Taylor Toomey had a no-hitter going into the fifth, when OSU scored an unearned run on an error, a walk, and a bloop pinch single by Joe Sorrenson. Then came the rain. Two games are scheduled for today, but wet weather is forecast.

Marichal In Tune

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco's limping Giants have come up with a formula for shedding those second-division blues.

Now if Herman Franks can just figure out a way to pitch Juan Marichal four times a week, the Giants will be sitting pretty.

Marichal, a spring training holdout, hurled his fifth straight complete game victory Friday night, whipping Houston 6-1. Willie Mays and Tom Haller provided the power with long home runs.

For the Giants to try to win without Marichal is like a car trying to run on three wheels. Franks found that out the hard way in the first two weeks of the season when Juan dropped his first three starts and San Francisco sunk to the cellar.

But the ace right-hander has regained his rhythm and now all Franks has to do is get two or three other pitchers in tune with Juan.

Mays, of course, is a one-man band. Willie's third home run of the season and No. 545 of his career came in the seventh inning with two men on and gave Marichal a comfortable working margin.

Haller, on a tear with nine hits in 12 at bats, had given the Giants the early lead in the fourth but consecutive singles by Joe Morgan, Sonny Jackson and Jim Wynn tied it in the sixth.

Marichal finished with a seven-hitter and struck out nine. He retired the first 11 batters he faced.

In other National League games Friday night, St. Louis rallied with five runs in the eighth inning for a 7-5 victory over New York, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 5-2, Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 4-2 and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

The Mets carried a 5-2 lead into the eighth inning against St. Louis but Mike Shannon's bloop single climaxed the Cards' comeback.

Julian Javier and Dave Ricketts opened with singles and after a force play produced one run. Singles by Lou Brock and Curt Flood, a double by Roger Maris and an intentional walk to Orlando Cepeda tied the game and left the bases loaded for Shannon's winning hit.

Jerry Buchek homered for the Mets.

Don Pavletich drove in three runs with a double and single as Sammy Ellis' five-hitter beat the Phillies for the Reds.

Ellis, a 20-game winner in 1965 but 12-19 last year, used an unorthodox rocking windup and liked it so much that he'll stay with it for awhile.

"The way it went tonight," he said, "I might use that windup for a long time."

Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente rapped third-inning home runs for the Pirates and Billy O'Dell won his third straight. O'Dell, who was stricken by Addison's disease during the winter, allowed Atlanta just four hits before leaving for reliever Elroy Face in the eighth.

Curt Simmons scattered eight hits against the Dodgers and drove in Adolpho Phillips with the winning run in the fifth inning after Phillips had tripled.

MORFONTAINE, France AP-John Brabson of Charlotte, N.C., has been eliminated from the French International Amateur Golf Tournament. He was defeated 6 and 5 Friday by Alexandre Godiliot of France.

WHERE TWO HEADS ARE NOT BETTER THAN ONE

Soccer - Hockey Played With A Basketball On A Football Field

By JOHN SMITH
Written for
The Associated Press

Soccer owes its worldwide popularity to its easy-to-follow rules, non-stop action and the fact that a good little man stands just as good a chance as a good big man.

It is a simple game to understand, combining many of the basics from hockey, basketball and football. It has been described as hockey played with a basketball on a football field by 22 marathon runners not allowed to touch the ball with the hands.

As in these other sports, a team trys to score over the other team's goal. The soccer goal is eight yards wide and eight feet high and resembles a hockey goal. Instead of a puck, a black and white leather ball weighing between 14-16 ounces with a circumference of between 27-28 inches is used.

The game starts off with a kickoff which is decided by a toss of a coin. The winning side has the choice of either choosing the side it wishes to defend or kicking off.

A player kicks off by booting the stationary ball placed on the ground at midfield. He can kick to a teammate or into opposing territory. After a score the ball is returned to the center of the field and play begins again.

Speed is one of the strong selling points of the game. Soccer is composed of two "fast and furious" halves with only a few minutes of halftime. There are no time outs as U.S. sports fans know them. There is no water boy, no towels and no consultation with the coach. And, if a player stops to argue with the referee, an opponent may well kick a goal behind his back.

European soccer in recent years has evolved into a defensive game based on the theory that the team which concedes the fewer goals can't lose. South American play is noted for a more aggressive wide-open strategy. The newly-aware North Americans have attempted to open up the game even more.

The National Professional Soccer league, under the stewardship of Commissioner Ken Macker, has tried to encourage scoring output with a new system for its point standings. Soccer has been calculated on the hockey basis of two points for a victory, one for a tie and none for a defeat. The NPSL system scores six points for a victory and three for a tie plus a point for every goal scored up to three.

Eusebio, the great 24-year-old Portuguese star is 5-foot-10 and weighs 165. He owned only one soccer shoe until he became a pro, when he received a new pair as a bonus for signing.

Tenoran for soybeans, the best early post-emergence weedkiller.

Don't use it till you see a stand of beans.

Tenoran lets you see your stand of soybeans before you invest in weed control. Then you can knock out the troublesome broadleaf weeds. Just spray Tenoran before the weeds get 2 inches tall - in about 10 days you'll have dead weeds and clean beans. This is the way to weed soybeans.

Tenoran kills annual broadleaf weeds such as cocklebur, morning glory, velvetleaf and pigweed - the weeds that come through pre-emergence weedkillers. This year wait till you see your beans - then wipe out the weeds with Tenoran Herbicide. Order Tenoran from your dealer today.

Same Names, New Records Due in '67 Track Season

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jim Ryun and Bob Seagren hear the same questions at least 50 times a week.

When will Ryun break 3:50 for the mile and when will Seagren break 18 feet in the pole vault?

The question embarrasses Ryun, who embarrasses easily. It amuses Seagren who can miss an 18-foot vault by an inch and come bounding out of the pits with a smile on his face.

"I don't want to sound too cocky," Ryun said. "I hope people understand. I feel a little stupid every time someone comes up to me and I just say, 'I just try to keep improving.' They ask 'how much?' and it's obvious that if it's very much it's under 3:50. If I can just word it right, I don't see why I shouldn't say what everyone knows . . . I hope it's not egotistical."

As for Seagren: "There are 32 steps needed for a perfect vault," he says. "When I put them together . . ."

Seagren's best vault is 17-5½, which is not the world's record. Bob's ex-roomie, John Pennel, holds the world mark (17-6¾), but John has been having trouble with his back again and did not vault during the winter.

Ryun's best (3:51.3) for the mile also is the world's best. Jim also holds the world's record for the half-mile (1:44.9). Both are likely to be broken this year.

Joining Ryun and Seagren as likely record-breakers are sprinter Tommie Smith and shot-putter Randy Matson.

Matson, like Ryun, continues to break his own world records. He did it again recently with a toss of 71-5½ feet.

Smith has been pacing himself more this year in preparation for the heavy international schedule in mid-summer.

A year ago, when Tommie broke the 20-second barrier for the 200-meter run (19.9), he was competing in four different events for San Jose State: the 100, 200, 400 and long jump.

He established world records for 200 meters, 220 yards, ran a 10.1 in the 100 meters and a 45.3 for 400 meters. Then he pulled a muscle and was never quite the same last season.

Smith is the greatest sprinter in the world today. Typical of his performances was the anchor leg in the mile relay in the national championships. Fifteen yards behind Dave Crook and Edwin Roberts, two of the world's best, Tommie made up the deficit and won by a half-stride. No one who saw the race has been able to forget it.

As for other possible world-record breakers, Dave Patrick of Villanova has a good chance in the half-mile and Willie Davenport of Southern University and Richmond Flower Jr. of the University of Tennessee in the 120-yard hurdles.

Of course, record holders like Ron Clarke of Australia (distances) and Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia (discus) are expected to improve on their existing marks.

Danek may get a challenge from triple gold-medal winner Al Oerter of the U.S.

Al hasn't competed too much since the last Olympics, but he wants another medal and he's starting to train seriously for the 1968 games.

Kennett District Winner

The Kennett Indians, winner of the Northern Division track meet, captured first place honors here yesterday afternoon and night, in the district meet.

Because of heavy rains and strong winds, the times were somewhat slower than usual, which hindered the boys' chances for state qualifications. The weather, however, didn't stop the bounding Indians, who qualified 13 boys.

The Sikeston Bulldogs finished with 15 1/2 points, placed fourth and qualified both of their relay teams and a pole vaulter for state competition.

Sikeston's 880-yard relay team consist of Roger Blackman, Riley Gross, Arthur Jackson and Mike Killian. The mile relay team is composed of Roger Blackman, John Childress, Riley Gross and Randy Haley. Allen Craig also qualified with a 12'1" jump and a third place in the pole vault.

Boys taking one of the first three places in their respective events qualified for the state action.

Cape Girardeau Central (CA) finished second, 19 points behind the leaders with 49 1/2 points. Charleston (CH) was third with 48, Sikeston (S) fourth with 15 1/2, Poplar Bluff (PB) fifth, 12 1/2, Caruthersville (CV) sixth, 12, Jackson (J) seventh 4, and Perryville (P) was unable to score.

Four meet records were broken. Cape Central and Kennett shared the honors taking two a piece. Reed from Kennett broke the pole vault mark with a 13'1" vault, while teammate Turner finished with a shattering 14:07.5 time in the high hurdles. For Cape, Blackiston hurled the discus 161'10", and Riehl ran a record breaking time of 4:31.9 in the mile.

This meet concluded the 1967 version of track for all the Southeast Missouri teams except for the schools taking part in the state finals held in Columbia May 20.

Oklahoma got three-hit pitching from Larry Patterson in the first game, beating K-State's Steve Snyder on a two-run homer by Gary Harper in the seventh. K-State jumped to a 3-0 first inning lead against Rusty Disbro in the second game, but OU won it with a four-run fifth.

Colorado got a bases-loaded single by Jack Schmidt in the fourth for a 2-0 lead. Colorado's Taylor Toomey had a no-hitter going into the fifth, when OSU scored an unearned run on an error, a walk, and a bloop pinch single by Joe Sorrenson. Then came the rain. Two games are scheduled for today, but wet weather is forecast.

Marichal In Tune

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco's limping Giants have come up with a formula for shedding those second-division blues.

Now if Herman Franks can just figure out a way to pitch Juan Marichal four times a week, the Giants will be sitting pretty.

Marichal, a spring training holdout, hurled his fifth straight complete game victory Friday night, whipping Houston 6-1. Willie Mays and Tom Haller provided the power with long home runs.

For the Giants to try to win without Marichal is like a car trying to run on three wheels. Franks found that out the hard way in the first two weeks of the season when Juan dropped his first three starts and San Francisco sunk to the cellar.

But the ace right-hander has regained his rhythm and now all Franks has to do is get two or three other pitchers in tune with Juan.

Mays, of course, is a one-man band. Willie's third home run of the season and No. 545 of his career came in the seventh inning with two men on and gave Marichal a comfortable working margin.

Haller, on a tear with nine hits in 12 at bats, had given the Giants the early lead in the fourth but consecutive singles by Joe Morgan, Sonny Jackson and Jim Wynn tied it in the sixth.

Marichal finished with a seven-hitter and struck out nine. He retired the first 11 batters he faced.

In other National League games Friday night, St. Louis rallied with five runs in the eighth inning for a 7-5 victory over New York, Pittsburgh downed Atlanta 5-2, Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 4-2 and Chicago nipped Los Angeles 2-1.

The Mets carried a 5-2 lead into the eighth inning against St. Louis but Mike Shannon's bloop single climaxed the Cards' comeback.

Julian Javier and Dave Ricketts opened with singles and after a force play produced one run. Singles by Lou Brock and Curt Flood, a double by Roger Maris and an intentional walk to Orlando Cepeda tied the game and left the bases loaded for Shannon's winning hit.

Jerry Buchek homered for the Mets.

Don Pavletich drove in three runs with a double and single as Sammy Ellis' five-hitter beat the Phillies for the Reds.

Ellis, a 20-game winner in 1965 but 12-19 last year, used an unorthodox rocking windup and liked it so much that he'll stay with it for awhile.

"The way it went tonight," he said, "I might use that windup for a long time."

Matty Alou and Roberto Clemente rapped third-inning home runs for the Pirates and Billy O'Dell won his third straight. O'Dell, who was stricken by Addison's disease during the winter, allowed Atlanta just four hits before leaving for reliever Elroy Face in the eighth.

Curt Simmons scattered eight hits against the Dodgers and drove in Adolpho Phillips with the winning run in the fifth inning after Phillips had tripled.

WHERE TWO HEADS ARE NOT BETTER THAN ONE

Soccer - Hockey Played With A Basketball On A Football Field

By JOHN SMITH
Written for
The Associated Press

Soccer owes its worldwide popularity to its easy-to-follow rules, non-stop action and the fact that a good little man stands just as good a chance as a good big man.

It is a simple game to understand, combining many of the basics from hockey, basketball and football. It has been described as hockey played with a basketball on a football field by 22 marathon runners not allowed to touch the ball with the hands.

As in these other sports, a team trys to score over the other team's goal. The soccer goal is eight yards wide and eight feet high and resembles a hockey goal. Instead of a puck, a black and white leather ball weighing between 14-16 ounces with a circumference of between 27-28 inches is used.

The game starts off with a kickoff which is decided by a toss of a coin. The winning side has the choice of either choosing the side it wishes to defend or kicking off.

A player kicks off by booting the stationary ball placed on the ground at midfield. He can kick to a teammate or into opposing territory. After a score the ball is returned to the center of the field and play begins again.

Speed is one of the strong selling points of the game. Soccer is composed of two "fast and furious" halves with only a few minutes of halftime. There are no time outs as U.S. sports fans know them. There is no water boy, no towels and no consultation with the coach. And, if a player stops to argue with the referee, an opponent may well kick a goal behind his back.

European soccer in recent years has evolved into a defensive game based on the theory that the team which concedes the fewer goals can't lose. South American play is noted for a more aggressive wide-open strategy. The newly-aware North Americans have attempted to open up the game even more.

The National Professional Soccer league, under the stewardship of Commissioner Ken Macker, has tried to encourage scoring output with a new system for its point standings. Soccer has been calculated on the hockey basis of two points for a victory, one for a tie and none for a defeat. The NPSL system scores six points for a victory and three for a tie plus a point for every goal scored up to three.

Eusebio, the great 24-year-old Portuguese star is 5-foot-10 and weighs 165. He owned only one soccer shoe until he became a pro, when he received a new pair as a bonus for signing.

Tenoran for soybeans, the best early post-emergence weedkiller.

Don't use it till you see a stand of beans.

Tenoran lets you see your stand of soybeans before you invest in weed control. Then you can knock out the troublesome broadleaf weeds. Just spray Tenoran before the weeds get 2 inches tall - in about 10 days you'll have dead weeds and clean beans. This is the way to weed soybeans.

Tenoran kills annual broadleaf weeds such as cocklebur, morning glory, velvetleaf and pigweed - the weeds that come through pre-emergence weedkillers. This year wait till you see your beans - then wipe out the weeds with Tenoran Herbicide. Order Tenoran from your dealer today.

Kennett Teachers Win Big Musical Comedy Following

By TONY PIPPIN
Daily Dunklin Democrat
For The Associated Press

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) - Two Kennett teachers have pooled their talents to bring musical comedy to the high school stage and it looks like it's here to stay.

"The Music Man," their first production, was so widely accepted in March, 1966 that Joe Newman and Fred Ford decided to try again this year with "Bye Bye Birdie." Each was presented before full houses for three consecutive nights.

The acceptance was so enthusiastic that the Kennett Arts Council, an organization formed for the purpose of bringing cultural progress to the city, asked Newman and Ford to direct a Broadway musical this summer using local adult and high school talent.

Tryouts will soon be under way.

Newman, who teaches English and drama, came to Kennett in 1965 from Bragg City. Prior to that he was on the West Coast, where he directed plays and attended San Diego State, earning a master's degree in theater.

On the coast he performed in a number of musicals and directed 15 plays, among them, "Miranda," "Night Must Fall," "Great Big Doorstep," "Lilom," "Glass Menagerie," "Traveling Lady," "Johnny Belinda," and "Dark of the Moon."

Ford, a native of Kennett, is now in his third year as director of vocal music. He is a graduate of Southwestern College in Memphis, where he received his master's degree in music last summer. During the summer of 1964 he performed with the Inspiration Point Fine Arts Colony.

The real test of Newman's and Ford's abilities has been to take young high school tenagers, most of them with no acting or singing background, and turn them into actors and singers who project on stage with all the qualities of professionals.

The key to their success may be the fact that both enjoy working with young people and both are highly skilled in their professions.

However, both admit that neither would be able to produce a musical comedy alone.

And there have been some good side effects.

Ford says, as a result of the stage productions, his choir has nearly doubled and the quality of the singing is improving. Newman's drama class also is reaping benefits with increased enrollment and more enthusiasm among the students.

Both have high priase for the students they work with.

"The wonderful part about our job is that there is no reluctance on the part of the Kennett kids to try," they agreed.

"We get as good a response out of the athletes as we do the young girls. Everyone does his best and it shows up on opening night."

Silage can be fed to pregnant sows and gilts. They won't eat enough to justify making silage unless it is used for other livestock, says Homer Sewell, animal husbandryman at the University of Missouri. Sows will eat 10 to 14 pounds daily and gilts 8 to 12 pounds of silage. A protein supplement should be fed with the silage. Also, a small amount of grain may be needed to keep sows and gilts in proper conditon.

KEEP RECORDS OF CHEMICALS USED

You'll never know why you did or did not achieve good weed control unless you keep a good record of chemicals applied. Such a record might include planting date, date chemicals used, depth of application, banded or broadcast, acres tested, date crop emerged, and other observations.

Since the beginning of use of chemicals for weed control, there has never been a year when so many different chemicals and combinations of chemicals have been used in so many different ways under such varying conditions. This is the year many lessons can be learned about chemicals that experiment stations may never have thought of provided farm records are kept.

Once crops are up to a stand, decisions about what postemergence chemicals to use safely may depend on record of original treatment.

Probably one of the simplest ways to get record of the amount of chemical used is to keep records of purchase and subtract the amount of material on hand or returned when planting is completed.

CHEMICAL CONTAINERS NEED TO BE DISPOSED OF PROPERLY

Paper bags could be burned, but even this job must be done with caution. The fumes from these burning paper bags should not be inhaled.

Tin containers should be crushed and buried so the drainage from them will not get into drainage ditches.

STORAGE OF CHEMICALS

Read the label on all chemical chemical containers carefully and store them under the conditions prescribed by the manufacturer.

All chemicals should be kept under lock for the protection of the owner not only from theft, but possible lawsuits. This is also important to insure that children will not be harmed by the chemicals.

A fellow still suffering from his adventures of the night before walked into his favorite pub the next day. "Two aspirin," he said to the bartender. "And don't slam the lid on the box."

ASC Provisions For Cotton Crop Damage

BENTON -- Many producers in Scott county and other cotton areas are preparing to or have already planted their 1967 cotton crop. Because of existing weather conditions, it seems appropriate to inform producers of ASC provisions relating to prevented or disaster plantings.

Should abnormal weather conditions prevent a farmer from planting his cotton or destroy his crop after it is planted, there are certain provisions set forth by the Department of Agriculture to protect a producer's cotton payment.

In 1966 if a producer's crop had been destroyed by natural causes, he could plant the area to soybeans without loss of price - support payment provided his request was approved by the county committee. This provision was widely used in Scott and other cotton counties.

At a meeting of the cotton advisory commiteee last fall more restrictive regulations and procedures were adopted to prevent producers from making token plantings merely to obtain price-support payments.

For 1967 to be eligible for payments and history credit, producers must have planted and farmed cotton in a workmanlike manner with the expectation of producing a normal crop. Acreage which the county committee determines was planted in an unworkmanlike manner solely for price support payments or history purposes shall not be counted as planted acreage.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for cotton acreage which is to be replanted to another crop must file a written request for such credit and receive approval of the county committee before an acreage is replanted. Credit may not be given if the committee determines that the acreage may be replanted to cotton before May 18.

If a producer has his crop planted now and it has already been ruined or destroyed because of adverse weather conditions, that producer must replant the cotton in a normal manner, weather permitting, to be eligible to receive his cotton payment.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for acreage which has already been abandoned or destroyed will be required to furnish such evidence as the county committee may request to establish that the cotton was planted in a manner considered normal for his particular locality.

The Scott County ASC committee reminds producers that May 15 is the final date to report their 1967 wheat acreage. If you have not already done so, producers participating in the 1967 wheat program must report their acreage before they can be eligible for program payments.

Hearnes to Receive Honorary Degree

COLUMBIA -- The University of Missouri will confer three honorary degrees at the 125th annual commencement exercises at 7 p.m. June 6, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Recipients will include Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, and Dr. Lester V. Chandler, chairman of the economics and sociology department at Princeton University.

Gov. Hearnes, a University Arts and Science College and School of Law graduate in 1952, will deliver the commencement address before some 3,000 graduates at Memorial Stadium.

Gov. Hearnes and Heinkel are natives of Missouri and the governor and Dr. Chandler are alumni of the university.

Honorary degree candidates are nominated by a faculty committee and elected by the faculty and approved by the board of curators from individuals with outstanding records of service.

Gov. Hearnes, born at Charleston in 1923, is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and was elected to the Missouri house of representatives while a student in the School of Law here. He remained in the legislature from 1950 until 1960, serving as majority floor leader in 1957-59 and receiving the Globe - Democrat award as the most effective member in debate in 1958.

He was elected secretary of state in 1960 and governor in 1964. Gov. Hearnes received the American Heritage Foundation citizenship award in 1961 for leadership in working for modernization of Missouri's election laws.

Heinkel, native of Jefferson County where he was born in 1897, has been president of Missouri's federation of cooperatives since 1940 and was a member of the university board of curators from 1953 to 1959.

He joined the farm club movement in 1917, and nine years later helped organize an MFA farmers' exchange at Catawissa. He served as vice president of the MFA from 1936 and until he assumed the presidency.

Heinkel, who testified frequently before congressional and legislative committees, has received national recognition. He has been a member of the National Agriculture Advisory Commission, the Public Advisory Committee on Trade negotiations, director of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and trustee and vice president of the American Institute of Cooperation.

He was chairman in 1951 of the national feed grains study committee, a member in 1952 of the Missouri Basin survey commission, and member and vice chairman from 1943-49 of the Missouri state soil districts commission. He holds the award of merit of Gamma Sigma Delta, lifelong membership in the alumni consulate of the University and the distinguished service to agriculture award of the MFA.

Dr. Chandler is a native of Gueda Springs, Kan., where he was born in 1905. He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1930 and a master of arts degree in 1931 at the university before taking his doctorate at Yale.

He joined the Dartmouth faculty in 1933 for two years, moved in 1935 to Princeton for two years and then joined the Amherst College faculty, where he attained the rank of professor before returning in 1950 to Princeton. He became department chairman in 1955.

Dr. Chandler has been a member of the Research advisory board of the Committee on Economic Development, director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, director of the Atlantic City Electric Co., was president in 1954 of the America Economic Association. He is author of several books on economics, money and banking.

Now! Big Company Group Insurance For Smaller Businesses

Now, businesses with less than 25 employees are eligible for a new, low-cost group health and life insurance program that offers coverage you'd expect to find only in big company group insurance plans.

It's P.E.P. (Progressive Employers Program) — from Mutual of Omaha and its life insurance affiliate, United of Omaha. P.E.P. solves the salary continuance problem for the small employer and helps reduce labor turnover by providing important financial security for the employee and his family.

If you have a small business, you owe it to yourself and your employees to investigate P.E.P. — the modern answer to the small businessman's need for a flexible, low-cost employee insurance program.

The event is being sponsored by the community action agency in co-operation with other citizens.

Cinnamon bears are to be found in the Jasper Canadian National Park.

FARM LABOR BULLETIN

STATE SUMMARY

Reports on freeze damage to the fruit and vegetable crop in Missouri paint a gloomy picture. Replanting of corn and cotton in specific areas reported.

Strawberry picking in Sikeston, Monett, Kennett, and Poplar Bluff underway with the Cape Girardeau and West Plains berry harvests to start this week.

Rolla reports some 20,000 acres of grapes damaged 65 to 75 per cent due to freeze and hail. St. Joseph reports 75 to 80 percent loss of apple, peach and strawberry crops. Kansas City reports $400,000 freeze loss as conservative estimate. Lexington - Waverly area hard hit by freeze. Apple crop severely damaged.

Initial reports from over the state show good response on recruitment of college men for summer work in Washington, Wisconsin and Minnesota as machine operators and in-plant workers.

135 year - round and 87 seasonal unfilled farm job openings reported. 21 year-round, 1907 seasonal, 673 order - holding and 391 applicants - holding acceptances were primary types of placements reported the past week.

Extensive recruitment underway for qualified applicants for new farm hand class at Marshall, starting May 29. Graduation at Marshall will be May 26 for present class.

SOUTHEAST

Sikeston: 202 South Kingshighway -- Telephone: Granite 1-2731.

Local workers picking strawberries in immediate area and day - haul to Kentucky. Some few small groups have left area for berries. Year - round demands and supplies of farm hands have leveled off to near balance. Growers still want well qualified farm hands but will not settle at present for less qualified.

Farm Labor Information Station & Rest Camp, Route No. 2, Sikeston.

The Camp served 511 migrants with 162 going to Michigan, 74 to Indiana, 158 to Ohio and 117 to Illinois.

Poplar Bluff: 211 Pine Street -- Telephone: Sunset 5-9606.

No farming has been done this past week due to excess rainfall. Most all the early cotton that was planted will have to be replanted. Strawberry harvest in full swing over this area with very little help. Some recruitment is being done for MDTA Farm Hand Training at Marshall.

Labor Mobility Office, Poplar Bluff:

Cape Girardeau: 231 North Main Street -- Telephone: Edgewater 5-6666.

Demand for year - round and seasonal farm workers continues to exceed the available supply. Strawberry harvest to start with volume picking on Monday, May 8. Positive recruitment of cannery workers by Stokely - Van Camp Company on May 1 resulted in 26 youth, ages 18 to 22 being accepted for employment.

Kennett: 405 St. Francis Street -- Telephone Tuxedo 3-3184.

Strawberry harvest continues to be very good. One grower in north part of county started picking this week. Local labor and crews from Hayti and Lilbourn are being used, with one crew from Texas and one crew expected from Texas this weekend. Weather and soil conditions have improved and planting and replanting of cotton is in full swing. 1784 seasonal placements and 671 order - holding placements were made this week. Supply and demand for labor is being met at this time.

Caruthersville: 112 West Fifth Street -- Telephone: Edison 3-2416.

Another week has passed with very little farm activities being done, due to rain and cool weather throughout the week. Many of the farmers are becoming very concerned about the situation and are hoping for the weather to break. No demand for general farm hands at the present time. A few crews from this area are working in strawberries in Dunklin County.

West Plains: 111 Walnut Street -- Telephone: 256-3158.

Slight freeze damage over the area on apple and peach crop. Strawberry crop is not ripening as expected due to cool weather. No available labor for relocation at present time.

KEEP RECORDS OF CHEMICALS USED

You'll never know why you did or did not achieve good weed control unless you keep a good record of chemicals applied. Such a record might include planting date, date chemicals used, depth of application, banded or broadcast, acres tested, date crop emerged, and other observations.

Since the beginning of use of chemicals for weed control, there has never been a year when so many different chemicals and combinations of chemicals have been used in so many different ways under such varying conditions. This is the year many lessons can be learned about chemicals that experiment stations may never have thought of provided farm records are kept.

Once crops are up to a stand, decisions about what postemergence chemicals to use safely may depend on record of original treatment.

Probably one of the simplest ways to get record of the amount of chemical used is to keep records of purchase and subtract the amount of material on hand or returned when planting is completed.

CHEMICAL CONTAINERS NEED TO BE DISPOSED OF PROPERLY

Paper bags could be burned, but even this job must be done with caution. The fumes from these burning paper bags should not be inhaled.

Tin containers should be crushed and buried so the drainage from them will not get into drainage ditches.

STORAGE OF CHEMICALS

Read the label on all chemical chemical containers carefully and store them under the conditions prescribed by the manufacturer.

All chemicals should be kept under lock for the protection of the owner not only from theft, but possible lawsuits. This is also important to insure that children will not be harmed by the chemicals.

A fellow still suffering from his adventures of the night before walked into his favorite pub the next day. "Two aspirin," he said to the bartender. "And don't slam the lid on the box."

ASC Provisions For Cotton Crop Damage

BENTON -- Many producers in Scott county and other cotton areas are preparing to or have already planted their 1967 cotton crop. Because of existing weather conditions, it seems appropriate to inform producers of ASC provisions relating to prevented or disaster plantings.

Should abnormal weather conditions prevent a farmer from planting his cotton or destroy his crop after it is planted, there are certain provisions set forth by the Department of Agriculture to protect a producer's cotton payment.

In 1966 if a producer's crop had been destroyed by natural causes, he could plant the area to soybeans without loss of price - support payment provided his request was approved by the county committee. This provision was widely used in Scott and other cotton counties.

At a meeting of the cotton advisory commiteee last fall more restrictive regulations and procedures were adopted to prevent producers from making token plantings merely to obtain price-support payments.

For 1967 to be eligible for payments and history credit, producers must have planted and farmed cotton in a workmanlike manner with the expectation of producing a normal crop. Acreage which the county committee determines was planted in an unworkmanlike manner solely for price support payments or history purposes shall not be counted as planted acreage.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for cotton acreage which is to be replanted to another crop must file a written request for such credit and receive approval of the county committee before an acreage is replanted. Credit may not be given if the committee determines that the acreage may be replanted to cotton before May 18.

If a producer has his crop planted now and it has already been ruined or destroyed because of adverse weather conditions, that producer must replant the cotton in a normal manner, weather permitting, to be eligible to receive his cotton payment.

Producers who wish to receive planted acreage credit for acreage which has already been abandoned or destroyed will be required to furnish such evidence as the county committee may request to establish that the cotton was planted in a manner considered normal for his particular locality.

The Scott County ASC committee reminds producers that May 15 is the final date to report their 1967 wheat acreage. If you have not already done so, producers participating in the 1967 wheat program must report their acreage before they can be eligible for program payments.

Hearnes to Receive Honorary Degree

COLUMBIA -- The University of Missouri will confer three honorary degrees at the 125th annual commencement exercises at 7 p.m. June 6, Chancellor John W. Schwada announced today.

Recipients will include Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, and Dr. Lester V. Chandler, chairman of the economics and sociology department at Princeton University.

Gov. Hearnes, a University Arts and Science College and School of Law graduate in 1952, will deliver the commencement address before some 3,000 graduates at Memorial Stadium.

Gov. Hearnes and Heinkel are natives of Missouri and the governor and Dr. Chandler are alumni of the university.

Honorary degree candidates are nominated by a faculty committee and elected by the faculty and approved by the board of curators from individuals with outstanding records of service.

Gov. Hearnes, born at Charleston in 1923, is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and was elected to the Missouri house of representatives while a student in the School of Law here. He remained in the legislature from 1950 until 1960, serving as majority floor leader in 1957-59 and receiving the Globe - Democrat award as the most effective member in debate in 1958.

He was elected secretary of state in 1960 and governor in 1964. Gov. Hearnes received the American Heritage Foundation citizenship award in 1961 for leadership in working for modernization of Missouri's election laws.

Heinkel, native of Jefferson County where he was born in 1897, has been president of Missouri's federation of cooperatives since 1940 and was a member of the university board of curators from 1953 to 1959.

He joined the farm club movement in 1917, and nine years later helped organize an MFA farmers' exchange at Catawissa. He served as vice president of the MFA from 1936 and until he assumed the presidency.

Heinkel, who testified frequently before congressional and legislative committees, has received national recognition. He has been a member of the National Agriculture Advisory Commission, the Public Advisory Committee on Trade negotiations, director of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and trustee and vice president of the American Institute of Cooperation.

He was chairman in 1951 of the national feed grains study committee, a member in 1952 of the Missouri Basin survey commission, and member and vice chairman from 1943-49 of the Missouri state soil districts commission. He holds the award of merit of Gamma Sigma Delta, lifelong membership in the alumni consulate of the University and the distinguished service to agriculture award of the MFA.

Dr. Chandler is a native of Gueda Springs, Kan., where he was born in 1905. He received a bachelor of arts degree in 1930 and a master of arts degree in 1931 at the university before taking his doctorate at Yale.

He joined the Dartmouth faculty in 1933 for two years, moved in 1935 to Princeton for two years and then joined the Amherst College faculty, where he attained the rank of professor before returning in 1950 to Princeton. He became department chairman in 1955.

Dr. Chandler has been a member of the Research advisory board of the Committee on Economic Development, director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, director of the Atlantic City Electric Co., was president in 1954 of the America Economic Association. He is author of several books on economics, money and banking.

The Key and The Lock

For two milleniums now the message of the church has been that Christ is the key to life. But the church has not always understood the lock, i.e. the world, into which the key fits. At TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH we are endeavoring to understand both the living Christ and the needs of people. We should be delighted to have you worship with us where a genuine effort is being made to get together the power of the Gospel and the needs of the world.

Now! Big Company Group Insurance For Smaller Businesses

Now, businesses with less than 25 employees are eligible for a new, low-cost group health and life insurance program that offers coverage you'd expect to find only in big company group insurance plans.

It's P.E.P. (Progressive Employers Program) — from Mutual of Omaha and its life insurance affiliate, United of Omaha. P.E.P. solves the salary continuance problem for the small employer and helps reduce labor turnover by providing important financial security for the employee and his family.

If you have a small business, you owe it to yourself and your employees to investigate P.E.P. — the modern answer to the small businessman's need for a flexible, low-cost employee insurance program.

Clifford Nelson Teaching in South America

MATTHEWS - Mrs. Clifford L. Nelson arrived Saturday for a month's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benton B. Conrad, before joining her husband in Curitiba, Parana, Brazil. Dr. Nelson, an assistant professor at the University of Minnesota, has been given an 18-month assignment with the University of Minnesota - Ford Foundation project, to teach in the Federal University of Parana.

The five-year project involves training vocational - agriculture teachers for junior high and high schools in Brazil. It is the first of its kind that has been attempted internationally to aid the development of a country that is having difficulty in meeting agricultural needs. If the project is successful, it is hoped that the organization and design might be taken as a model for similar projects around the world.

Dr. Nelson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilding C. Nelson of Mount Vernon, Wash., was graduated from Mount Vernon high school. He received degrees from Skagit Valley College, Washington State University and earned his Doctor of Philosophy in agricultural education and journalism in 1966 at the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. Nelson is a graduate of Matthews high school, the University of Missouri school of home economics and received her master's degree in textiles and clothing from the University of Minnesota.

The couple visited last week with his parents in Mount Vernon. He left from Seattle, Wash., on Friday. Mrs. Nelson's parents and brother, Charles, met her at the airport in St. Louis Saturday morning. They were overnight guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stone at Belleville, Ill.

Friends here have received word of the death of Ronald Roberts, 27, at Battle Grounds, Wash. He was a graduate of Matthews high school and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Roberts, who now live in Flint, Mich. Besides his wife and three children, he is survived by two brothers, Roger, Flint, Mich. and Terry, in the armed forces overseas, and five sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Underwood and children, Dianna Lynne and Donnie of Portageville, were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stafford.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester King spent the weekend with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wayne King and son, Kerry Wayne at Wapella, Ill.

Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Dennis Parsons attended the wedding Saturday evening of their granddaughter and niece, Sandra Kay Atwill, and Thomas Chronister of St. Louis at the First Christian church in Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schuerenberg and sons visited last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Durban and family of Oakland City, Ind.

Armed Forces

William S. Edwards

WITH U.S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam -- Technical Sergeant William S. Edwards, son of Mrs. Dollie Edwards of 406 E. Seventh St., Portageville, Mo., is on duty at Tan Son Nhut AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Edwards, a management analyst, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces which provides offensive - defensive airpower for the U. S. and its allies in the Pacific, Far East and Southeast Asia.

Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to the 10th Air Force at Richards -Gebaur AFB, Mo.

The sergeant is a graduate of Portageville (Mo.) High School.

His wife, Lois, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rinck of Rt. 3, Newburg, Mo.

FT. BENNING, GA. (AHTNC) -- Army Private David Pyles, 18, son of Mrs. Mary L. Pyles, 303 W. Sixth St., Portageville, Mo., completed the Infantry School's three - week airborne course at Ft. Benning, Ga., May 6.

His training, which included five jumps from a C-130 airplane flying 170 miles an hour at an altitude of 1,250 feet, qualified him as a parachutist. He also underwent strenuous physical conditioning.

Michael G. Watson

FT. SILL, OKLA. (AHTNC) -- Michael G. Watson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva V. Watson, Morehouse, Mo., was commissioned a second lieutenant upon graduation from the Officer Candidate School at the Army Artillery and Missile Center, Ft. Sill, Okla., May 2.

Gunnery was the primary subject taught during the 23 - week course, designed to prepare men for officer duties in artillery units. He was also trained in artillery survey and transport, communications, map and aerial - photo reading, electronics, counter insurgency, and leadership.

(HI056) CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF., (FHTNC) -- Marine Lance Corporal Don E. Ervin, nephew of Mrs. Gertrude Dorsey of Sikeston, Mo., was among the more than 10,000 Marines who prevented a simulated enemy takeover of a small country friendly to the U. S., during amphibious training exercises on the beaches of Camp Pendleton Marine Corps Base in southern California.

Code-named exercise "Alligator Hide", the week - long maneuvers included Marine units from the west coast and Hawaii, as well as Navy transport ships and air squadrons.

The fictitious tactical situation dealt with the friendly country of "Mateo" being overrun by the nearby country of "Horno." Under treaty agreements, Mateo requested U. S. assistance to prevent further seizure of territory, and to regain what was lost. With this objective, the Leathernecks went ashore by boat and helicopter, established their beachhead positions, and then moved into the "hostile" areas sweeping them clear of the enemy threat. Completing their mission, the forces moved back to the beaches and out to the transport ships standing offshore.

Robert Wallace Will Be Home

Pvt. Robert C. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wallace, will be home May 19 after completing four months training in the army. He was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood and Fort Lee, Va.

He will be here for 30 days and for the celebration of his parents' 22nd wedding anniversary.

THEY'D RATHER ITCH THAN SWITCH

Two California dermatologists have come up with a group of patients who would "rather itch than switch."

These patients, mostly -- but not entirely -- women and girls, are suffering from an affliction dubbed "stretch garment dermatitis," a slightly red, scaly, ill - defined rash caused by stretch garments that are too tight.

Dr. Richard Mihan, assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of Southern California, and Dr. Samuel Ayers, Jr., emeritus clinical professor of dermatology at the University of California at Los Angeles, reported to members attending the California Medical Association meeting that they first became aware of the condition in a little girl who had been wearing leotards and stretch socks for three years.

Her irritation was not alergic but seemed to be caused solely by the friction and pressure of the garments, Dr. Mihan said.

The widespread use of stretch garments over the past several years has brought an increasing number of patients to his office suffering from skin complaints, the doctor said. Irritation appears where garments bind and hug the body most tightly. Chief offenders are stretch bras, stretch girdles and stretch socks, he noted, though stretch trousers also cause difficulty.

Tight stretch garments can also be highly irritating to a pre - existing skin problem such as acne or psoriasis, Dr. Mihan reported.

"Elimination of the stretch garment is absolutely essential to treatment," he said, "but many people won't switch until they absolutely have to."

Dr. Mihan emphasized that the dermatitis does not disappear immediately once the offending garment is removed. It may be several weeks before the condition begins to improve.

SOME UNWED GIRLS NEED BIRTH CONTROL HELP

Why does a distinguished obstetrician - gynecologist, a responsible member of his profession and community, provide some unmarried girls with contraceptive information and materials?

Here's what Dr. A. Herbert Marbach, gynecology professor at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School and senior attending gynecologist - obstetrician at the Albert Einstein Medical Center, told Women's Medical News Service at the recent meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"When a patient comes to me for help I feel a professional and humanitarian obligation to do what I consider best in her behalf. This applies to minor unmarried girls who come to me as well as to adults.

"In taking the case history of the girl, I try to elicit from her what her plans are, what her attitudes toward sex are, why she is seeking contraception. In the course of such a discussion I try to help my patient understand the profound importance of sex, not only as an individual act, but as the very root of both her femininity and her relationship to all other human beings. I try to help her see, without condemning her, that sex is not a commodity to be traded for a dinner, for popularity.

"If it seems to me that the young woman is going to indulge in pre - marital sex despite my efforts to convince her not to, then I will prescribe the pill or other contraceptives to see to it that the least possible harm is done to her and to society. I consider it immoral to bring an unwanted child into the world, to make it and society pay for the mistakes of its parents."

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

The merry confusion over a commemorative stamp and first-day cancellation on the 200th birthday of Andrew Jackson recalls another contretemps at the Hermitage, this time at the former President's funeral June 10, 1845.

Here is the story, as told by Stanley Horn, in his "The Hermitage: Home of Old Hickory," published by Greenberg in 1950:

"General Jackson had expressed the wish that his funeral services be simple and without pomp or ostentation; but such a funeral was hardly possible for the most distinguished private citizen of his day. The military company marched out of Nashville to attend the services . . . and a great multitude of people, estimated at 3,000, gathered to pay their last tribute. The funeral was preached by Dr. Edgar, the minister who had received him into the church, the services being conducted from the front porch owing to the inability of the large crowd to get inside the house.

"There was a moment of disturbance while the mourners were assembling, caused by an untimely outburst of blistering profanity from Old Poll, the Hermitage parrot who had so long been a favorite pet of the general. The solemnity of the occasion was completely upset by the sudden torrent of objurgation from the old bird on her perch on the upper front gallery, but she was quickly banished to the servants' quarters at the back of the house and Dr. Edgar stepped on the stone-paved portico and began to read the burial service."

It is to wonder, at the 200th anniversary of Old Hickory's birth, what the advocate of "hard money" would have had to say about Federal Reserve notes and our present circulation of ersatz dimes and quarters.

The question of "hard money" was an acute issue in the summer of 1834 and Jackson provided himself with enough gold coins to pay his bills when he took the 1,000-mile overland trip from Washington to Nashville.

With breezy gusto he planked down $10 gold pieces on small-town tavern counters, and enjoyed the reaction of pop-eyed citizens.

Gold coins were scarce at the time, and to furnish an adequate supply Jackson had started the mint to turning out half-eagles at the rate of $20,000 a day. While he was at the Hermitage in August, the first eagle struck from a new die was sent to him.

S. assistance to prevent further seizure of territory, and to regain what was lost. With this objective, the Leathernecks went ashore by boat and helicopter, established their beachhead positions, and then moved into the "hostile" areas sweeping them clear of the enemy threat. Completing their mission, the forces moved back to the beaches and out to the transport ships standing offshore.

THEY'D RATHER ITCH THAN SWITCH

Two California dermatologists have come up with a group of patients who would "rather itch than switch."

These patients, mostly -- but not entirely -- women and girls, are suffering from an affliction dubbed "stretch garment dermatitis," a slightly red, scaly, ill - defined rash caused by stretch garments that are too tight.

Dr. Richard Mihan, assistant clinical professor of medicine at the University of Southern California, and Dr. Samuel Ayers, Jr., emeritus clinical professor of dermatology at the University of California at Los Angeles, reported to members attending the California Medical Association meeting that they first became aware of the condition in a little girl who had been wearing leotards and stretch socks for three years.

Her irritation was not allergic but seemed to be caused solely by the friction and pressure of the garments, Dr. Mihan said.

The widespread use of stretch garments over the past several years has brought an increasing number of patients to his office suffering from skin complaints, the doctor said. Irritation appears where garments bind and hug the body most tightly. Chief offenders are stretch bras, stretch girdles and stretch socks, he noted, though stretch trousers also cause difficulty.

Tight stretch garments can also be highly irritating to a pre - existing skin problem such as acne or psoriasis, Dr. Mihan reported.

"Elimination of the stretch garment is absolutely essential to treatment," he said, "but many people won't switch until they absolutely have to."

Dr. Mihan emphasized that the dermatitis does not disappear immediately once the offending garment is removed. It may be several weeks before the condition begins to improve.

SOME UNWED GIRLS NEED BIRTH CONTROL HELP

Why does a distinguished obstetrician - gynecologist, a responsible member of his profession and community, provide some unmarried girls with contraceptive information and materials?

Here's what Dr. A. Herbert Marbach, gynecology professor at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School and senior attending gynecologist - obstetrician at the Albert Einstein Medical Center, told Women's Medical News Service at the recent meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"When a patient comes to me for help I feel a professional and humanitarian obligation to do what I consider best in her behalf. This applies to minor unmarried girls who come to me as well as to adults.

"In taking the case history of the girl, I try to elicit from her what her plans are, what her attitudes toward sex are, why she is seeking contraception. In the course of such a discussion I try to help my patient understand the profound importance of sex, not only as an individual act, but as the very root of both her femininity and her relationship to all other human beings. I try to help her see, without condemning her, that sex is not a commodity to be traded for a dinner, for popularity.

"If it seems to me that the young woman is going to indulge in pre - marital sex despite my efforts to convince her not to, then I will prescribe the pill or other contraceptives to see to it that the least possible harm is done to her and to society. I consider it immoral to bring an unwanted child into the world, to make it and society pay for the mistakes of its parents."

PAUL FLOWERS' GREENHOUSE

The merry confusion over a commemorative stamp and first-day cancellation on the 200th birthday of Andrew Jackson recalls another contretemps at the Hermitage, this time at the former President's funeral June 10, 1845.

Here is the story, as told by Stanley Horn, in his "The Hermitage: Home of Old Hickory." published by Greenberg in 1950:

"General Jackson had expressed the wish that his funeral services be simple and without pomp or ostentation; but such a funeral was hardly possible for the most distinguished private citizen of his day. The military company marched out of Nashville to attend the services . . . and a great multitude of people, estimated at 3,000, gathered to pay their last tribute. The funeral was preached by Dr. Edgar, the minister who had received him into the church, the services being conducted from the front porch owing to the inability of the large crowd to get inside the house.

"There was a moment of disturbance while the mourners were assembling, caused by an untimely outburst of blistering profanity from Old Poll, the Hermitage parrot who had so long been a favorite pet of the general. The solemnity of the occasion was completely upset by the sudden torrent of objurgation from the old bird on her perch on the upper front gallery, but she was quickly banished to the servants' quarters at the back of the house and Dr. Edgar stepped on the stone-paved portico and began to read the burial service."

It is to wonder, at the 200th anniversary of Old Hickory's birth, what the advocate of "hard money" would have had to say about Federal Reserve notes and our present circulation of ersatz dimes and quarters.

The question of "hard money" was an acute issue in the summer of 1834 and Jackson provided himself with enough gold coins to pay his bills when he took the 1,000-mile overland trip from Washington to Nashville.

With breezy gusto he planked down $10 gold pieces on small-town tavern counters, and enjoyed the reaction of pop-eyed citizens.

Gold coins were scarce at the time, and to furnish an adequate supply Jackson had started the mint to turning out half-eagles at the rate of $20,000 a day. While he was at the Hermitage in August, the first eagle struck from a new die was sent to him.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

A neighbor of ours was idly watching seven or eight small children playing hide - and - seek. The game went smoothly for a while, but then a problem arose.

The smallest boy, barely three, was "it", and he couldn't count to 100. In fact, he couldn't even count to ten with any consistency. How were the others going to get enough time to hide properly, if the "it" boy couldn't count?

The gang went into a huddle. Then a little girl about six, obviously a real brain, figured out a solution, and issued instructions to the tiny boy.

So, while the other kinds scattered and hid, the little boy turned his back, covered his eyes, and recited the Our Father.

Doyne L. Chartrau

Doyne Chartrau Promoted to Superintendent

DANVILLE, Ill. -- Doyne L. Chartrau, 1614 North Gilbert St., has been promoted to superintendent of tool and production engineering of the Central Foundry Division of General Motors plant here.

Chartrau is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyne Chartrau, 830 Lake, Sikeston, Mo.

He was formerly senior engineer in the production engineering area.

Chartrau received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Missouri at Rolla in June, 1962, and began his career with the plant as a college-graduate-in-training the same month. He had participated in the summer student program at the Danville plant during the previous summer.

After completing the training program, he was assigned as a engineer in process engineering. In September, 1966, he was promoted to senior engineer in the production engineering department.

He is a member of the Danville Engineer's club and the Central Indiana chapter of the American Foundrymen's society.

Chartrau is a trainee in the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers. He has served as Junior Achievement advisor and has assisted in United Fund campaigns.

He is a member of the St. James Methodist church. Chartrau and his wife, Donna, have two sons, Blake and Todd.

Charleston Boy Gets Scholarship

CHARLESTON -- Robert A. Uthoff, a part-time clerk in the Del Farm store, is one of nine persons selected to receive a $1,000 scholarship from the National Tea Co.

Robert O'Neal, St. Louis division manager of Del Farm, a division of National Tea, said the winners are all employees or children of employees of the company.

The nine winners in the St. Louis division are among 122 persons who will receive grants from the company. Winners are selected solely on the basis of achievement as determined by scholastic aptitude tests, academic records, extracurricular activities, school recommendations, and statements from the students themselves.

A three - member committee headed by the director of admissions at Northwestern University made the selections. O'Neal said that while the winners were selected on the basis of achievement, the amount of each award was determined by the individual's financial need. Awards ranged up to $1,000 in value.

Uthoff said he plans to attend the University of Missouri after graduation this month from St. Henry's high school.

I have often thought, says Sir Roger, it happens very well that Christmas should fall out in the middle of winter.

To Demonstrate Soils June 6

COLUMBIA -- Research work on soils and crops will be shown and discussed at a Field Day June 6 on the University of Missouri Bradford Farm near Columbia.

The public is invited to see test plots of small grain varieties, fertilizer treatments on wheat and fescue, legumes, and grasses in various combinations for pasture, weed control methods and other experimental work.

In addition, different devices for measuring soil moisture will be demonstrated, and there will be exhibits of herbicide and fertilizer equipment, weed specimens and plant diseases.

Tours will start at 9 a.m. and are expected to end about 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be available on the grounds. The Field Day at the 524-acre College of Agriculture farm will be held rain or shine, say the co-chairmen of the event, C. M. Woodruff, chairman, soils department, and Lloyd Cavanah, associate professor of field crops.

Construction Turning up Important Archeological Items

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among highway workers, if they can't pronounce paleontology they just say "fossils and bones."

They've turned up items like dinosaur tracks discovered in Pecos County, Texas, while building U.S. Route 57. They've salvaged Indian mounds in Iowa and excavated prehistoric ruins in Arizona.

When bulldozer operators started digging for a section of Interstate 71 near Cleveland, Ohio, they set off one of the biggest fossil hunts ever undertaken in the United States. Scientists collected 10,000 specimens.

"Scientists evidently figure this is a big deal as far as they are concerned," James E. Kirk, a highways engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, said in an interview.

Congress has said that federal aid highway funds may be used in archeological and paleontological salvage in highway construction. It follows a national policy of preserving for public use sites such as Indian ruins, historic buildings, fossils or other objects of antiquity that have national significance.

Since 1956, under the Highway Transportation Act, 118 federal aid archeological and paleontological projects have been undertaken in 21 states. Their cost totals some $1.4 million, of which $1.2 million was in federal-aid funds.

The initiative for such projects must come from the states. Agreements for the work are made with museums, universities and state archeologists.

In the Right of Way and Location Office of the Bureau of Public Roads, Kirk and James A. Carney, a highway engineer, make sure that archeological and paleontological salvage get attention.

There are problems. Everybody has certain ideas about what is significant historically. Often even the experts can't agree.

Kirk said they leave it up to the professionals in the field.

For 17 months, from April 1965 to September 1966, workers under the direction of the Cleveland Natural Science Museum dug, chipped, pried and hammered to collect specimens of fossils from the Devonian Age of more than 350 million years ago when northern Ohio was covered by the sea.

The museum arranged the project after it was learned that a section of Interstate Highway 71 would cut through what was believed to be an important but heretofore inaccessible fossil formation.

Important scientists visited the site. Some schools sent bus loads of classes there.

William E. Scheele, museum director, said the road workers "Generally seemed to have more pride in knowing that something of value was coming from their excavating efforts aside from the creation of a new superhighway."

Scheele reported that "it appears that we have collected at least 10,000 major specimens of tremendous scientific value."

It may take 10 to 15 years to complete scientific analysis and description, he said, but there may be as many as 75 animals in all classes which are totally new to the world of science.

The Cleveland project cost some $119,000, of which 90 per cent is from federal funds and the rest from the museum.

Other highways-archeology projects, by states, last year included:

Arizona — Exploration and excavation of prehistoric ruins in Mohave County.

Arkansas — Excavation and study by the University of Arkansas of an Indian village near Fishing Lake.

California — In Sacramento, excavation and salvage of historic building foundations associated with the gold rush days.

Idaho — Excavation of an early Indian community area in Idaho County.

Illinois — Salvage of Indian artifacts in St. Clair County.

Iowa — Salvage of five Indian mounds in Lee County.

Nebraska — Archeological salvage of the historic Creighton House in Omaha.

New Mexico — Salvaging of several Indian sites in Grant County.

Tennessee — Investigations by the University of Tennessee in the vicinity of the Tennessee River crossing.

BOYS AND GIRLS

If there is a teen age boy at your house you may know very well how important an automobile is to him. It is his transportation, his mobility and very often his status symbol.

But to thousands of young men a car is much more than this. It is a hobby, a love, a fascinating, technical feat of engineering to be probed, examined, repaired and improved upon, or as the kids say, "souped up."

To many parents, their son's fascination with an automobile seems to be a problem. Understandably, they have better things in mind for him than a life as a mechanic in a cold garage. They would like him to go to college and pursue something loftier.

Such parents might be surprised to learn that some of our country's leading citizens started their careers as grease pit mechanics. The automotive parts and service business, for example, a twelve billion dollar industry, is staffed with just such men: men who serve today as executives, salesmen, advertising representatives, engineers and service specialists.

Today, a service specialist (he is no longer called a mechanic) is a highly respected, well paid technician. Industry provides thousands of good jobs to well trained men, and it often provides the training schools. Working conditions are excellent, training often is free, and the opportunity for advancement grows as the automobile population grows.

As automobiles become more sophisticated, better trained people to work with them are needed desperately. The safety of millions of drivers is in their hands.

If your son is car crazy, don't discourage him. There is unlimited opportunity for him ahead. For information, write to MOTOR AND EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURERS ASSOCIATION, 304 West 58th Street, New York, New York 10019.

Construction Turning up Important Archeological Items

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among highway workers, if they can't pronounce paleontology they just say "fossils and bones."

They've turned up items like dinosaur tracks discovered in Pecos County, Texas, while building U.S. Route 57. They've salvaged Indian mounds in Iowa and excavated prehistoric ruins in Arizona.

When bulldozer operators started digging for a section of Interstate 71 near Cleveland, Ohio, they set off one of the biggest fossil hunts ever undertaken in the United States. Scientists collected 10,000 specimens.

"Scientists evidently figure this is a big deal as far as they are concerned," James E. Kirk, a highways engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, said in an interview.

Congress has said that federal aid highway funds may be used in archeological and paleontological salvage in highway construction. It follows a national policy of preserving for public use sites such as Indian ruins, historic buildings, fossils or other objects of antiquity that have national significance.

Since 1956, under the Highway Transportation Act, 118 federal aid archeological and paleontological projects have been undertaken in 21 states. Their cost totals some $1.4 million, of which $1.2 million was in federal-aid funds.

The initiative for such projects must come from the states. Agreements for the work are made with museums, universities and state archeologists.

In the Right of Way and Location Office of the Bureau of Public Roads, Kirk and James A. Carney, a highway engineer, make sure that archeological and paleontological salvage get attention.

There are problems. Everybody has certain ideas about what is significant historically. Often even the experts can't agree.

Kirk said they leave it up to the professionals in the field.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1½" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base on Oklahoma Street from Missouri to Broadway in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that pavement for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for several consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 1st day of May, 1967. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 191 inc 197.

Seven Wonders of The World

THE STATUE OF ZEUS AT OLYMPIA

Majestic is the word for the Statue of Zeus (Jupiter) at Olympia, Greece -- the third of the ancient world's "wonders". The colossal gold - and-ivory figure, 40 feet high and finely worked -- was the creation of Phidias, widely acclaimed as the greatest Greek sculptor of the fifth century B. C., and inspiration of all workers in sculptural materials ever since.

The statue, though seated, occupied the entire height of one section of the temple erected for the worship of Zeus. The god sat on an elaborately decorated throne, holding a "Victory" in his right hand, while his left hand rested on a scepter. His body was of ivory, his robe of gold. His eyes were precious stones.

Three sections made up the colonnaded center part of the temple. One contained the statue of Zeus on his throne; another, an area where, probably, wreaths were presented to the Olympic Games victors; and the third, a section open to the public.

A thousand years later -- by the fifth century A. D. -- desolation had set in at Olympia. The giant gold statue was carried off to Constantinople, where it perished in a great fire there in the year 476. Fifty years later, the temple, -- partially damaged by an earthquake -- was dismantled, either by the Goths or by Christian zeal; and a fortress was built with many of the stones to usher in the Dark Ages.

YOUTH EMPLOYMENT

Would you hire a boy or girl of high-school age for part-time work during the summer months?

Employment during the summer can help these high school people help themselves and allow them to supplement the income of their families.

Even though the job you have may require only a few hours work, the extra money can help these students meet their school expenses next September when the new school term begins.

The Neighborhood Service Center will endeavor to be a liaison between citizens who have a job to be done and a willing high school student.

Persons interested in employing a high school boy or girl for part-time work call your local Neighborhood Service Center in New Madrid County.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1½" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base on Oklahoma Street from Missouri to Broadway in accordance with plans and specifications in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that pavement for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.50 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 1st day of May, 1967. Approved: Kendall Sikes Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Seven Wonders of The World

THE STATUE OF ZEUS AT OLYMPIA

Majestic is the word for the Statue of Zeus (Jupiter) at Olympia, Greece -- the third of the ancient world's "wonders". The colossal gold-and-ivory figure, 40 feet high and finely worked -- was the creation of Phidias, widely acclaimed as the greatest Greek sculptor of the fifth century B. C., and inspiration of all workers in sculptural materials ever since.

The statue, though seated, occupied the entire height of one section of the temple erected for the worship of Zeus. The god sat on an elaborately decorated throne, holding a "Victory" in his right hand, while his left hand rested on a scepter. His body was of ivory, his robe of gold. His eyes were precious stones.

Three sections made up the colonnaded center part of the temple. One contained the statue of Zeus on his throne; another, an area where, probably, wreaths were presented to the Olympic Games victors; and the third, a section open to the public.

A thousand years later -- by the fifth century A. D.-- desolation had set in at Olympia. The giant gold statue was carried off to Constantinople, where it perished in a great fire there in the year 476. Fifty years later, the temple, -- partially damaged by an earthquake -- was dismantled, either by the Goths or by Christian zeal; and a fortress was built with many of the stones to usher in the Dark Ages.

YOUTH EMPLOYMENT

Would you hire a boy or girl of high-school age for part-time work during the summer months?

Employment during the summer can help these high school people help themselves and allow them to supplement the income of their families.

Even though the job you have may require only a few hours work, the extra money can help these students meet their school expenses next September when the new school term begins.

The Neighborhood Service Center will endeavor to be a liaison between citizens who have a job to be done and a willing high school student.

Persons interested in employing a high school boy or girl for part-time work call your local Neighborhood Service Center in New Madrid County.

High School Students wishing to work during the summer, please contact your local Neighborhood Service Center and sign up.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will continue to advise girls who have had babies out of wedlock to tell their sweethearts BEFORE they marry. This is what happened to me:

I had a little boy out of wedlock and decided to keep him. I cooked up a story about a brief, unsuccessful marriage which most people believed. When I met Ron I told him I was divorced. After several months of dating he asked me to marry him. I felt like the luckiest girl in the world.

Two weeks before the wedding my mother took me aside and told me I would be doing a terrible thing if I married Ron under the cloud of a lie. I wept and insisted I couldn't take a chance on losing him. If he was unable to accept me because of my past I would just die. After hours of talking, my mother persuaded me that she was right.

I told Ron the very next night. His reply was, "I knew it. I was just waiting to hear it from you. And now there is nothing between us to mar our perfect love."

So you see, Ann, once again truth paid off in a way that a lie never could. Please keep telling the girls who are in my boat that there is only one way to handle this problem. The honest way. -- A HAPPY MRS. WITH A CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Dear Happy Mrs.: You told them, dear. And, on behalf of all the girls whose minds you may have changed, I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Quite some time ago my daughter-in-law suddenly stopped talking to my daughter. I tried to learn the details but nobody would talk about it.

This family rift bothered me and I decided to get to the bottom of it. Last week I wrote my daughter - in - law and asked her to tell me why she had stopped talking to my daughter. I said, "Perhaps there was a misunderstanding which I can help iron out." I was shocked at her answer. She wrote, "I have always despised your daughter and decided to stop going through the hypocritical motions of being nice to her."

This reply cut into my heart like a knife. How should I treat my son and his wife now? Should I ignore them as they have ignored my daughter? Or should I pretend that I did not receive the letter of explanation? -- SORRY I ASKED

Dear Sorry: Let this be a lesson to all self - appointed menders of ruptured relationships. The golden slogan "Mind Your Own Business" should be the cardinal rule for well- intentioned "fixers." Now, say nothing more. You've said too much already.

Dear Ann Landers: I met this girl when we were counselors at a camp last summer. We are both 14. My parents met her and they like her a lot.

She wants me to spend a weekend with her (it is a nice bus ride from here, about 60 miles), but my folks won't let me go because they have never met her parents.

Does this make sense? I don't think so and I hope you'll be on my side. -- MISSED Q

Dear Missed: I suggest that the girl's mother write or telephone your mother and introduce herself. This would make your folks less uneasy about allowing you to make the trip.

P. S. You ARE a girl aren't you? I'm assuming this although you didn't say.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. (II Peter 3:18)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we would dedicate ourselves to making our homes part of the church. May we grow in the grace and knowledge of Christ. Guide us in being effective in the service of the church in its worldwide ministry. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Marriage Licenses

BENTON: These marriage licenses were filed with John Bollinger, Recorder:

Joe Otis English, 28, Bell City, and Brenda Sue Pirtle, 18, Painton, were married in Perkins by Rev. W.S. Bailey.

Donald Ray Robey, 21, Sikeston, and Nancy Allene Lemmick, 17, of Grantsburg, were married in Benton by Rev. Albert W. Gibbs.

Donald Raymond Shelton, 20, and Mary Ann Seiler, 20, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. Walter J. McGrove.

Thomas Monroe Alford, 19, Morehouse, and Brenda Sue Yong, 17, Sikeston, were married in Morehouse by Rev. W.H. Worth.

Moses Chairs, 71, and Cathrine Chairs, 55, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. James L. Nabors.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE
By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE STARTLING VIEW

Myron, living in country-like surroundings, didn't bat an eyelash when Mr. Thorn erected several motels across the street from his lovely home nestled amongst some lovely trees. He did plenty of blinking, however, when he pulled his blinds one morning and discovered that Mr. Thorn had built a comfort station directly in front of his picture window.

Upon recovering from the shock, Myron raced to the nearest courthouse and demanded that Mr. Thorn be ordered to remove the structure immediately.

"He's framed a comfort station in my picture window," he complained to a judge, "and he can't get away with it. While it may give comfort to others, I don't have to tell you what it gives me."

"I don't know what he's complaining about," responded the seemingly puzzled Mr. Thorn." It's a nice looking building. All he's got to do is to forget what it is."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the removal of the discomforting comfort station?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while it was undoubtedly true that the presence of a comfort station in front of a man's house is not a thing to be desired, a comfort station, in and of itself, is not a nuisance.

(Based upon a 1927 Washington Supreme Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

If you offer your house for sale through a real estate broker, the general rule is that he earns his commission when he finds someone who is ready, able and willing to make the purchase. However, since many deals are not completed for unforeseen complications, such as a change of heart on the part of the seller, the death of the seller's wife or husband, etc., the seller may end up finding himself having to pay a brokerage commission without having sold his house. To guard against this, the seller should have his attorney prepare a brokerage contract for him with an appropriate covering provision. (For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

4-H Sunday Is Observed

MOREHOUSE - The Brown Spur 4-H club observed 4-H Sunday April 30 in the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church.

The program was planned and given by leaders and members of the club. The prelude was played by Mrs. Geraldine Estep. Ken Lape gave the call to worship.

Frances Catlett gave the welcoming remarks and told what 4-H work has meant to her. She also gave the objectives of 4-H Sunday.

The pledge to the American flag was led by Rhea Estep. The pledge to the Christian flag was led by Glenda Estep. Connie Schuchart gave the pledge to the Bible and Penny Leek gave the 4-H pledge.

The congregation joined in the hymn, "This Is My Father's World."

Ken Lape gave the invocation. Brenda Estep read a poem entitled "A Nation's Life." Penny Leek and Rhea Estep sang.

Responsive reading was led by David Lape. Connie Schuchart read the scripture lesson from Acts 3:1 and explained the 4-H emblem and its relation to Christian beliefs. Offering was collected by Bonnie Schuchart and Robert Rennier. All 4-H members sang.

The Rev. Estep's sermon was "Preparing for the Harvest."

The congregation joined in the hymn, "Take My Life." Benediction was given by David Lape.

About 45 members, leaders, parents and friends attended the service. One guest, Wayne Kem, was present.

Kennel Club Show at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Entries in an all - breed dog show sponsored by the Southeast Missouri Kennel Club to begin at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at the Arena building now total 548.

The day - long event is expected to be one of the largest spring shows sponsored by the club. Dog owners within a 90 - mile radius of here will exhibit.

The two classes with the most entries are German Shepherd and poodle. Judging begins at 8:30 a.m. and continues through 4 p.m.

The best of breeds and the best of show will be selected.

END HOT WATER RATIONING WITH BIGGER WATER HEATER

The typical American family uses at least 30 percent more hot water during the summer months, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau says. Its members bathe and shower more often. Because doors and windows are open most of the time, the house needs more frequent cleaning too.

Does your family always have hot water when it's needed -- or do you have to ration it among bathers, dishwashing, laundering or housecleaning at certain times of the day or on certain days of the week? Many families put up with the inconvenience of rationing for years, mainly because it doesn't occur to them to replace the heater. It's still working perfectly well, isn't it? The fact is, however, that a well-functioning heater is "obsolete" if the family's water needs have outgrown its capacity.

Just a few years ago, the average water heater being installed was 20 or 30-gallon. Today it's at least 40, to keep pace with the family's increased water usage. Americans are using about 60 percent more water today than they did 10 years ago. It's predicted that the present use will double in the next five years, so a family buying a heater today would be wise to get one big enough to handle the anticipated increase as well as its present needs.

Tank capacity isn't the only factor in the heater's output. The best quality is the fast-recovery type, which refers to the rate at which hot water is replenished as it's being used. Since your water is just about your hardest working appliance, it's wise to buy a top-quality product.

In large or sprawling homes, with long runs of pipe, it's sometimes desirable to have two water heaters to handle different areas of the house. They're now available in "squat" as well as longer shapes to provide greater flexibility for installing a variety of available spaces.

Social Security Representative Here

MRS. JESSIE LEE JOHNSON, educational aide, helps homemakers at the Sikeston neighborhood service center complete garments. From left are Mrs. Johnnie Lee Felton, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Willie Mae West, Mrs. Arlider Gaitor and Mrs. Margaret Wiggins, neighborhood service center aide.

Homemakers Receive Sewing Instructions, Make Garments

Sewing machines have been humming and tape measures flying. The construction of new garments is nearing completion. Homemakers enrolled in the area homemaker development program are putting the finishing touches to their dresses.

These homemakers have been receiving sewing instructions from the educational aides employed by the University of Missouri extension councils. The aides working in this area are Mrs. Betty Miller, Scott City; Mrs. Pauline Brock, Benton; Mrs. Jessie Lee Johnson and Mrs. Lou Ella Tucker, both of Sikeston; Mrs. Virginia Segers, Bell City; and Mrs. Norma Tripplett, Essex.

The educational aides receive their training from area home economist Mrs. Dorothy Wagner at the extension center at Benton.

Homemakers in this program have discussed with the educational aides personal and social clothing needs of each family member, a family clothing plan and a clothing budget.

The homemakers have received information concerning care, repair and storage of clothing. They were shown how to construct a clothes closet frame from the new publication, "A Clothes Closet - You Can Make and Move."

Other phases of the program were designed to help homemakers read and understand labels; to help them develop standards for judging quality of materials and workmanship in ready-made and self-made garments; and to select suitable clothes with regard to design, color, activities and grooming. The homemakers were also taught fabric and pattern selection and basic construction techniques.

Garments made during this period will be made at a style show Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. at the Morley neighborhood service center. This is being planned by the educational aides in cooperation with neighborhood service center coordinators and their aides.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will continue to advise girls who have had babies out of wedlock to tell their sweethearts BEFORE they marry. This is what happened to me:

I had a little boy out of wedlock and decided to keep him. I cooked up a story about a brief, unsuccessful marriage which most people believed. When I met Ron I told him I was divorced. After several months of dating he asked me to marry him. I felt like the luckiest girl in the world.

Two weeks before the wedding my mother took me aside and told me I would be doing a terrible thing if I married Ron under the cloud of a lie. I wept and insisted I couldn't take a chance on losing him. If he was unable to accept me because of my past I would just die. After hours of talking, my mother persuaded me that she was right.

I told Ron the very next night. His reply was, "I knew it. I was just waiting to hear it from you. And now there is nothing between us to mar our perfect love."

So you see, Ann, once again truth paid off in a way that a lie never could. Please keep telling the girls who are in my boat that there is only one way to handle this problem. The honest way. -- A HAPPY MRS. WITH A CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Dear Happy Mrs.: You told them, dear. And, on behalf of all the girls whose minds you may have changed, I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: Quite some time ago my daughter-in-law suddenly stopped talking to my daughter. I tried to learn the details but nobody would talk about it.

This family rift bothered me and I decided to get to the bottom of it. Last week I wrote my daughter - in - law and asked her to tell me why she had stopped talking to my daughter. I said, "Perhaps there was a misunderstanding which I can help iron out." I was shocked at her answer. She wrote, "I have always despised your daughter and decided to stop going through the hypocritical motions of being nice to her."

This reply cut into my heart like a knife. How should I treat my son and his wife now? Should I ignore them as they have ignored my daughter? Or should I pretend that I did not receive the letter of explanation? -- SORRY I ASKED

Dear Sorry: Let this be a lesson to all self - appointed menders of ruptured relationships. The golden slogan "Mind Your Own Business" should be the cardinal rule for well- intentioned "fixers." Now, say nothing more. You've said too much already.

Dear Ann Landers: I met this girl when we were counselors at a camp last summer. We are both 14. My parents met her and they like her a lot.

She wants me to spend a weekend with her (it is a nice bus ride from here, about 60 miles), but my folks won't let me go because they have never met her parents.

Does this make sense? I don't think so and I hope you'll be on my side. -- MISSED Q

Dear Missed: I suggest that the girl's mother write or telephone your mother and introduce herself. This would make your folks less uneasy about allowing you to make the trip.

P. S. You ARE a girl aren't you? I'm assuming this although you didn't say.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. (II Peter 3:18)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we would dedicate ourselves to making our homes part of the church. May we grow in the grace and knowledge of Christ. Guide us in being effective in the service of the church in its worldwide ministry. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Donald Raymond Shelton, 20, and Mary Ann Seiler, 20, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. Walter J. McGrove.

Thomas Monroe Alford, 19, Morehouse, and Brenda Sue Yong, 17, Sikeston, were married in Morehouse by Rev. W.H. Worth.

Moses Chairs, 71, and Cathrine Chairs, 55, both of Sikeston, were married there by Rev. James L. Nabors.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strass L. L. D.

THE CASE OF THE STARTLING VIEW

Myron, living in country-like surroundings, didn't bat an eyelash when Mr. Thorn erected several motels across the street from his lovely home nestled amongst some lovely trees. He did plenty of blinking, however, when he pulled his blinds one morning and discovered that Mr. Thorn had built a comfort station directly in front of his picture window.

Upon recovering from the shock, Myron raced to the nearest courthouse and demanded that Mr. Thorn be ordered to remove the structure immediately.

"He's framed a comfort station in my picture window," he complained to a judge, "and he can't get away with it. While it may give comfort to others, I don't have to tell you what it gives me."

"I don't know what he's complaining about," responded the seemingly puzzled Mr. Thorn." It's a nice looking building. All he's got to do is to forget what it is."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order the removal of the discomforting comfort station?

This is how the judge ruled: No! The judge held that while it was undoubtedly true that the presence of a comfort station in front of a man's house is not a thing to be desired, a comfort station, in and of itself, is not a nuisance.

(Based upon a 1927 Washington Supreme Court Decision)

TODAY'S LEGAL POINTER:

If you offer your house for sale through a real estate broker, the general rule is that he earns his commission when he finds someone who is ready, able and willing to make the purchase. However, since many deals are not completed for unforeseen complications, such as a change of heart on the part of the seller, the death of the seller's wife or husband, etc., the seller may end up finding himself having to pay a brokerage commission without having sold his house. To guard against this, the seller should have his attorney prepare a brokerage contract for him with an appropriate covering provision.

(For personal guidance, see your local attorney.)

4-H Sunday Is Observed

MOREHOUSE - The Brown Spur 4-H club observed 4-H Sunday April 30 in the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist church.

The program was planned and given by leaders and members of the club. The prelude was played by Mrs. Geraldine Estep. Ken Lape gave the call to worship.

Frances Catlett gave the welcoming remarks and told what 4-H work has meant to her. She also gave the objectives of 4-H Sunday.

The pledge to the American flag was led by Rhea Estep. The pledge to the Christian flag was led by Glenda Estep. Connie Schuchart gave the pledge to the Bible and Penny Leek gave the 4-H pledge.

The congregation joined in the hymn, "This Is My Father's World."

Ken Lape gave the invocation. Brenda Estep read a poem entitled "A Nation's Life." Penny Leek and Rhea Estep sang.

Responsive reading was led by David Lape. Connie Schuchart read the scripture lesson from Acts 3:1 and explained the 4-H emblem and its relation to Christian beliefs. Offering was collected by Bonnie Schuchart and Robert Rennier. All 4-H members sang.

The Rev. Estep's sermon was "Preparing for the Harvest."

The congregation joined in the hymn, "Take My Life." Benediction was given by David Lape.

About 45 members, leaders, parents and friends attended the service. One guest, Wayne Kem, was present.

Kennel Club Show at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Entries in an all - breed dog show sponsored by the Southeast Missouri Kennel Club to begin at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at the Arena building now total 548.

The day - long event is expected to be one of the largest spring shows sponsored by the club. Dog owners within a 90 - mile radius of here will exhibit.

The two classes with the most entries are German Shepherd and poodle. Judging begins at 8:30 a.m. and continues through 4 p.m.

The best of breeds and the best of show will be selected.

END HOT WATER RATIONING WITH BIGGER WATER HEATER

The typical American family uses at least 30 percent more hot water during the summer months, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau says. Its members bathe and shower more often. Because doors and windows are open most of the time, the house needs more frequent cleaning too.

Does your family always have hot water when it's needed -- or do you have to ration it among bathers, dishwashing, laundering or housecleaning at certain times of the day or on certain days of the week? Many families put up with the inconvenience of rationing for years, mainly because it doesn't occur to them to replace the heater. It's still working perfectly well, isn't it? The fact is, however, that a well-functioning heater is "obsolete" if the family's water needs have outgrown its capacity.

Just a few years ago, the average water heater being installed was 20 or 30-gallon. Today it's at least 40, to keep pace with the family's increased water usage. Americans are using about 60 percent more water today than they did 10 years ago. It's predicted that the present use will double in the next five years, so a family buying a heater today would be wise to get one big enough to handle the anticipated increase as well as its present needs.

Tank capacity isn't the only factor in the heater's output. The best quality is the fast-recovery type, which refers to the rate at which hot water is replenished as it's being used. Since your water is just about your hardest working appliance, it's wise to buy a top-quality product.

In large or sprawling homes, with long runs of pipe, it's sometimes desirable to have two water heaters to handle different areas of the house. They're now available in "squat" as well as longer shapes to provide greater flexibility for installing a variety of available spaces.

A representative from the Cape Girardeau Social security office will be at the courtroom in the police station, 140 North Prairie, Sikeston, Monday at 8:45 a.m.

MRS. JESSIE LEE JOHNSON, educational aide, helps homemakers at the Sikeston neighborhood service center complete garments. From left are Mrs. Johnnie Lee Felton, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Willie Mae West, Mrs. Arlider Gaitor and Mrs. Margaret Wiggins, neighborhood service center aide.

Homemakers Receive Sewing Instructions, Make Garments

Sewing machines have been humming and tape measures flying. The construction of new garments is nearing completion. Homemakers enrolled in the area homemaker development program are putting the finishing touches to their dresses.

These homemakers have been receiving sewing instructions from the educational aides employed by the University of Missouri extension councils. The aides working in this area are Mrs. Betty Miller, Scott City; Mrs. Pauline Brock, Benton; Mrs. Jessie Lee Johnson and Mrs. Lou Ella Tucker, both of Sikeston; Mrs. Virginia Segers, Bell City; and Mrs. Norma Tripplett, Essex.

The educational aides receive their training from area home economist Mrs. Dorothy Wagner at the extension center at Benton.

Homemakers in this program have discussed with the educational aides personal and social clothing needs of each family member, a family clothing plan and a clothing budget.

The homemakers have received information concerning care, repair and storage of clothing. They were shown how to construct a clothes closet frame from the new publication, "A Clothes Closet - You Can Make and Move."

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1967. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, Jamestown, Va., the first permanent English settlement in America, was founded.

On this date:

In 1717, Maria Theresa, empress of the Holy Roman Empire, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon captured Vienna.

In 1846, congress authorized the president to raise an army of 50,000 men for the war against Mexico.

In 1940, Holland's Queen Wilhelmina and her daughter, Juliana, fled to London.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the British: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

In 1946, the Allied military government ordered all Nazi military memorials be destroyed.

Ten years ago — The United States rejected Japan's request that it cancel the start of nuclear tests in Nevada.

Five years ago —Indonesia's President Sukarno escaped the bullets of a would-be assassin in Jakarta.

One year ago — British seamen rejected a plea by Prime Minister Wilson to call off a planned shipping strike.

.....

People say the dollar doesn't go far. I don't know. It goes to India, Vietnam, Formosa, Pakistan, South America, the Philippines . . . .

Today In U. S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, May 13, the 133rd day of 1967. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1607, Jamestown, Va., the first permanent English settlement in America, was founded.

On this date:

In 1717, Maria Theresa, empress of the Holy Roman Empire, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon captured Vienna.

In 1846, congress authorized the president to raise an army of 50,000 men for the war against Mexico.

In 1940, Holland's Queen Wilhelmina and her daughter, Juliana, fled to London.

In 1940, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the British: "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

In 1946, the Allied military government ordered all Nazi military memorials be destroyed.

Ten years ago — The United States rejected Japan's request that it cancel the start of nuclear tests in Nevada.

Five years ago —Indonesia's President Sukarno escaped the bullets of a would-be assassin in Jakarta.

One year ago — British seamen rejected a plea by Prime Minister Wilson to call off a planned shipping strike.

.....

People say the dollar doesn't go far. I don't know. It goes to India, Vietnam, Formosa, Pakistan, South America, the Philippines . . . .

Report from Heckemeyer

This week the Missouri General Assembly advanced a great many pieces of legislation. Some of those critical to our area and of particular interest to our area I shall comment on. I have left out others which I do not feel are particularly interesting to the readers of this column.

I would like to comment that a bill that I co - sponsored, House Bill 495, was passed by the House this week. This bill would create a commission to study the entire set of election laws in the state of Missouri and recodify them and to submit legislation for the next assembly of the corrective nature, or make general suggestions for the improvement of our election system.

The minimum wage passed the House. This bill was 392. It excludes farmers and has a graduated wage increase over the next few years, finally reaching $1.25 minimum wage.

House Bill 388 was advanced. It will increase school aid to special school programs for handicapped and exceptional children.

House Bill 38 was advanced. It would withhold state aid for schools that allow buses in substandard in mechanical condition to be used for the transportation of children. This is a much needed bill as we have discovered many dangerous situations throughout the state in regard to our bus transportation systems.

The House debated House Bill 374, which was the very large and complicated insurance revision bill. It will virtually do away with the charter type contracts which are now so prevalent in the state. This is a much needed provision, as many people are being duped into buying substandard life insurance. A good test of most life insurance policies is to check on the cash value of such policy at the end of a given period of time. For instance, 10 years, and compare this to other policies available to the public.

House Bill 588 was passed, which will be of great assistance to some of our older people. It exempts the first $1,000 cash value of a life insurance policy in the computation of eligibility for old age assistance.

Legislative action has been taken to have the Missouri General Assembly go into annaul sessions rather than bi-annual sessions. This is a much needed provision as the complexities of government have made it very difficult for us to administer only six months every two years.

House Bill 575 was advanced, which will create a tourism commission for the state. This should benefit all of our people, as we have discovered that tourism is a very valuable industry for the people of the state.

House Bill 90 was passed by the House. This would put a ceiling of $15,000 on any elected county official who receives his pay by a fee system.

House Bill 533 was advanced, which will allow for county reassessment of counties having a disparity of 25 per cent from the true assessed value. The bill in its theory is good, but it concentrates, in my opinion, too much power in the State Tax Commission.

House Bill 113 was advanced, which would exempt $3,000 a year for taxation in any one year of those funds received from federal service annuities.

House Bill 547 was advanced, which exploits a loophole found in the federal beautification law which has been in the news recently. It was discovered that the federal law did not apply to any area which was zoned. This bill zones the entire state of Missouri, thus, theoretically, eliminating it from the federal law. I think this is very bad procedure for a state to intentionally subvert any law, whether good or bad.

House Bill 74 was passed, which will give some additional duties to county court judges and will raise their pay slightly.

I would also like to announce to those people interested that an additional 1,000 - acre lake will be provided at the Mingo Wild Life Reserve for the use of the people. This, of course, will take several years to build and stock, but is a welcome addition to our wild life facility in the Bootheel.

Open House for Housing Project At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- May 21 is the date set for open house of the new low - rent housing project, with touring of the duplex homes between 1 and 5 p.m.

There are 46 units and a community center in the project. The units are all one-story duplexes, all distinctly different in choice of materials and paint.

Representatives will be present from the architectural firm, contractor and all those who were connected with the building as well as the members of the Bloomfield Housing Authority and women from Bloomfield clubs to help with the tour.

The company was previously located at Ft. Irwin, Calif.

A switchboard operator with the company, Pvt. Mize entered the Army in May 1966 and completed his basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Pvt. Mize is a 1965 graduate of Sikeston High School.

His father, Carmen R. Mize, lives at 2551 Ranch House Road, West Palm Beach, Fla.

U. S. ARMY, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- Army Specialist Four William T. Hanback, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hanback, Route 1, Dexter, Mo., arrived in Vietnam with his unit, the 588th Signal Support Company.

The company was previously located at Ft. Irwin, Calif.

Spec. Hanback, a radio operator, entered the Army in November 1965.

He is a 1963 graduate of Richland High School, Gray Ridge, Mo.

His wife, Phyllis, lives at 407 N. 15th St., Niles, Mich.

AN KHE, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- Army Private Franklin D. Lawrence, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Lawrence, and wife, Sue Ann, live in Morehouse, Mo., arrived in Vietnam, April 15 and is assigned to the 70th Engineer Battalion near An Khe.

Pvt. Lawrence, a combat engineer in the battalion's Company B, entered the Army in November 1966 and was last stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 24 - year - old soldier was graduated from Morehouse High School in 1961.

NAVY NURSE CORPS CELEBRATES 59th ANNIVERSARY

May 13, 1908 saw President Theodore Roosevelt sign legislation authorizing the establishment of the Navy Nurse Corps as a staff Corps of the Navy. By October 1908, the first twenty nurses, who later came to be called the "Sacred Twenty" had reported to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C. for duty.

During World War I, four Navy Nurses were awarded the Navy Cross for outstanding service, three posthumously; two others won Army Citations for "special, meritorious and conspicuous service."

World War II saw 11,068 Navy Nurse Corps Officers on active duty. They served in Naval Hospitals within the continental limits of the United States. They brought nursing care to the front lines aboard 12 hospital ships, in air evacuation of casualties, and to foreign lands where American women had never before been seen. Commander Ann A. Bernatitus, now retired, was the first person in the Naval Service to receive the Legion of Merit for Service with the Army in Bataan. Sixteen Navy Nurses were prisoners of war of the Japanese, five were returned to the United States in 1942 and eleven were liberated in 1945 from the Phillipines after 37 months internment. Thirteen nurses were awarded Bronze Star Medals and eleven received Gold Stars in lieu of a second Bronze Star for meritorious performance of duty. Twelve nurses wear the Distinguished Unit Badge of the Army, for especially meritorious service in the Phillipines, and forty-two have Unit Commendations for distinguished service aboard the USS SOLACE and at the Naval Hospital, Pearl Harbor, at the time of the Japanese attack.

During the Korean conflict three Navy Nurses won the Bronze Star, one a Letter of Commendation with Ribbon and Combat "V" while six received Letters of Commendation.

Four Navy Nurses, stationed at the U. S. Navy Headquarters Support Activity, Saigon, were the first women in Viet Nam to be awarded the Purple Heart. Presently, the hospital ships, the USS REPOSE and the SANCTUARY, are staffed with Navy Nurses and operating off the cost of Viet Nam.

The history of the Nurse Corps is long and enviable, and is deserving of the best wishes of us all on this their 59th Anniversary.

In consonance with the illustrious history of the Navy Nurse Corps, Governor WARRENE. HEARNES has proclaimed the week May 15th through 21st as "Navy Nurse Corps Week."

The Navy Nurse Corps urgently needs nurses who qualify to help provide the best nursing care possible to our Navy and Marine Corps men who are defending our country. Interested persons should contact their local Navy Recruiting Station for further information.

laws.

"Some political figures have discovered that there is potent political pay dirt in courting Mrs. Consumer - her husband, and all of the rest of her family," said Charles G. Mortimer, chairman of the executive committee of General Foods, Inc., New York.

"America's business, backbone of our economic strength, is bound to be weakened - perhaps dangerously so - by any loss of consumer confidence."

Mortimer condemned what he described as legislation "mislabeled truth-in-this or truth-in-that," as well as current proposals to rewrite laws dealing with hazardous household products, to minimize the chance of electric power failure, to create a department of consumer affairs, to limit advertising messages, to provide federal grade labeling of food products, and to limit advertising expenditures.

Bobby Ramsen told an audience his wife's a fussy housekeeper. "Every time I sit on our new couch, she puts a coaster under me." Earl Wilson.

Students Do Good Turn for Taxpayers

RENTON, Wash. (AP) -- Renton High School students thought something should be done for persons who continue to pay taxes to support schools although they no longer are served directly by the schools.

So the students suggested formation of a gold card club for senior citizens. The school board went along.

Now all women in the district will be given a card at age 62 and men at 65. It will admit them free to all high school events from athletic contests to plays and concerts.

nam. In aerial dogfights the MIGs have now downed 16 U.S. planes while losing 49 Red aircraft.

The intensified air war was matched by heavier ground fighting in South Vietnam, mainly along the 17th Parallel which divides Vietnam.

The most sensitive targets for the 126 strike missions flown Friday were a storage area four miles from downtown Hanoi and an army barracks an equal distance southwest of the capital.

Returning to their bases in Thailand, pilots reported both areas burning fiercely. Smoke was rising 1,500 feet over Hanoi's outskirts as the raiders winged off, they said.

Striking even deeper into North Vietnam, a Thunderchief strike plastered a SAM site 68 miles up the Red River Valley from Hanoi. Evidently the bombs hit a warhead storage area. Smoke was billowing 7,000 feet in the air after the raid, pilots said.

An Air Force spokesman said the MIGs attempted to disrupt practically every deep penetration mission by the Thunderchiefs. The speedier F4C Phantoms, flying cover against the MIGs, had their hands full fighting off the Red jets.

The spokesman said the Communist MIG's evidently escaped unscathed from the dogfights. No claims were made by returning U.S. pilots, although one Thunderchief pilot reported a MIG was streaming a white vapor trail after being fired upon.

There was no estimate of the number of MIGs in the sky. It appeared, however, that the U. S. raids against the MIG airfields which started last month -- three of the six MIG bases have now been bombed -- have not appreciably weakened North Vietnam's fledgling air force of about 120 planes.

The United States claims that between 9 and 15 Red jets were destroyed in the bombings.

U.S. headquarters disclosed that Communist forces dug in along the demilitarized zone frontier of North Vietnam were continuing to bring new weapons into the area. Two new types of artillery pieces were among the guns which shelled U.S. positions just below the DMZ Friday.

Shelling the Army-Marine artillery base at Gio Linh and the Marine camp at Con Thien, Red mortars and artillery shells killed one Marine and wounded 24 Friday.

A few miles further south in Quang Nam province, more Marines were reported in a heavy battle Friday and Saturday with an enemy force holding a rugged ridgeline.

An Immortal Inheritance

By Brigadier Christine E. McMillan (R).

Tens of thousands of Americans went abroad this summer. A computation of the cumulative hours of preparation from the first moments spent paring over travel folders to the last minute instructions to the paper boy and the milkman would be staggering.

Lists are made of what to take, and how much. And it's usually too much! Lists of friends and relatives to be looked up -- lists, lists, lists. On and on it goes until the inexperienced and harried would - be traveler wonders if "this trip is really necessary."

Curiously enough, while we make necessary and adequate preparation for most of what we must face in life, the final destination of the soul rarely enters into the calculations of the average man -- religionist or not.

Someone said a long time ago, "A dialogue between two infants in the womb concerning the state of the world, might handsomely illustrate our ignorance of the next." This distaste for considering the future life of the soul may partly be due to the distorted image we have received through biblical descriptions which use Oriental imagery to describe the glories of Heaven.

Streets of gold, jeweled gates, robes and harps and strange shapes and figures make little impression upon 20th century western man.

Unable to accept the image so incongruous to the mind, we now adopt an attitude of indifference, preferring not to think at all of that which is beyond man's imagination.

Another obstacle is the challenge implicit in a belief in a future life. To believe in an ongoing life of the soul requires that one should sow to the spirit and bring forth the fruits of the spirit, and this endeavor does not fit in somehow with the claims and pressures, the selfish involvements and goals of modern life.

When those we love die, it is difficult for us to think of them in any other way save that they are removed from life, and between them and us is fixed a great gulf which widens with the years. The "communion of saints," once so comforting a phrase, is to most merely a phrase, beautiful but scarcely to be entertained as a spiritual reality.

The deep, abiding conviction that this life is only the training ground for another and better life, enters nowhere into the consideration of most men and women in the world today.

The Christian who is seeking to know God, His nature and what is the relation of the soul to its Maker and Giver, knows in the depths of his spirit that "there is something within us that can be without us and will be after us."

There are moments in the life of every man when the obscuring mists part and a glimpse is received of "that which is above and beyond," a swift dart of shining truth, which is beyond reason, to which the soul responds instantly and completely.

The commandment is not, "only think" or "only reason," says Osler. The only enduring enlightenment is through faith. "Only believe" and "he that believeth" are the commandments with strength and comfort.

THE MOB SPIRIT

The worsening of the climate of violence, anarchy and civil disobedience was grimly apparent in recent days in several sections of the country. The rapid breakdown of law and order and of public safety and private decency could well become a prime issue in the next presidential campaign.

In California, a band of ruffians who call themselves Black Panthers knocked over sergeants at arms and invaded the California legislature while it was in session. The invaders carried with them a variety of loaded weapons, including sawed - off shotguns. The leaders of the group broke into the proceedings of the legislature and shouted insults.

In New Hamsphire, former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, who had been invited to speak at Dartmouth College, was forced off the speaking platform by a gang of roughnecks. Approximately a thousand students then surrounded him in his automobile, rocked it, and came close to injuring him. Mr. Wallace showed remarkable coolness in a dangerous situation, but he rightly pointed out that the kind of "academic freedom" displayed by the Dartmouth students could get one killed. The editor of the Dartmouth student newspaper said of the incident, which came close to resembling a lynching party: "I am ashamed." Indeed the entire administration and student body of the famous old "liberal arts" college should feel shame for what took place.

In Kentucky, radical demonstrators threatened to disrupt the historic Kentucky Derby if they did not get their way on "open housing" demands, and forced the governor to call out National Guardsmen to preserve the peace.

In New Jersey, a radical protest group based in Rockester, N. Y., and known as FIGHT (Freedom, Integration, God, Honor -- Today) conducted a huge demonstration against Eastman Kodak Company, one of the country's model employers and most progressive business enterprises.

The demonstration took place at the company's annual meeting, and 100 state policemen were needed to contain demonstrators who had been recruited at Cornell, Princeton and other colleges. The leader of FIGHT, the Rev. Franklin D. Roosevelt Florence, vowed to war against Kodak until demands for exclusive control over hiring of unskilled workers had been met. In a speech at the company session, he gave stockholders a one - hour ultimatum to bow to FIGHT's demands. Fortunately, the stockholders refused to pay heed to this.

These and other developments around the country point to a situation which is getting out of hand. Lawless, contemptuous elements in the country believe they have free rein to do what they want to disturb the peace. Not only do they want to trample on the rights of the majority, but they want to have police protection while they go on a rampage of disorderly behavior. For example, when Gen. William C. Westmoreland received an honorary degree from the University of South Carolina -- his native state -- the ceremony was rudely interrupted. A handful of demonstrators later were indignant that they had not been protected in their protest by state police.

Unless the disorderly protest minority is curbed in this country, life may become intolerable to decent, respectable citizens and responsible businesses. The California legislature may not be the last to be invaded by armed groups. Traditionally, this has been a tolerant country. Americans sensibly have realized that every nation has a tiny element of kooks who have to be humored a little. But there is a limit on just toleration. The small group of oddballs -- the lunatic fringe in American life -- cannot be allowed to ride roughshod over the laws or to create a kind of epidemic of disorder.

This is the real danger. No doubt the students at Dartmouth College are generally good citizens. It is likely that the vast majority were caught up in the fever of excitement created by a small cadre of disruptionists. That's the way all mobs work: the few incite the many, and terrorism and tragedy results. To prevent mob rule in this country, on the campus and off, will require some stern leadership in public office, the press, the bar, and in the pulpit. Those clergymen who have involved themselves in demonstrations bear an especially heavy responsibility for what is taking place. They should examine their consciences, and wake up to the necessity for upholding law and decency.

Mental retardation never kills anyone.

But who can count the lives it's wasted?

It's not a killer like heart disease or cancer. Yet, no human affliction is more wasteful than mental retardation.

Think of the babies doomed from birth to live out their years uselessly . . . the children who never have a chance to learn what they are capable of learning . . . the retarded adults, trained to work, but refused jobs.

What a waste! What a loss!

We can change this. How?

Start by finding out what your community or state is doing to salvage many of these lives.

Are programs under way in education, recreation, vocational training? Are they directed by teachers and others who really understand the retarded and how they can best be helped?

Remember, fully 85 percent of the retarded can become productive citizens—if given the special help they need and deserve.

Don't wait for the other fellow to take the lead. Use your own influence, or that of a group to which you belong, to assure the retarded their rights as fellow human beings and fellow citizens.

Report from Heckemeyer

This week the Missouri General Assembly advanced a great many pieces of legislation. Some of those critical to our area and of particular interest to our area I shall comment on. I have left out others which I do not feel are particularly interesting to the readers of this column.

I would like to comment that a bill that I co - sponsored, House Bill 495, was passed by the House this week. This bill would create a commission to study the entire set of election laws in the state of Missouri and recodify them and to submit legislation for the next assembly of the corrective nature, or make general suggestions for the improvement of our election system.

The minimum wage passed the House. This bill was 392. It excludes farmers and has a graduated wage increase over the next few years, finally reaching $1.25 minimum wage.

House Bill 388 was advanced. It will increase school aid to special school programs for handicapped and exceptional children.

House Bill 38 was advanced. It would withhold state aid for schools that allow buses in substandard in mechanical condition to be used for the transportation of children. This is a much needed bill as we have discovered many dangerous situations throughout the state in regard to our bus transportation systems.

The House debated House Bill 374, which was the very large and complicated insurance revision bill. It will virtually do away with the charter type contracts which are now so prevalent in the state. This is a much needed provision, as many people are being duped into buying substandard life insurance. A good test of most life insurance policies is to check on the cash value of such policy at the end of a given period of time. For instance, 10 years, and compare this to other policies available to the public.

House Bill 588 was passed, which will be of great assistance to some of our older people. It exempts the first $1,000 cash value of a life insurance policy in the computation of eligibility for old age assistance.

Legislative action has been taken to have the Missouri General Assembly go into annaul sessions rather than bi-annual sessions. This is a much needed provision as the complexities of government have made it very difficult for us to administer only six months every two years.

House Bill 575 was advanced, which will create a tourism commission for the state. This should benefit all of our people, as we have discovered that tourism is a very valuable industry for the people of the state.

House Bill 90 was passed by the House. This would put a ceiling of $15,000 on any elected county official who receives his pay by a fee system.

House Bill 533 was advanced, which will allow for county reassessment of counties having a disparity of 25 per cent from the true assessed value. The bill in its theory is good, but it concentrates, in my opinion, too much power in the State Tax Commission.

House Bill 113 was advanced, which would exempt $3,000 a year for taxation in any one year of those funds received from federal service annuities.

House Bill 547 was advanced, which exploits a loophole found in the federal beautification law which has been in the news recently. It was discovered that the federal law did not apply to any area which was zoned. This bill zones the entire state of Missouri, thus, theoretically, eliminating it from the federal law. I think this is very bad procedure for a state to intentionally subvert any law, whether good or bad.

House Bill 74 was passed, which will give some additional duties to county court judges and will raise their pay slightly.

I would also like to announce to those people interested that an additional 1,000 - acre lake will be provided at the Mingo Wild Life Reserve for the use of the people. This, of course, will take several years to build and stock, but is a welcome addition to our wild life facility in the Bootheel.

Open House for Housing Project At Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD -- May 21 is the date set for open house of the new low - rent housing project, with touring of the duplex homes between 1 and 5 p.m.

There are 46 units and a community center in the project. The units are all one-story duplexes, all distinctly different in choice of materials and paint.

Representatives will be present from the architectural firm, contractor and all those who were connected with the building as well as the members of the Bloomfield Housing Authority and women from Bloomfield clubs to help with the tour.

Pvt. Lawrence, a combat engineer in the battalion's Company B, entered the Army in November 1966 and was last stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 24 - year - old soldier was graduated from Morehouse High School in 1961.

NAVY NURSE CORPS CELEBRATES 59th ANNIVERSARY

May 13, 1908 saw President Theodore Roosevelt sign legislation authorizing the establishment of the Navy Nurse Corps as a staff Corps of the Navy. By October 1908, the first twenty nurses, who later came to be called the "Sacred Twenty" had reported to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Washington, D. C. for duty.

During World War I, four Navy Nurses were awarded the Navy Cross for outstanding service, three posthumously; two others won Army Citations for "special, meritorious and conspicuous service."

World War II saw 11,068 Navy Nurse Corps Officers on active duty. They served in Naval Hospitals within the continental limits of the United States. They brought nursing care to the front lines aboard 12 hospital ships, in air evacuation of casualties, and to foreign lands where American women had never before been seen. Commander Ann A. Bernatitus, now retired, was the first person in the Naval Service to receive the Legion of Merit for Service with the Army in Bataan. Sixteen Navy Nurses were prisoners of war of the Japanese, five were returned to the United States in 1942 and eleven were liberated in 1945 from the Phillipines after 37 months internment. Thirteen nurses were awarded Bronze Star Medals and eleven received Gold Stars in lieu of a second Bronze Star for meritorious performance of duty. Twelve nurses wear the Distinguished Unit Badge of the Army, for especially meritorious service in the Phillipines, and forty-two have Unit Commendations for distinguished service aboard the USS SOLACE and at the Naval Hospital, Pearl Harbor, at the time of the Japanese attack.

During the Korean conflict three Navy Nurses won the Bronze Star, one a Letter of Commendation with Ribbon and Combat "V" while six received Letters of Commendation.

Four Navy Nurses, stationed at the U. S. Navy Headquarters Support Activity, Saigon, were the first women in Viet Nam to be awarded the Purple Heart. Presently, the hospital ships, the USS REPOSE and the SANCTUARY, are staffed with Navy Nurses and operating off the cost of Viet Nam.

The history of the Nurse Corps is long and enviable, and is deserving of the best wishes of us all on this their 59th Anniversary.

In consonance with the illustrious history of the Navy Nurse Corps, Governor WARREN E. HEARNES has proclaimed the week May 15th through 21st as "Navy Nurse Corps Week."

The Navy Nurse Corps urgently needs nurses who qualify to help provide the best nursing care possible to our Navy and Marine Corps men who are defending our country. Interested persons should contact their local Navy Recruiting Station for further information.

THE GUILLOTEENS will entertain at the Sikeston high school senior class Hawaiian luau party May 26. They are, from the left, Laddie Hutcherson, guitar, Buddy Delaney, bass, and Joe Davis, drums.

"Some political figures have discovered that there is potent political pay dirt in courting Mrs. Consumer - her husband, and all of the rest of her family," said Charles G. Mortimer, chairman of the executive committee of General Foods, Inc., New York.

"America's business, backbone of our economic strength, is bound to be weakened - perhaps dangerously so - by any loss of consumer confidence."

Mortimer condemned what he described as legislation "mislabeled truth-in-this or truth-in-that," as well as current proposals to rewrite laws dealing with hazardous household products, to minimize the chance of electric power failure, to create a department of consumer affairs, to limit advertising messages, to provide federal grade labeling of food products, and to limit advertising expenditures.

Bobby Ramsen told an audience his wife's a fussy housekeeper. "Every time I sit on our new couch, she puts a coaster under me." Earl Wilson.

Students Do Good Turn for Taxpayers

RENTON, Wash. (AP) -- Renton High School students thought something should be done for persons who continue to pay taxes to support schools although they no longer are served directly by the schools.

So the students suggested formation of a gold card club for senior citizens. The school board went along.

Now all women in the district will be given a card at age 62 and men at 65. It will admit them free to all high school events from athletic contests to plays and concerts.

nam. In aerial dogfights the MIGs have now downed 16 U.S. planes while losing 49 Red aircraft.

The intensified air war was matched by heavier ground fighting in South Vietnam, mainly along the 17th Parallel which divides Vietnam.

The most sensitive targets for the 126 strike missions flown Friday were a storage area four miles from downtown Hanoi and an army barracks an equal distance southwest of the capital.

Returning to their bases in Thailand, pilots reported both areas burning fiercely. Smoke was rising 1,500 feet over Hanoi's outskirts as the raiders winged off, they said.

Striking even deeper into North Vietnam, a Thunderchief strike plastered a SAM site 68 miles up the Red River Valley from Hanoi. Evidently the bombs hit a warhead storage area. Smoke was billowing 7,000 feet in the air after the raid, pilots said.

An Air Force spokesman said the MIGs attempted to disrupt practically every deep penetration mission by the Thunderchiefs. The speedier F4C Phantoms, flying cover against the MIGs, had their hands full fighting off the Red jets.

The spokesman said the Communist MIG's evidently escaped unscathed from the dogfights. No claims were made by returning U.S. pilots, although one Thunderchief pilot reported a MIG was streaming a white vapor trail after being fired upon.

There was no estimate of the number of MIGs in the sky. It appeared, however, that the U. S. raids against the MIG airfields which started last month -- three of the six MIG bases have now been bombed -- have not appreciably weakened North Vietnam's fledgling air force of about 120 planes.

The United States claims that between 9 and 15 Red jets were destroyed in the bombings.

U.S. headquarters disclosed that Communist forces dug in along the demilitarized zone frontier of North Vietnam were continuing to bring new weapons into the area. Two new types of artillery pieces were among the guns which shelled U.S. positions just below the DMZ Friday.

Shelling the Army-Marine artillery base at Gio Linh and the Marine camp at Con Thien, Red mortars and artillery shells killed one Marine and wounded 24 Friday.

A few miles further south in Quang Nam province, more Marines were reported in a heavy battle Friday and Saturday with an enemy force holding a rugged ridgeline.

An Immortal Inheritance

By Brigadier Christine E. McMillan (R).

Tens of thousands of Americans went abroad this summer. A computation of the cumulative hours of preparation from the first moments spent paring over travel folders to the last minute instructions to the paper boy and the milkman would be staggering.

Lists are made of what to take, and how much. And it's usually too much! Lists of friends and relatives to be looked up -- lists, lists, lists. On and on it goes until the inexperienced and harried would - be traveler wonders if "this trip is really necessary."

Curiously enough, while we make necessary and adequate preparation for most of what we must face in life, the final destination of the soul rarely enters into the calculations of the average man -- religionist or not.

Someone said a long time ago, "A dialogue between two infants in the womb concerning the state of the world, might handsomely illustrate our ignorance of the next." This distaste for considering the future life of the soul may partly be due to the distorted image we have received through biblical descriptions which use Oriental imagery to describe the glories of Heaven.

Streets of gold, jeweled gates, robes and harps and strange shapes and figures make little impression upon 20th century western man.

Unable to accept the image so incongruous to the mind, we now adopt an attitude of indifference, preferring not to think at all of that which is beyond man's imagination.

Another obstacle is the challenge implicit in a belief in a future life. To believe in an ongoing life of the soul requires that one should sow to the spirit and bring forth the fruits of the spirit, and this endeavor does not fit in somehow with the claims and pressures, the selfish involvements and goals of modern life.

When those we love die, it is difficult for us to think of them in any other way save that they are removed from life, and between them and us is fixed a great gulf which widens with the years. The "communion of saints," once so comforting a phrase, is to most merely a phrase, beautiful but scarcely to be entertained as a spiritual reality.

The deep, abiding conviction that this life is only the training ground for another and better life, enters nowhere into the consideration of most men and women in the world today.

The Christian who is seeking to know God, His nature and what is the relation of the soul to its Maker and Giver, knows in the depths of his spirit that "there is something within us that can be without us and will be after us."

There are moments in the life of every man when the obscuring mists part and a glimpse is received of "that which is above and beyond," a swift dart of shining truth, which is beyond reason, to which the soul responds instantly and completely.

The commandment is not, "only think" or "only reason," says Osler. The only enduring enlightenment is through faith. "Only believe" and "he that believeth" are the commandments with strength and comfort.

Sensing The News

THE MOB SPIRIT

The worsening of the climate of violence, anarchy and civil disobedience was grimly apparent in recent days in several sections of the country. The rapid breakdown of law and order and of public safety and private decency could well become a prime issue in the next presidential campaign.

In California, a band of ruffians who call themselves Black Panthers knocked over sergeants at arms and invaded the California legislature while it was in session. The invaders carried with them a variety of loaded weapons, including sawed - off shotguns. The leaders of the group broke into the proceedings of the legislature and shouted insults.

In New Hamsphire, former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, who had been invited to speak at Dartmouth College, was forced off the speaking platform by a gang of roughnecks. Approximately a thousand students then surrounded him in his automobile, rocked it, and came close to injuring him. Mr. Wallace showed remarkable coolness in a dangerous situation, but he rightly pointed out that the kind of "academic freedom" displayed by the Dartmouth students could get one killed. The editor of the Dartmouth student newspaper said of the incident, which came close to resembling a lynching party: "I am ashamed." Indeed the entire administration and student body of the famous old "liberal arts" college should feel shame for what took place.

In Kentucky, radical demonstrators threatened to disrupt the historic Kentucky Derby if they did not get their way on "open housing" demands, and forced the governor to call out National Guardsmen to preserve the peace.

In New Jersey, a radical protest group based in Rockester, N. Y., and known as FIGHT (Freedom, Integration, God, Honor -- Today) conducted a huge demonstration against Eastman Kodak Company, one of the country's model employers and most progressive business enterprises.

The demonstration took place at the company's annual meeting, and 100 state policemen were needed to contain demonstrators who had been recruited at Cornell, Princeton and other colleges. The leader of FIGHT, the Rev. Franklin D. Roosevelt Florence, vowed to war against Kodak until demands for exclusive control over hiring of unskilled workers had been met. In a speech at the company session, he gave stockholders a one - hour ultimatum to bow to FIGHT's demands. Fortunately, the stockholders refused to pay heed to this.

These and other developments around the country point to a situation which is getting out of hand. Lawless, contemptuous elements in the country believe they have free rein to do what they want to disturb the peace. Not only do they want to trample on the rights of the majority, but they want to have police protection while they go on a rampage of disorderly behavior. For example, when Gen. William C. Westmoreland received an honorary degree from the University of South Carolina -- his native state -- the ceremony was rudely interrupted. A handful of demonstrators later were indignant that they had not been protected in their protest by state police.

Unless the disorderly protest minority is curbed in this country, life may become intolerable to decent, respectable citizens and responsible businesses. The California legislature may not be the last to be invaded by armed groups. Traditionally, this has been a tolerant country. Americans sensibly have realized that every nation has a tiny element of kooks who haye to be humored a little. But there is a limit on just toleration. The small group of oddballs -- the lunatic fringe in American life -- cannot be allowed to ride roughshod over the laws or to create a kind of epidemic of disorder.

This is the real danger. No doubt the students at Dartmouth College are generally good citizens. It is likely that the vast majority were caught up in the fever of excitement created by a small cadre of disruptionists. That's the way all mobs work: the few incite the many, and terrorism and tragedy results. To prevent mob rule in this country, on the campus and off, will require some stern leadership in public office, the press, the bar, and in the pulpit. Those clergymen who have involved themselves in demonstrations bear an especially heavy responsibility for what is taking place. They should examine their consciences, and wake up to the necessity for upholding law and decency.
